Former Sen. Melton honored at Roaring River State Park

Charlea Mills

During a special ceremony on Saturday morning, former State Senator Emory Melton was honored by the Missouri State Parks and Governor Jay Nixon with a framed copy of the article written about Melton's experiences at Roaring River as part of "State Parks Stories." Melton was interviewed as part of the project to give publicity to Missouri State Parks and encourage people to visit them.

The article called, "Emory Melton, still a park patron at 90" was featured in many newspapers across the state, including the Columbia Tribune and the Springfield News-Leader.

During the presentation, both State Senator David Sater and State Representative Scott Fitzpatrick shared memories and stories about Melton. Fitzpatrick said, "Sen. Melton is a national treasure. Every time I see him out, he's sharing another story about the county or the park here. It just amazes me how much he knows and shares with the community."

Sen. Sater stated, "This park is such a beautiful park thanks to the many people who work here, but also in large part to Emory. I'm so proud to have known him all of these years."

Bill Bryan, Missouri State Parks Director, presented the framed copy of the article at the Emory Inn and Conference Center at the park. Bryan said, "Governor Nixon asked us to frame and display this at Roaring River State Park so that all of the park patrons can learn a little more about Cassville and the surrounding area."

Gov. Nixon's statement that he sent read, "Emory Melton has provided a lifetime of service to his community and his state through his efforts as a legislator, attorney, author and historian. The State of Missouri owes him a debt of gratitude for his continuous support of Roaring River State Park and his work to bring awareness to the treasures found within the park's boundaries. For generations, Missourians and visitors have enjoyed all the park has to offer, and it is with appreciation for the contribution of Senator Melton that we make sure his efforts are recognized for many years to come."

When Sen. Melton accepted the framed article, which will be displayed at the entrance to the restaurant at the Inn, he stated, "It's really humbling to have a state recognition like this, and I really appreciate it." He went on to share some of his memories and recollections of the history of the park and Barry County.

Stella man pleads guilty to sex crime with minor

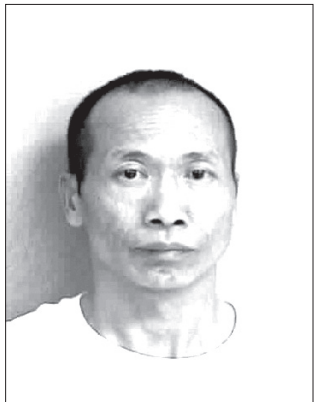

Charlea Mills

Tony Yang, 45, of Stella, pled guilty last week to taking a 15 year-old girl from Minnesota and bringing her to Missouri for sex. Yang pleaded guilty to the charge of transporting a minor across state lines for illicit sex, according to a statement released by Tammy Dickinson, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri.

Yang was indicted by a federal grand jury on January 21. He entered his guilty plea at the U.S. District Court in Springfield to the charge. Yang admitted to picking up the 15-year-old on December 7 in a statement in court before U.S. Magistrate Judge David Rush.

Yang described the details leading up to the exchange. After sending her a Facebook friend request, he asked the girl to come live with him in Missouri where he owned his own business. The girl went to her mother's home to retrieve some of her personal effects before she asked him to come pick her up on December 6.

Yang then picked the girl up in front of her mother's home after she snuck out and transported her across state lines back to Missouri. The

The case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Patrick Carney. It was investigated by the Cassville Police Department, the Neosho Police Department, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI).

Yang faces a mandatory minimum ten years in federal prison without parole, up to life imprisonment and a fine of up to $1 million. ## Exeter caboose sold, moved for restoration

A special crane was on site Thursday to move the caboose after being sold to the Frisco Railway and Modeling Society.

Charlea Mills

A familiar sight on Front Street in Exeter is now gone after the City Council decided to sell the historic caboose residing there since the late 1980s.

The Exeter City Council was approached by Paul Slevens, member of the Frisco Railway Historical and Modeling Society. According to Slevens, members of their group, that connects mostly online, had made suggestions to try and purchase the caboose for a number of years. Finally, the group decided to make an offer. Myrna Fischer, Exeter City Clerk, said, "We weren't looking to sell it, but when they came looking, it was placed on a semi trailer and moved to Tulsa, Okla., where the it will be restored. The group of members donated to this cause privately to make the purchase happen. Exeter received an offer of $11,300 for the initial purchase, but Slevens says they will invest around $75,000 total by the time everything is complete.

Slevens stated, "We've hired a bunch of different people to do the work on it. One group is replacing the glass, another is sand-blasting and so forth." The caboose will eventually be used as part of a tourist ride in Baldwin City, Kansas. The pleasure ride is 18 miles and back for train enthusiasts. The group anticipates the caboose will be used in the next May through October tourist season in 2015. Slevens stated, "Everything is going smoothly, so we think it'll be completed by May."

While many in the community were sad to see the caboose go, Fischer offered her perspective, "Only five of these cabooses are in existence today. This way it will be back in use and restored to what it should be."

For more information about the Frisco Historical Railway Historical and Modeling Society, see their website at <http://www.frisco.org>. You can also track the progress being made on the former Exeter caboose.

brought up the discussion." Fischer continued, "The caboose was given to the City, but we were responsible for upkeep. It was going to be quite a bit to make the repairs it needed just for maintenance." The caboose was originally gifted by the Burlington Northern Railway. The end result was the City Council approving the transaction during their April 9 meeting.

Frisco made arrangements to have the caboose picked up last Thursday. It

Gen. Assembly overrides Governor veto

Charlea Mills

The General Assembly voted to override Governor Jay Nixon's veto of income tax cutting Senate Bill 509 on Tuesday morning. The governor had been a harsh critic of the bill which local legislators Representative Scott Fitzpatrick and Senator David Sater were both in favor. Both voted in favor of the override.

SB 509 is a five phase income tax cut that will affect all Missourians who pay taxes and eliminate income tax for those earning less than $9,000 annually. In order for each phase to take effect, the income tax revenue must increase by $150 million. At each phase, the income tax will be cut by $120 million, still netting the state $30 million in revenue extra each year, but slowing the growth of revenue while the phases take effect.

Gov. Nixon stated, "While [SB 509]'s many authors may have delayed its impact, Senate Bill 509 remains a very real threat to principles of fiscal discipline that have helped us maintain our spotless AAA rating for decades. As I have from day one, I will continue to manage the budget with the resources available and keep our state moving forward." No tax cuts will take effect until Gov. Nixon is out of office.

Roaring River preps for Kids' Fishing Day

Charlea Mills

Roaring River State Park will be the familiar site of Kids' Fishing Day again on May 17. The event, hosting by the Park and sponsored by the Missouri Department of Conservation, Department of Natural Resources and a variety of local organizations and businesses, will offer free fishing to kids that come for the family event from all over. This year, fishing begins again at 6:30 a.m. and continues until 8:15 p.m.

All children 15 and under can fish for free during the day with a helper. Kids can pick up their free trout tags on Friday, May 15, at the hatchery office or any time during the event on Saturday. For kids needing a little extra help, parents or volunteers at the park can assist in helping them to catch their trout that day. As usual, adults will not be allowed to fish in the areas designated for kids during the event.

This year, Kids' Fishing Day will have a large offering of educational classes and learning opportunities on Saturday. Old favorites will return along with a few new classes designed to stimulate the outdoors spirit in everyone. Some classes will focus on educational topics like snake identification, fish identification and physiology, and how to operate a fish hatchery. Other classes include outdoor photography with park superintendent Kerry Hays, dutch oven camping cooking by Dr. Larry Quinalty, and taxidermy 101. Fish cleaning, fly fishing, tying flies and more will also be offered during the day. Class schedules will be available the day of the event.

If you would like to volunteer to help the day of the event or need more information, call the Roaring River Hatchery at (417) 847-2430 or email paul.spurgeon@mdc.mo.gov. Volunteers do not need to be experienced fishermen to help out that day.

Did you know?

Landscape fabrics are used to prevent weed growth while still allowing air, oxygen and water to flow to and from the soil. Landscape fabrics are a chemical-free way to prevent weed growth, endearing them to eco-friendly homeowners. Landscape fabrics, once laid, also are a far less labor-intensive method to prevent weed growth, as they can be effective for several years, during which homeowners can expect to perform little or no maintenance. In addition, many homeowners prefer landscape fabrics because they can help the soil effectively maintain moisture during dry periods, when gardens might otherwise be highly susceptible to drought. Once put down, landscape fabric can be covered with mulch to add aesthetic appeal.

Family permaculture farm on a mission to healthily feed community

Charlie Phaneuf shows a black locust tree planted purposefully alongside some garden beds. He explained, "This gives all of this nitrogen into the soil, then when it's about six inches in diameter, I'll cut it off, and it'll be a fence post."

Charlea Mills

The Phaneuf family spends most of their day working in their gardens, feeding their animals and spending time together in their small country home just outside of Cassville. However, stepping on to their farm is an education; every single element has a purpose and works together for the bigger picture.

The proper term for their way of living is known as permaculture: a movement to care for people, care for the earth, and provide a fair share to the community. The principal being that the permaculture system are to use nature with nature to support everyone's way of life and provide better food in a chemical-free way that is eco-friendly. Charlie Phaneuf is the driving force behind their farm, a certified permaculture designer who puts his principles to work on the land. Charlie said, "Everything works together in a relationship. Companion planting is when one plant will give nitrogen to its neighbor that needs it, and then you grow enough to share." Sharing in their way of farming means people, and animals. Charlie continued, "Sure, that bird might eat some of your strawberries, but they are eating pests, too."

Charlie and his wife, Elaine, care for their small farm with their two children, Charlie, 4, and Elisabeth, 14. The family moved to Barry County in 2005 from Delaware, seeking a lifestyle that all of them would thrive in on a small farm. When they visited the Ozarks, they knew it would be their new home.

Charlie held a variety of jobs, learning the value of hard work that has helped him on all facets of his life on the farm. Eventually, he worked his way up to director of maintenance at a hospital, a job that he knew he had to give up to fulfill their family dreams, even if they weren't so sure of what that was yet. He said, "I was completely separated from what I wanted to do [when I was working at the hospital] even though I didn't know what that was yet."

The more Charlie and Elaine researched permaculture, the more convinced they became of the benefits. Then they were faced with a choice. Elaine shared, "Charlie really wanted to take this two week permaculture class in Illinois, but the hospital would only let him take one week of vacation at a time. So he quit."

Charlie's experience in Illinois would launch them into their farm full force. He said, "It was life-changing. I knew that this is what I had to do. I had to show people an alternative to growing food for themselves the way they'd known." The goal on the farm is for the Phaneufs to learn through applying permaculture principles and passing that knowledge on to others.

As the Phaneufs set up their farm, Charlie repurposed as many things as he could in the process. The greenhouse that the family uses to start their seedlings in Charlie fashioned from an awning that was going to be sold for scrap at the hospital he worked at. Charlie said as soon as he saw the frame, he knew he could use it. He paid the hospital the same they would have gotten from the salvage yard and gave it a new use. Elaine said, "Charlie looks at a pile of junk, and he sees potential. Most people don't see that."

From there, the family made plans to garden in an environment-friendly way and offer that food for others. They decided to start offering Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) shares, a popular idea especially in bigger cities where people might not have space to garden for themselves. A CSA share allows customers to buy in to the farm crops for a season. For $500, members will receive a 3/4 bushel of a variety of vegetables each week for 20 weeks during the year. The cost averages out to $25 a week for a large quantity of food and ends up being better than what one would pay locally for produce.

An old awning became a greenhouse on the family farm where most of their plants have been started from seeds.

Charlie said, "Everyone needs this food and income should have nothing to do with it." All of the food grown on the farm is natural, pesticide and herbicide-free. Along with the share of veggies and fruits each week, CSA members also have the opportunity to buy overrun before the Phaneufs sell it at the Farmers' Market.

The family will have over 60 varieties of produce to offer this year in their CSA shares including peas, tomatoes, strawberries, beans, melons, squash, onions, potatoes and the list goes on.

The family is excited about offering their best to people in the community. Charlie said, "I had someone come up and tell me that I would be charging so much more for the food by selling it at the Farmers' Market, but I want people to be able to afford quality food. I want to grow the best quality, safest foods and also be affordable for people in the Cassville, Eagle Rock and surrounding areas."

For those interested in a CSA share or what more information about the Phaneuf Permaculture Farm, their website is Phaneufs-Farm.com and by phone at (417) 846-0108. The CSA shares are available on a customer's schedule for pick up or the family will deliver to any location with four or more members wanting to pick up there. Deliveries will begin in late May and will run until mid-October.

Purdy's 5th annual community concert

The fifth annual Purdy Community Fundraiser, co-sponsored by the Purdy High School Spanish Club and the Purdy Renewal Project, was held on Saturday, April 12. Audience members were wowed by school staff and student groups, featuring a wide variety of musical styles including classic country, beat box, Motown, movie soundtracks, acoustic guitar, pop, saxophone, harmonica and oldies. The event garnered approximately $200 in donations, which will help fund the purchase of new playground equipment for the Purdy Park. Organizers and musicians would like to thank Charlie Fletcher for providing the sound system for the evening and for accompanying many of the performances on his harmonica.

Event organizer Gerry Wass noted, "The concert and the preparation for it became part of the best memories of my years here at Purdy, and I remember deeply how we affected our audience, and what they told us about our performance. I am excited to announce another opportunity for people to enjoy the music presented at the concert. We have been invited to participate in this year's Purdy Festival, which will be held on July 19. Come out and hear some fabulous and very diverse music!"

Willis Insurance expands in Shell Knob

Willis Insurance celebrated joining the Shell Knob Chamber of Commerce with a ribbon cutting ceremony after purchasing Shell Knob Insurance Agency from retiring Ray Ritchey.

On Friday of last week, the Shell Knob Chamber of Commerce held a ribbon cutting for the Willis Insurance staff and family. Shell Knob Insurance, owned by Ray Ritchey, was sold to the Willis Agency on April 1. The new owners wanted to celebrate the retirement of Ray Ritchey and his 43 years in the insurance business and introduce the community to their staff. The team of Bob Allen, Annette Henderson, Devon Henderson, Jeremy Marple, and Mark Smith plan to offer Shell Knob a broad spectrum of service in homeowners, auto, boat commercial insurance, health and life. Paula Andersen, who has five years with the Shell Knob office will continue to serve in the Shell Knob office as customer service representative and agent.

Over 100 attended the event. Visitors signed a memory book for Ray Ritchey and shared stories of how Ray had saved them money with their insurance or solved financial problems for them.

When interviewed, Annette Henderson and Jeremy

Marple shared how warm the visitors were in their welcome to the community. The Chamber Director, Karen Elsey, stated that this was the largest Ribbon Cutting in the history of the Shell Knob Chamber. Policy holders are encouraged to stop in and take a look at the new additions in technology and decor to the office.

Find It Again Antiques celebrates one year mark

Store employees Tammy Smallwood and Betty Brandt spend their time helping customers find treasures.

Samantha Barberio

Local antique and flea market store, Find it Again, is celebrating its one year anniversary on Saturday, May 10. The celebration will be hosted at the store on East Broadway Street in Monett. A lunch will be served from 11 p.m. until 1 p.m. including hot dogs, drinks, cake and cookies. Everyone is welcome to join the event.

Find it Again is owned and operated by Jackie and Janice Harris. Their vision is to offer the community many unique items such as depression glassware, clothing, homemade furniture, vintage items etc. The store hosts over 100 showcases and booths with varying merchandise to offer customers. "I enjoy my job because I get to meet new people who come into the store and visit with them. It's also amazing to see different unusual items that you don't see every day, some of the items are 100-150 years old," states Jackie Harris, he also enjoys the workmanship that goes into these unique pieces found in the store.

Harris ran a grocery store in Purdy during 1979 and 1980, and expresses the differences he's experienced now owning Find it Again. "Your inventory changes every day," stated Harris, "It's a fun business to be in, and a fun thing to do." He has also had a positive response from the community over the past year. Many people visit the store who reside in Monett, however, the store has become well known and has experienced many customers from out of town.

The store is open Monday through Saturday 9:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and Sunday 12:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. If you're interested in renting a booth or finding out more about the store contact 417-354-0058 or visit Find it Again at 410 E Broadway Street in Monett.

Golden man sentenced for resisting arrest

Samantha Barberio

A resist for an arrest took place in Golden on a dead end farm road in the presence of Deputy Kerry Headrick. Deputy Headrick was dispatched to the area in regard to complaints that a large white passenger car was speeding back and forth on Farm Road 1045, and had been doing so for the past hour.

When he arrived in the area he soon located the white Mercury Grand Marquis stopped at the dead-end. He then activated his emergency lights, and the vehicle sped away up a driveway then proceeding to drive over a ditch into a wooded area. Deputy Headrick then pursued the vehicle on foot catching up as it stopped at an abandoned trailer house.

The driver, who was later identified as Justin Roberts, stepped out of the vehicle but refused the demands made by Headrick to get onto the ground. Headrick was able to use force in order to get Roberts detained. He was then charged with a class A misdemeanor of resisting or interfering with an arrest or lawful stop. This resulted in 90 days incarceration in the Barry County Jail; he later received an execution of sentence suspended and must serve one year unsupervised probation.

Cassville trims Aurora, 2-1; seniors honored

Lee Stubblefield

The Cassville Wildcats have struggled of late, and entered Tuesday's Senior Night contest against Aurora with a 7-11 overall record. Marcus Weatherman, Cassville's lone senior in uniform, twirled a complete game gem and led his club to a 2-1 victory at Wildcat Field.

Aurora's Zac Shoemaker took a tough loss for the Houn Dawgs. Shoemaker matched Weatherman inning for inning after surrendering two early runs. But the Aurora offense could not solve Weatherman in critical at-bats, and the Houns stranded nine baserunners in the contest.

Weatherman struck out Billy Meredith to start the game, and drew a routine fly from Kaleb Baker. But the easy inning evaporated when an error, a single, and a walk loaded the bases. Cassville's big righthander responded though, mowing down Eric Shoenberger with three blazing fastballs to keep the Houns scoreless.

The Wildcats jumped on Shoemaker in the home half of the first frame. Alex Dyer reached on a bloop single and advanced a base on Leigh Cox's sacrifice bunt. Noah Hadlow singled, and the first and third became a run and Hadlow standing on second when the Aurora infield let the ball escape into the Cassville dugout.

With the wind whipping the fabric on the outfield fence, Chase Jackson flied to right with two outs, and the breeze turned a routine out into an error and another run for the Wildcats.

Cassville held a 2-0 lead before the late-arriving home crowd was settled in.

Leadoff batter Payton Evans reached on an error to start Aurora's second inning, but Weatherman retired the next three hitters on a sac bunt and two fly balls. Shoemaker answered in the bottom half of the inning by striking out the side.

The third inning passed with no runs, but Aurora finally hung a positive number on the scoreboard in the top of the fourth. Evans plinked a one-out single, then Baker's groundball became a Wildcat error as Aurora filled bases one and two. Tanner Schmidt lined a rocket in the hole between short and second base, but Hadlow saved a run with his diving stab of the one-hopper.

With one out and the bases loaded, Meredith hit into a fielder's choice to plate Evans, and the score read 2-1 in favor of Cassville.

Aurora would not get a runner into scoring position the rest of the way as Weatherman seemed to grow stronger as the game wore on. But the Wildcats could not score either, even when they filled the bases with no outs in the sixth inning.

With a precarious one-run lead, Weatherman faced the top of the Aurora lineup in the top of the seventh inning. Meredith tagged an 0-1 fastball into a 5-3 groundout, and then Baker went down swinging on four pitches as Weatherman recorded his seventh strikeout.

Patrick Wheeler worked the count against Weatherman, and finally earned a walk in a nine-pitch plate appearance.

With the tying run at first base, Jacob Woody hit a rainbow to left field. Fisher raced in from his deep defensive position, fighting the sun and the wind, and made a remarkable catch in the midst of a hook slide across the outfield turf to end the game.

The Wildcats improved to 8-11 on the season and are ready to build some momentum as they draw closer to district play.

Mayor proclaims National Drug Court month

On Thursday, May 1, Cassville Mayor Bill Shiveley made a proclamation that the month of May be designated National Drug Court Month in honor of the 25th anniversary of the nation's first Drug Court program. Drug Courts are now recognized as the most successful criminal justice intervention in the nation's history and they save up to $27 for every $1 invested and produce up to $13,000 for every individual they serve. Statistics state that 75 percent of Drug Court graduates will never be arrested again and the programs significantly improve substance abuse treatment outcomes, reduce drug abuse and crime and do so with less expense than any other justice strategy.

THE CLEAR ALTERNATIVE TO BRACES

The low-down
You no longer have to straighten your teeth the old-fashioned way, with metal braces. The Invisalign Teen™ system lets you do it the modern, hygienic way. Your new smile is created with the most innovative technology – a series of clear aligners that are custom-fit to your teeth.

The Aligners. . .

- snap on your teeth easily.
- are comfortable and practically invisible.
- allow for your growing permanent teeth.
- gently and continuously move your teeth in small increments.
- are worn for about two weeks. Then you swap them for a new pair.
- have a Blue Dot Wear Indicator; designed to show an estimation of wear-time. The dot is designed to fade to clear over a two-week period if you wear (20 to 22 hours everyday) your aligners properly.
- can be removed for eating, brushing, and flossing, or going to a special event.

Cut With Care.

Electric power tools make quick work of lawn and garden chores that otherwise could take all day. But be sure you go slowly enough to pay attention to electrical safety as you work.

Keep electrical cords in good repair, and make sure they don't get in the way of cutting tools that could damage the cords and create a dangerous situation. Also, remember that electric tools and cords must never come into contact with water.

TrueCare joins Shell Knob Chamber

On Thursday, May 1, there was a Shell Knob Chamber of Commerce ribbon cutting at the newly renovated TrueCare Assisted Living facility that drew a lot of attention and a large crowd. The facility received new paint, electrical wiring, safety additions, and décor items to create a venue that is inviting and comfortable for residents and visitors. Over 120 individuals enjoyed the hospitality that the staff offered. Cutting the red ribbon at the grand opening was President and COO, Mark Maxfield; Sheila House, Facility Manager; Pat Bingly, Chamber President; and a dozen chamber board members.

Manager Sheila House stated, "The facility is state of the art and a flagship facility in the state of Missouri. Once we complete our second phase of licensure, we will be able to accommodate 68. TrueCare Assisted Living and Memory Care is tailored to the senior citizen who hesitated in moving out of their home. We have placed an emphasis on interiors that have a home-like look and family feel." Mark Maxfield, president and COO of TrueCare and The Cottages in Eagle, Idaho, shared, "The thing that drew us to this area is the atmosphere of a warm and caring community. One that cares about people and their well-being. Volunteerism is the fuel that makes this town go, and that means a lot to older citizens. Our facility is willing to provide the same care that families do for their loved ones. Our staff is and experienced and trained to handle any situation."

Southwest FBLA goes to State Conference

Members of the Southwest R-5 High School Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) Chapter recently attended the 2014 FBLA State Leadership Conference held in Columbia April 12 through 14 at the Holiday Inn Executive Center Hotel.

FBLA is a Career and Technical Student Organization (CTSO) for all high school students in the United States enrolled in business programs. Delegates representing Southwest in competition were Carl Short in E-Business and Zachary Wolfe in Computer Problem Solving and Cybersecurity. Voting delegates to the State Convention were Victoria Williams and Baylea Ford. Others attending were Hayley Hendrix, Darcie Colunga, Khalib Jordan and Sydney Delossantos. While no one is moving on to National competition, competing at the State level is quite an achievement.

In addition to competing, Sophomore Carl Short was also awarded the third level of Business Achievement Awards in Leadership. Carl was required to job shadow, perform community service and complete many tasks related to business leadership. Most members achieving this award require two to three years, but Carl completed all levels in just one short year.

Following the conference, the group stopped by the Capital Building in Jefferson City and were treated to a personal tour by State Representative Scott Fitzpatrick and his assistant Marti Dupuis, complete with photos on the Missouri Senate Floor. Several of the students were invited to job shadow with Senator Fitzpatrick, an incredible opportunity with more information to follow.

Vicki Irsik, Chapter Advisor, and Liz Wolfe accompanied the students to the conference.
