Sater's abortion waiting period bill passed

Charlea Mills

Missouri women seeking an abortion could face a 72-hour waiting period after Cassville's Senator David Sater's abortion waiting period bill was approved by both the House and Senate last week.

The bill adds to Missouri's already competitively comprehensive abortion laws by requiring women seeking an abortion to wait 72 hours between when they have an initial consultation with the physician performing the procedure and when the procedure is actually done. Currently, women must wait 24 hours before the procedure. They are also provided informational material about the risks of an abortion, how it is going to be performed, and contact information for adoption agencies and groups who help with pregnancy and newborn needs. Women are also given the opportunity to see an ultrasound of the baby and hear its heartbeat, if audible. If Gov. Nixon signs the bill into law, Missouri will join two other states, Utah and South Dakota, in having the three-day waiting period.

Sen. Sater stated, "This is an important victory for unborn children in Missouri. Three days is not unreasonable or an undue burden in deciding whether to bring a child into this world." The House version of the bill was sponsored by Representative Kevin Elmer of Nixa and Representative Keith Frederick of Rolla as companions to the bill prefiled by Sater before the legislative session began.

Roaring River State Park Kids' Fishing Day reels in a crowd

Luke Jones, of Pittsburg, Kan., cast his line like a pro in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Charlea Mills

Roaring River State Park was filled with children of all ages on Saturday for their annual spring Kids' Fishing Day. The park gave out 1,107 free kids tags to those who showed up to cast their lines on a chilly day at the park.

Paul Spurgeon, Roaring River Hatchery Manager, said that the hatchery staff stocked the kids' hole with 2,500 trout averaging 12-1/2 inches in preparation for Saturday's big day. They also threw in 100 lunkers, trout ranging from three to six pounds, for kids to try their skill at catching, as well.

Both boys and girls alike lined up along the banks to try to catch their limit. This year, the largest fish was caught by John Young, of Oswego, with a 6.08 pound fish. On the girls' side was Mackenzie Linder, of Paola, with a 5.26 pounder.

Spurgeon stated, "I think it was a really successful day for what the weather was. It finally got up to 60 degrees around 1 p.m., but it was a chilly morning."

This year's events brought favorites like the dutch oven cooking demonstration, an outdoor photography class, bow and air rifle shooting and many other displays. There were also wildlife classes on snakes, a taxidermy demonstration and activities for kids of all ages. Around 97 people braved the chilly day and volunteered to make this year's event successful.

Roaring River State Park puts on the event each year in conjunction with the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Missouri Conservation Department and a variety of local businesses. The next Kids' Fishing Day will be held at the park on August 16 just in time for kids to head back to school at the end of summer break.

One sign creates a big fuss in Cassville

Charlea Mills

For one business, trying to put up a new sign has turned into a six month ordeal due to Cassville's regulations.

Rick Steiner, the manager at Cassville Bowl, has been trying to get approval to put up a new sign at the bowling alley since November, and as of May's City Council meeting, he still isn't able to. Steiner said, "Putting up a new sign has been a lot of passing back and forth because no one seems to know what to do."

The sign in question would be an LED addition to the iconic Cassville Bowl bowling ball and pin sign mounted beside the parking lot. Steiner said, "At first, the City wasn't sure what I should do because it was an LED sign, then it's been one thing after another."

Manager Rick Steiner hopes to mount an LED sign to advertise specials and events below the Cassville Bowl sign that has been there since 1961.

Council members voiced concern at the last two regular City Council meetings about the addition of the sign because the current Cassville

SIGN from front.

Bowl sign does not meet the current City standards. The bowling alley is located in a C-2 commercial district, which does not allow pole signs of any kind, and also limits signs to a maximum height of 10 feet. Cassville Bowl's sign is over 16 feet from the ground, making it a non-conforming sign for its district. Leaving the sign as it is isn't the problem as the sign is grandfathered in due to it being within code when it was originally erected in 1961 when the alley opened, but there is debate as to whether adding an LED sign would be modifying it, which would be against code unless the sign is lowered by over six feet.

Steiner said, "I don't mean to criticize the council at all, I think they're all really conscientious about their jobs. I just think they were unprepared with how to deal with this."

When Steiner initially contacted the City about putting up the LED sign, he was directed to Planning and Zoning. From there, it's been an issue bouncing back and forth between the City Council and Planning and Zoning. Initially, Steiner said that planning and zoning thought they needed an ordinance that allowed LED signs, now he has been directed to get a special use permit. At May's City Council meeting, Alderman

Ann Hennigan attempted to get the other council members to allow Steiner to put up the sign that he has already purchased. She stated, "I really feel like he's waited long enough." However, Alderman Terry A. Heinz voiced his concerns. Heinz stated, "I believe we all took an oath of office to uphold the laws of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Cassville. If we try to bend the rules for this, I feel we should all walk away from our positions." Heinz went on, "It is my contention that you'll have to lower the sign to ten feet before we can approve this."

Steiner replied, "I don't want to circumvent the system or your oath of office, but I'm not going to change that sign. Why would you ask me to do that or why would you ask any business to do that?"

During an interview, Steiner explained, "This place and the sign out front has been here 50 some years. That's why I want to keep the sign the way it is. The older you get, the more you value your things, or at least I do. You don't like throwing things away, you fix them." Along with that same line of thinking, Steiner has left many things in the alley original, including the wood lanes, pin setters, ball returns and lockers.

Steiner went on, "Why anyone would even suggest that I alter or chop that down? I just can't imagine it."

At the request of the Council, Steiner filled out all of the necessary paperwork they've asked for regarding his sign, but he still hasn't received a clear answer to move forward. The next Planning and Zoning meeting will be held on June 6, and Steiner plans to be there. He hopes that something will be decided that can be presented to the Letter to the Editor

On Friday, May 9, I went out to the cemetery in Exeter to kind of talk to my son and husband who are buried there. I had purchased four solar lilies to put on their graves several months ago, and I would stop once in a while and talk to them.

When I went out there, the lilies had been stolen. I really feel sorry for someone who would steal even a plastic flower from a grave. I hope they have a nice time looking at something they took from my son and husband's grave.

I hope you print this so that others can share my hurt heart. I miss both of them very much. We would have been married for 63 years had he not passed away only four years ago. It is lonely at times with both of them gone. Thanks for listening.

WILLIAM "BILL" L. PIGUE
On Friday, May 16, Bill completed his journey on planet earth to be with "our father who art in heaven" during his stay at the K.C. Hospice House on Wornall. Bill was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., on April 8, 1929, to Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Pigue. Bill joined the Army in 1947 and served in the 11th Airborne as a paratrooper, tracked vehicle repair and maintenance and finished his army career as Sergeant First Class with combat Arms Detachment, 1802nd Special Regiment in instruction at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York. During his years with the Army, Bill met Jane Hudson of Eureka Springs, Arkansas, and they were married on June 4, 1950, while Bill was stationed at

Obituaries
Fort Knox, Ky. After retirement from the Army, Bill and Jane moved to the Kansas City area to be near family, after living in Independence for many years, Bill and Jane settled in Greenwood, Mo. Bill became a self taught gunsmith and when he was not repairing guns for the Independence Police and Jackson County Sheriff's departments, Bill would build custom deer rifles with amazing hand carvings that were highly sought after. During the 80's and early 90's, Bill worked with his son in the family owned Pigue's Pro Bass where he would hand weave beautiful designs in custom fishing rods. After the store closed, Bill went to school to learn how to build golf clubs, and like his fishing rods and custom gun building, the golf clubs were a big hit until the time came where his health made it difficult to continue. Bill loved hunting, fishing, and golf and was lucky enough to make a hole-in-one at Teetering Rocks golf course in 1993. Bill was truly blessed with an incredible ability and excelled at everything he touched. Bill was a loving husband, amazing father and true friend to many. One of Bill's greatest gifts was he never said a bad word about anyone, ever. Bill was married to the love of his life, Jane, for 63 years and they enjoyed many trips to Europe, Egypt, and their favorite destination was the Holy lands. Bill was preceded in death by his parents and younger brother. Bill is survived by his wife, Jane Pigue of Greenwood; brother, Karl Koeninger; son, Tim Pigue of Greenwood; son and daughter-in-law, William and Judy Pigue of Raytown; son, Bob Pigue and fiancé, Carol Dolt, of Lee's Summit; daughter and son-in-law, Fred and Sue Thomas of Cassville. Bill will be missed by grandchildren, Lori Glaspie and her husband, Nathan, Chris Pigue, Mackenzie Marchant, and Abby Hutcheson. Bill was loved by best friends, Curtis and Phyllis Brobisky, and many nieces, nephews, and friends. Visitation will be from 12-2 p.m. with funeral service starting at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church of Lee's Summit at 2 NE Douglas St. in Lee's Summit on Thurs., May 22, 2014, followed by burial at Lee's Summit cemetery. In lieu of flowers, the family would appreciate donations to the KC Hospice House on Wornall who did a wonderful job on helping Bill and family when Bill needed help the most. Online condolences may

If I Could Have A Lifetime Wish
If we could have a lifetime wish
A dream that would come true,
We'd pray to God with all our hearts
For Yesterday and You.
A thousand words can't bring you back
We know because we've tried...
Neither will a thousand tears
We know because we've cried...
You left behind our broken hearts
And happy memories too...
But we never wanted memories
We only wanted you.

Southwest students prep for Washington D.C. trip

Charlea Mills

Two Southwest students are headed to Washington D.C. after winning the Youth Tour essay contest sponsored by Barry Electric Co-operative. The pair will join over 1,500 other students on the trip.

Kallie Bowman and Chase Logan, both juniors, wrote 500 word essays about where they see themselves in ten years for the contest. Out of students from both Southwest and Exeter High Schools, the pair were chosen for first and second place, earning an all-expenses paid trip to Washington D.C. to see a variety of historical sites and also be honored.

The trip, taking place June 13-19, will allow the students to see the Smithsonian, Arlington Cemetery, a variety of monuments and The Lion King from Broadway.

Bowman's essay chronicled how she plans to get her Bachelors Degree from the University of Arkansas in History. She hopes to become a history teacher and cheerleading coach in Northwest Arkansas where she also plans to raise a family.

Bowman said, "I think history is just awesome. Everyone should know where they came from. Our history is what makes our country what it is today."

Bowman's love for history is a big part of why the D.C. trip means so much to her.

Logan's essay detailed his desire to eventually get his Masters Degree in Marine Biology. After high school graduation, Logan will go to basic training for the Coast Guard, eventually going to range training school, special forces. Logan comes from a long line of military men. His great-grandfather, grandfather, father and brother have all served their country in the military.

Logan plans to go to University of Alaska - Fairbanks to work on his degree. When asked why he is pursuing a degree in marine biology, he said, "It's good money, I love to be on the water, and love fish. Also, I'm an avid fisherman."

Southwest High School counsellor Stacey Hopper stated, "I'm just really proud of them and I'm so excited about this life-changing opportunity they have."

At school, Bowman serves as captain of the color guard, plays softball, co-captain of the cheerleading squad, sings in choir and is the Fellowship of Christian Athletes president. Logan participates in drama, science club and is a fisherman.

Missouri voters to decide on transportation sales tax

Charlea Mills

Later this year, Missouri voters will determine the fate of a transportation sales tax that would raise $500 million annually for roads and other transportation projects.

The House came through with an approval last Wednesday, meaning the bill that would raise the general sales tax by 3/4 cent will be placed on the November ballot unless Governor Nixon decides to have it voted on sooner.

If approved, the sales tax would take effect in 2015 and stay in place for ten years. Currently, Missouri's roadways are maintained with user fees, like motor fuel taxes, registration fees, and taxes on the sale of vehicles within the state. According to officials with the Department of Transportation, the tax is a necessary step in maintaining existing roads and bridges as well as new construction.

They fear that the budget will not be enough in coming years.

The current budget for roads and bridges is $685 million and it is projected to dip to $325 million by the time the 2017 budget is decided. Five years ago, the annual budget was $1.3 billion.

This initiative marks one of many attempts to provide better funding for transportation in the state, including a failed attempt at a one-half cent sales tax increase and four-cent motor fuel tax from 2002.

At the end of ten years, it would require another vote by citizens to keep the sales tax measure in place. The money is to be split 90 percent for state transportation needs and the remaining 10 percent would go to cities and counties for transportation projects.

Power of Pink raises $10K for cancer patients

Charlea Mills

This year marked the fourth year for the Power of Pink walk in Wheaton. Each year, the benefit comes together to help local women who are battling breast cancer through community nominations.

This year’s event was very successful, raising over $10,000 for the two women chosen as the recipients. The two women, Ruth Horton and Teresa “Tweety” Loncorich, accepted their checks on Mother’s Day, the day after the 5K took place.

The Power of Pink began with Janice McCracken and her husband, Gizmo. Janice said, “When we built the event center, I wanted to help local women battling this awful disease.” The McCrackens hold the walk/run each year with the help of their daughters, Miranda Evans and Cassie Crouch. Through sponsors and runners/walkers, they print t-shirts and raise awareness in the community. Thanks to the efforts of some dedicated individuals, two women in the Wheaton community will have one less thing to worry about.

stated that law is aimed to make women feel shamed or guilty into keeping an unwanted pregnancy. They also noted that a woman from Springfield wanting an abortion would have to stay in St. Louis, the only city with an abortion clinic in the state, for at least three days which limits the availability of an abortion to poor women.

Rep. Elmer stated, "This bill is an effort to balance the rights of the mother with the rights of the unborn child. We are not denying the mother her rights, but simply asking her to give more thought before making a decision she may later regret."

Gov. Nixon has already

hinted that he plans to veto the bill. He said, "I've had pretty consistent positions on this. I think everyone knows, obviously, which way I lean on it." Nixon's main complaint about the bill was that it does not have an exemption for situations of rape or incest.

Sater stated, "The decision to abort a child is a life-changing and irreversible one. An additional 48 hours gives a mother time to process the information she receives through the informed consent process or seek help and advice from family members or a counselor. There were more than 9,000 abortions performed in Missouri last year and that's 9,000 too many. I believe the passage of this bill will result in more women bringing their pregnancies to full term and more children having an opportunity for life."

Sen. Sater is confident that should Nixon veto the bill, an override will happen. The bills passed with a veto-proof 111-39 in the House, but was one vote shy of the two-thirds majority in the Senate on the initial vote of 22-9. Nixon has until July 14 to either sign or veto the bill. At that point, the legislature could consider a veto override in the September annual veto session.

Two students make perfect attendance a top priority

Katelyn Pitts

Douglas Trager

Charlea Mills

Two students had a mission for high school: not to miss a single day in all four years. While maybe not what most students have on their minds, that is precisely what Katelyn Pitts, of Cassville High School, and Douglas Trager, of Southwest High School, achieved.

When interviewed, Trager was at school, obviously, but the surprising part? He didn't have to be. His school year was over, but the next day, he was still at the school, helping the high school secretary, Jackie

Burns. Trager said, "Jackie needs help in the office, so I wanted to help."

Trager said that in all four years of high school, he hasn't been sick during the session, nor did he skip or play hooky. He said, "People call me weird because I haven't missed any days, but I'm lucky because I've only gotten sick on holidays or when school's not in session." For Trager, it wasn't that he enjoyed school any more than the next kid, he just thought that attendance was an important goal. He said, "I didn't used to like school, but when high school came around, I became more involved. It wasn't my favorite thing, but I set a goal to have perfect attendance, and I made it."

Trager is planning to attend Crowder College this fall where he will study to become a writer. At his time at Southwest, he found a love of writing poetry. Trager won an award for his creative writing when he wasn't even in the creative writing class. He submitted it after the teacher encouraged him. Trager said, "A lot of my help has come from Mr. Voyak with his encouraging us to write more descriptively. He's really helped me to write my poetry. I made a Facebook group so that other students and friends could share what they write, too."

Now that graduation is over, Trager said, "I don't want this to be the end, but we all have to move on after 13 years."

Southwest High School principal Tosha Watson said, "In my 20 years in education, I have not had a student have perfect attendance for all four years of high school."

Pitts has gone to Cassville Schools for all 13 years of her education. When asked why she was interested in pursuing perfect attendance, she said, "I knew there was an award for it. I'd done it before in lower grades, like third through fifth grades. But mainly, it was that you have to have good attendance to do things with the school. I don't have the best grades, so I knew the attendance would help me with things."

Pitts spent a lot of time during her years at Cassville participating in different activities, clubs and organizations. She was active in softball, basketball, track, Future Business Leaders of America, Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America, Student Council, yearbook and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She said that sticking to her routine helped her while she was in school. She said, "I like being in school and having a schedule."

Pitts said that the last week before graduation, she was afraid that she wouldn't be able to finish out her goal of perfect attendance. She stated, "I got sick this last week, but I said to myself, 'I've gotta go.' I only had two days left." Meeting that goal also meant missing out on Senior Skip Day. She said, "I stayed here and helped in the office, but I wasn't the only one, some kids stayed for their grades."

Pitts is attending the University of Central Missouri this fall to study Speech pathology. She wants to go into a career where she can help people. Pitts said, "I like to talk to people and be there for them. Maybe that got me in a little too much trouble while I was in school." After graduation from college, she plans to move back to the area and start a business. She said, "I love working with kids, and I'm a people person. I want to help as many people as I can."

Douglas Trager is the son of Donnie and Susan Trager of Washburn. Katelyn Pitts is the daughter of Brenda Pitts and Jaime Aguinaga of Cassville.

8-year-old heroically drives car when mother passes out

Charlea Mills

The granddaughter of Cassville's Leonard and Nancy Preddy received national attention last week when the 8-year-old took the wheel of her mother's SUV when she had a medical emergency. Abby Porter, the Predys' granddaughter, lives in southeast Kansas with her mother and was headed to school in Riverton when her mother, Shelly, passed out. Porter acted quickly and took the wheel, even executing a successful U-turn on a busy highway.

Porter's situation was discovered when Galena, Kan., Police Officer Jimmy Hamilton noticed the car swerving. He pulled up to the vehicle, thinking it was possibly a drunk driver and noticed the young girl commandeering the car. When Porter told the officer that she didn't know how to put the car in park, he convinced Porter to let the car run into the back of his car so that it would come to a stop.

In an interview, Porter said that when her mom passed out, she took the wheel and pulled a U-turn on the four-lane highway to "try to get home to her daddy."

The police department in Galena, Kan., plans to present Abby with a plaque for "outstanding bravery in a life-threatening situation" and will also honor Officer Hamilton.

Abby's story has been picked up on national news and was featured on Good Morning America. The Predys are extremely proud of their granddaughter in the face of such a scary and dangerous situation.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Cassville Education Fund has awarded grants in support of the Cassville R-IV school district academic programs. Two grants totaling $1,594 were handed out at the annual Cassville Community Teachers Association Banquet on Friday, May 2, at the Cassville High School commons.

A $995 grant was awarded to Janet Fischer, Intermediate Title 1; Kamilla Willis, 3-12 Speech; Anne Dalton, Intermediate Learning Disabilities; and Telisha Padilla, ESL teacher. The grant will allow 100 students to simultaneously access HearBuilder On-Line to strengthen listening, memory, comprehension and early reading skills. A grant for $599 was awarded to Treslyn Pollreis, Mandy Henry and Chris Shore for Fitnessgram software that will generate student, parent and class reports for fitness assessments.

Established in 2010 by community volunteers, the Cassville Education Fund is a permanent endowment fund benefiting the Cassville R-IV school district academic programs. The fund is part of the Cassville Community Foundation and is independent of the Cassville R-IV school district.

Cassville 4th graders visit BC Museum for end of the year field trip

Steven Burcham (left) and Jay Reed (right) explained the different types of seeds available for gardens and farms during their field trip to the museum.

Charlea Mills

A big group of fourth grade Cassville Intermediate students spent the morning on Friday at the Barry County Museum looking at exhibits and sitting in on special talks in different areas as an end of the year treat.

Students in groups rotated to six different stations that were taught by experts in their fields. In the museum, kids went on a scavenger hunt, scouring the exhibits for the answers to questions about their home county. The kids worked in pairs to collect the answers they needed as they enjoyed many of the antiques and collectibles on display throughout the building.

Also inside the museum, Missouri State Highway Patrol Sergeant Jason Pace talked to the students about bicycle safety, including tips like wearing brightly colored clothing and always donning a helmet, and also stranger danger and what to do if someone you do not know approaches you.

In the implement barn behind the museum, two classes taught kids about farming in the present and in the past. Carrol and Doris Hayes shared stories with the students about the vintage tractors, tools and equipment housed in the barn and how they were used. Jay Reed and Steven Burcham, of Garden Sass Farmers' Market Association, talked to the kids about different kinds of seeds. The kids learned about the differences between heirloom, hybrid, and GMO seeds and what each means for the future of farming and gardening. The group even got to take home a packet of their very own seeds to plant at home.

In the Black Schoolhouse, the fourth graders toured the one-room building and heard stories by Fran Bolton about what it was like to learn in one of the 114 rural one-room school houses in Barry County. Kids asked a lot of questions about what daily life was like in a one-room building, including what discipline was like and how they studied.

Finally, the kids visited with Guy Brown and his son Jackie, who talked all about wild turkeys. Kids learned how turkeys live in the wild, hunting techniques and even got to practice turkey calling.

At the end of the day, the kids had a good time and learned a lot about historical life in Barry County with hands-on activities.

Museum director Kathy White said, "This is the sixth year that we've had the fourth graders come over for their spring field trip. It was a very successful day. They come here every May. The kids look forward to it and so do we."

Sergeant Jason Pace with the Missouri State Highway Patrol taught the kids about biking safety and stranger danger.

Harkley leads list of state track qualifiers

Lee Stubblefield

Kaylynn Harkey, Purdy's decorated pole vaulter, dominated the Class 2 Sectional 3 competition at Lamar on Saturday to earn a berth at the state track championships. Harkey cleared the bar at 9-06 while winning her signature event.

Lucas White, another Purdy Eagle, qualified for state in the long jump. White placed third with a leap of 20-06.75.

Southwest's Montana Hendrix qualified for the big show in the high jump. Hendrix cleared the bar at 4-10 for fourth place at Lamar.

No area athletes qualified for state from the Class 1 Sectional 2 competition, also

Cassville stuns CJ in district baseball semifinal

Lee Stubblefield

While the Cassville Wildcats clawed their way into the district championship game, the baseball season ended abruptly for several area teams. District baseball action began on Saturday, May 17, and only Cassville and Wheaton survived the opening cut.

In Class 3 District 11 action at Forsyth, Southwest fell to Diamond by a 12-2 score.

Exeter also took a run-rule loss, falling 11-1 to Greenfield in their Class 1 District 6 game at Hurley.

Then it was Purdy's turn at the 10-run table, as the depleted Eagles lost a 10-zip shutout to Marionville in Class 2 District 12 action at Pierce City.

The Wheaton Bulldogs

provided the shocker of opening day, squeezing a 7-6 upset over the host Pierce City Eagles. But on Monday night, Wheaton bowed out, losing 13-0 to Marionville.

The Cassville Wildcats, playing in the Class 4 District 11 tourney at Monett, earned a 7-3 win over East Newton on Saturday. On Tuesday night, top-seeded Carl Junction took an early 3-0 lead over the Wildcats, and led 5-2 heading into the final inning.

But Cassville answered with 6 runs in a wild top of the seventh inning to take an 8-5 lead. The Bulldogs could not score in the home half of the inning, and Cassville earned a spot in the district championship game on Wednesday night.

BC Extension hires new 4-H program assistant

Anna Klem was hired as Barry County's new 4-H youth program assistant and hopes to help the program grow.

Charlea Mills

The 4-H program in Barry County will hopefully see some positive changes after the extension office hired a new part-time 4-H youth program assistant. Anna Klem began her duties this week and will work toward helping to create strategies to promote the program and extend their outreach in the community.

Klem was very active in 4-H growing up and attributes it to a lot of her successes. She said, "I was in Adair County 4-H and Clover Kids, and it's been a huge part of who I've become. I really wanted to take that and return that knowledge. I feel like I can give a lot back because of what I've learned through 4-H."

Klem's main duties will be implementing growth strategies for the extension office and guiding the existing 4-H programs. Currently, the county has two programs, one in Purdy and the other in Exeter. Purdy's program just began last year but has had significant turnout for the events and classes they've held so far.

Klem says that some of the growth she is hoping for will come from inside the existing clubs and helping them to gain more members or become more active. She explained, "We want to reach out to more youth in the county. Some of that will come from the extension office and some from the clubs themselves."

Klem participated in 4-H in her hometown of Kirksville. She was heavily involved in the horsemanship and leadership programs. She said, "I think the leadership program was the most beneficial to my development. I never would have had the confidence or skills to even apply for this job without my background in 4-H."

As far as the importance of the program, Klem feels that the program really helps children prepare for life in the adult world by preparing them for interviews, employment and hard work. She said, "A lot of what I learned was helping to give me life skills and independence. Personally, I think the leadership guidance helped me the most, and I want the kids to experience that."

Klem graduated from Kirksville High School in 2012. She is currently living in Verona and pursuing her Bachelors Degree in Agricultural Communications from Missouri State University. For more information about the Barry County 4-H program, contact the Extension Office at (417) 847-3161.

Rockin' P holds David Freeman Benefit Ranch Rodeo

First place winners, Flying I Cattle, sat on their horses during the Calcutta before the rodeo.

Half Circle L competes in the Double Mugging event on Saturday night.

Rockin P Ranch & Arena was proud to host the David Freeman Benefit Ranch Rodeo at Wheaton on Saturday, May 17, at 7 p.m. A large crowd made up of family and friends of David Freeman were in attendance for the festivities.

by Josh Ball, who was a team member of the winning team from last year's Ranch Rodeo Finals.

Auctioneer and friend, Gene Robbins, then led the bidding on the Ranch Rodeo Team Calcutta. Teams were sold to family, friends and fans in hopes that their team would come out on top at the end of the night.

Once the Calcutta was over, the rodeo went into full swing, with 18 teams competing for the top spots. Each team is made up of four men on a team.

The events were calf sorting, double mugging, calf branding, pasture team-roping and trailer loading.

One team placed first in points in three of the five events and was named with the honors of first place: Flying I Cattle (Jerrod Tynon, Jess Tynon, Brad Ingram and Justin Peterson). Second place went to B & S Cattle Co. (Shane Bailey, Tyler White, Dusty Tubbs and Josh Ball). Two teams tied for third and fourth place – F4 Cattle Co (James Frazier, Clark Broyles, Clint Broyles and McCrae Lee) and Webb Ranch (Cody Stanley, Josh Kern, Tyler Pendergraft and Hunter Kester).

In between the second and third events, a live auction was held. Donations from numerous members of the community were brought in, and Gene Robbins and Kristen White were in charge of collecting bids.

Proceeds from the Ranch Rodeo Team Calcutta, the live auction, gate admission and concession stand from Rockin P Ranch and Arena were given to David Freeman to help with his expenses resulting from an accident that he encountered several weeks ago.

SOUTHWEST SCHOOL BOARD MEETING HIGHLIGHTS

As part of our continued efforts in keeping our patrons informed, the Southwest R-V School Administration will provide monthly information concerning Board Meetings.

A recap of the May 15, 2014 regular meeting is as follows: The Board convened for its meeting at 7:41 p.m., following the 8th grade Promotion ceremony.

Consent items were approved, including accepting the resignations of elementary music teacher Christina Campbell, high school business teacher Vick Irsik, library aide Pam Hutson, and softball coach Tony Eagleburger who is resigning from his coaching duties only. Sheresa Rodgers was hired to fill the business vacancy. In addition, the following reassignments were also approved: Christine Littrell to library aide, Gary Brown to title reading, Teresa Alverson to high school special education, and Taci Lawrence to elementary special education.

Under old business, the Board approved contracting with the Scott Regional Technology Center for the 2014-2015 school year and L.J. Hart & Company in respect to a Lease Purchase. This $300,000 financing at 1.75 percent interest will allow the district to secure technology equipment, including Promethean Kuno tablets at the middle school and Dell Chrome books at high school.

New Business items included the approval of the low bid of $8,042.31 from Jeff Smith in respect to an electrical project in the K-2 building. This work will increase the number of receptacles in classrooms. The board also approved the district Program Evaluation Plan for the 2014-2015 school year.

Under Administrative and Program Evaluations, the Board reviewed the monthly maintenance and administrative reports. Principal Tosha Watson reported that the high school will be represented in the state Bass Fishing tournament, a new even sanctioned by the Missouri State High School Activities Association. Although high school students are eligible to participate, two member teams must have the capability of providing a boat driven by an adult captain. Funding for this particular activity comes from private contributions. In addition, Superintendent Bob Walker informed the Board that the elementary buildings had been elevated to "Gold" status in respect to the Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support (PBIS) program. Mr. Walker also mentioned that the district is pursuing a National Institute of Justice Grant and will be considering a possible Missouri Pre-school Project grant when its information is released next month.

The Board moved into Executive Session at 8:40 p.m. for approximately 45 minutes to discuss various personnel items, reconvening in open session and adjourning at 9:26 p.m.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for June 12, in the high school library, at 7 p.m.

Mt. Pleasant Cemetery meeting

The Mt. Pleasant Cemetery Association will hold their annual business meeting on Saturday, May 24, at 2p.m. at the Mt. Pleasant

Church and cemetery. All community members with family or friends interred in the cemetery are encouraged to attend.

Donations are always greatly appreciated and provide for maintenance and upkeep of the church and grounds. Donations can be made to the Mt. Pleasant Cemetery Association's account at First State Bank, Purdy, or mailed to Secretary Diana Cope, 10404 E. Fifth St., Butterfield, MO 65625. (417) 342-4900.

It is no secret that fishing on Table Rock is an experience not easily forgotten. That is why this year Shell Knob School once again gave their students an opportunity to make some memories with Fishing with a Pro. For those that do not know, this program allows students to fish with a local professional and ride around in a new Ranger boat. They are even given a new rod/reel and a bag of fishing equipment filled with enough gear to satisfy any young fisherman.

To qualify, each student had to submit an essay explaining why they should be the lucky one chosen. It was then reviewed by several staff members and the following students were picked: Caden Price, Nolan Crain, Chris Lemp, Ben Hayse, Meagan Hocutt, Wren Hampton, Olivia Elliott and Elizabeth Horine. They were split up into two groups and the first ones left Campbell Point Marina at 8 a.m. in the morning on Saturday, May 3.

It was a day full of fun and learning as the kids were shown the proper techniques of fishing. With names like Ronnie Dobbs, Jeremy Lawyer, Don Berry, and Scott Berry, it was hard not to have a blast. These pros have fished in some of the country's biggest tournaments and are considered household names in southwest Missouri's fishing community. After about four hours of fishing, they made their way back to the marina where Subway provided them, and the afternoon group, with a much needed lunch. The rest of the students were then given the same treatment in another exciting round of fishing.

The fun didn't end with the students. Each kid was chaperoned by a Shell Knob School faculty member and any of them can tell you that it is quite an experience at any age. Gary Henderson, Duke Denton, Carles Estorach, and Mitch Ermei all tagged along for the ride and joined in on the action. In the end, there was not a single person walking away without a smile on their face.

There were several businesses, local and national, that really lent a hand in the preparation and implementation of this event. A special thanks goes out to Ranger Boats, Luck "E" Strike USA, Shakespeare, Jug N Plug, Shell Knob Subway, Country Fresh Market, Steak Inn, Shell Knob Pizza Hut, Campbell Point Boat Dock and Marina, and all the professionals who took time out of their busy schedules to come down and be a part of this program. And finally, a special mention for the contributions made by Ronnie and Diana Dobbs, who helped organize this event and were an integral part in making this all happen.

Exeter names Students of the 3rd Quarter

The Exeter 3rd Quarter Students of the Quarter were selected by the teachers based on good citizenship in the school and the community.

Piano students perform at 88's Festival

Piano teacher Mrs. Ruth Burnside had 18 students participate in the annual Piano 88's Music Festival on April 6 at the Countryside Christian Church in Monett.

They received a rating for their performance of either a Superior or Excellent rating, according to how well they played their piece. A trophy was presented to each student.

Charlea Mills
Once a bit off of the beaten path, The Little Store just reopened right on the main drag in downtown Cassville and is filled to the brim with eclectic, funky and creative treasures. The shop was once a 500 square foot hole in the wall, but today it boasts 2,500 square feet of unique offerings. The Little Store was opened three years ago by Sherry Johnson, owner of The Little Store, shows off the doll that sparked her interest in pursuing collectibles at auctions and garage sales.

Sherry Johnson in a tiny space on 7th Street in Cassville, hence the name choice. Johnson said, "I've always wanted to own my own business, I just didn't realize that was what I wanted to do until fifty years down the road. But now I've found my niche." This year marks the 100 year birthday of the Edmondson building which is owned by Johnson's father, R.G. Edmondson. The character of such a historic landmark is unmistakable from both the outside and inside. Johnson has been garage saling and attending auctions since she was 16. Her love of antiques, knickknacks and the unique gave her a leg up in the business. When Johnson decided that she wanted to expand, she turned to the talents of Jay Reed and Steven Burcham of Ozark's Home Gardens. The two spent countless hours painting, remodeling and sprucing up the shop, giving it character and curb appeal. Reed stated, "Sherry told us that she wanted a cool little shop in Cassville. Many hours of labor later, she has it." From brightly colored walls to unique displays filled with gemstones, antiques, glassware and clothing, the shop has a little to offer anyone who walks in. New to the store are lines of clothing from Ed Hardy and Aeropostale; returning are many glassware pieces, purses and figurines. With all of the extra space, Johnson has also been able to carry items from local artists and crafters. Penny Hilburn has beautiful twisted wire sun catchers displayed as you first walk in. Hilburn began making them when trying her hand at wire-wrapping quartz. She said, "I was laid up for awhile after being in the hospital and I have to stay busy. So I started wrapping and beading these and it just sort of exploded in my mind." The sun catchers Hilburn makes are mostly trees with beads or gemstones, definitely unlike anything seen in most stores. Other local creations include handmade cards by Sarah Marney, wares from JLS pottery and rope creations by David Vaught. The shop also has crafts and artisan canned goods from Ozark's Home Gardens. The draw of the shop doesn't stop at the goods they offer. The historic building also has the only operating three-story dumbwaiter in the county. Johnson said that her father and grandfather salvaged the elevator from the old Barry County Hospital. Then it sat for 60 years, waiting to be put in. Exploring the upper floors of the building holds ghosts of times past, including leftover inventory from when a shoe store occupied the space and original light fixtures hanging from the ceiling upstairs. Hopefully, one day the whole building will get a makeover, but for now, it's one step at a time. The old location of the The Little Store is still connected with the bigger shop. The old space is now H and W Antiques, owned by Hal and Wilma Miller, and offers a variety of antiques ranging from furniture to smaller pieces. Johnson shared a big part of why she enjoys owning the shop, "I like seeing the people coming in and out and seeing old friends. I grew up here, so I know a lot of people and enjoy having them stop by." On top of that, Johnson really loves the items that she finds and puts in the shop. She even still has the first thing that she bought when she was a teenager. The doll sits proudly on a shelf in the store as a reminder of her beginnings in collectibles. Johnson said, "To me, she is worth a lot of money, even priceless. I thought that she was so unique that I just had to have her, and that's where this all started." The Little Store is located at 613 Main Street in Cassville. The hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays, 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. You can reach the store at (417) 671-8012 or on Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/thelittlestorecassville>.

Washburn woman receives National Weather award

Pictured above are Mrs. Louise Slack-Hendrix being presented with the award for her 20 years of dedication as a cooperative observer by Larry Dooley, observing program leader for the National Weather Service of Springfield.

Louise Slack-Hendrix was presented the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) award for 20 years as a cooperative observer for the National Weather Service.

Mrs. Slack-Hendrix has taken weather observations for the past 20 years. She is certainly in good company. Many Americans such as Professor John Winthrop of Harvard, Statesman Benjamin Franklin, Presidents Thomas Jefferson and George Washington, and explorers Lewis and Clark were, at some time, engaged as daily weather observers.

The weather station at Washburn was established by the Congressional Statutes enacted by Congress in 1890 to help create the volunteer climate observation network in the United States.

The successes of our climatological program is due in great measure to conscientious citizens like Mrs. Slack-Hendrix. The records furnished by her added to our knowledge of the climate of the state of Missouri and of the United States.

It is an exciting age in the meteorological field. New techniques and equipment such as Doppler radar, high speed computers and satellites are providing faster and more accurate tools for the service. On a quieter level, without all the fanfare, dedicated citizens make their contributions to the vital cooperative program. The information they provide is as important as the new techniques and equipment. Theirs is the basic material needed for a meteorological and climatological database.

The Ladies' Trio of Cunningham, Graham and Wise received a I Rating on their performance. Instrumentalists at Purdy High School perform under the direction of Mr. James Adams. Mrs. Lauren Lee directs the vocalists. The Purdy R-2 School District applauds the State-level successes of its musicians.

Fry earns graduate degree

Benjamin F. Fry was awarded a Master of Arts in Communication with a Certificate in Conflict and Dispute Resolution during the May 16 commencement exercises held at Missouri State University in Springfield.

He is a 2009 graduate of MSU with an undergraduate degree in Broadcast Journalism and is employed by the Hearst Corporation as a news producer at KOCO-TV in Oklahoma City. Ben is the son of Wallace and Verna Fry of Washburn.

BC Council on Aging seeks Board members

The Barry County Council on Aging is seeking people to serve on the BCCOA Board of Directors. Members of the BCCOA are people who are interested in securing solutions to in-home needs of the senior citizen. The Board is made up of seniors who are 60 years and over and younger people who are interested in ways to make the later years more comfortable.

The Council is active in in-home care, having home workers keep the home clean and safe, 5-star medical alert system for quick response to clients' emergency needs, and help to secure many small needs.

The BCCOA receives requested funds from the Barry County Senior Citizens Services Tax Fund Board and the Southwest Missouri Office on Aging. Budgeted are: home workers wages, personal care and respite, medical alert systems, and reimbursement for mileage for home workers. The BCCOA does their own budget and payments. They are in need of representatives in all senior citizen center areas in Barry County.

If you are interested in the seniors citizens' needs to stay in their homes, please contact the BCCOA at (417) 847-2229, write to BCCOA, 1111 Fair Street, Cassville, MO 65625, or email your interest to BCCOA2010@yahoo.com before May 20, 2014.
