

Barry County Commission approves $4.8 Mil. 2018 budget

SHERIFF’S DEPT. WILL EMPLOY ADDITIONAL DEPUTY, JAILER

Charlea Estes-Jones

The Barry County Commission, Gary Schad, Wayne Hendrix and Cherry Warren, approved the 2018 budget at their meeting on Monday, January 22. This year’s county budget is just over $4.8 million for 2018, around $240,000 more than 2017’s approved budget.

The commissioners met in their chambers with Barry County Clerk Gary Youngblood to finalize the budget officially Monday morning. The commission estimates the county will receive $4,120,812 in revenue for 2018. There is a carry-over of $881,937 from 2017 they also included in the budget.

This year, the commissioners estimated sales tax revenue at $2.585 million, which was $79,585 less than 2017. When asked why they estimated the tax revenue as less than the year prior, presiding commission Cherry Warren said, “We don’t think the economy will collapse or anything, but if it does continue like it did at the end of the year, we can go on without any problem. If it levels out, that’ll be fine, but we don’t have to rely on it.”

Warren was referring to the sales tax revenue the county received in early January 2018, which is tax collected in December 2017.

Warren continued, “Our biggest concern going forward is the streamlined sales tax. If we collected all the tax that is due us, it would be different. With the internet sales not paying local taxes, that’s our biggest concern. We live and die by the sales tax collected. “We feel like Amazon or whoever, should pay tax that is due Barry County. We think they shouldn’t have an advantage over a brick and mortar business down the street.”

Streamlined Sales Tax has been a discussion for a number of years with internet sales increasing each year. Currently, some online retailers have to pay state sales tax, but there is no precedent for county or city sales tax collection through those entities.

The budget requested by the county departments was $4,909,131.44. The approved budget, while less, was comparable at $4,821,971.90.

Warren said, “We don’t see everything alike with all the county departments, but we try to get along. We do everything we can to ensure the safety of our deputies and try to maintain a professional relationship with departments as we set the budget.”

Of the budget items, the biggest change is for the Barry County Sheriff’s Department Jail. Barry County Sheriff Gary Davis requested $892,184.06 (up from $794,448.76 last year) for the Sheriff’s Department and $596,881.71 for the jail (up from $471,405.51 in 2017). The commission approved $833,218.99 for the Sheriff’s office and $591,881.71 for the jail.

In the Sheriff’s budget, the increase from 2017 to 2018 will allow the department to hire an additional deputy and an additional jailer. It will also allow the Sheriff’s Office to keep up-to-date on holiday pay due officers.

Sheriff Davis said the one thing he’d asked the commission for, but was denied, was an additional office support person. “The support would have been for the office to take over payroll and tracking the training our officers receive. They all have regular training they complete that needs to be recorded and lots of things we needed looked at that goes through the office. From the grocery fees we pay to possibly re-bidding our inmate medical services, inmate phone services and commissary in the jail. They would have done that.”

Search for missing woman in Shell Knob fire ends

Charlea Estes-Jones

Investigators with the State Fire Marshall believe they have found the woman presumed dead from a house fire on Table Rock Lake last week. According to Rusty Rickard, Central Crossing Fire chief, the local department’s search had to be called off after almost two full days of being on scene fighting the blaze and searching for the woman believed to have been killed.

Central Crossing was dispatched to the fire after a call came in through central dispatch at 5:12 p.m. on Tuesday, January 16. The caller said they could see the fire across the lake. The three-story residence was located off of H Highway south of Shell Knob in Stone County.

Central Crossing responded to the fire along with Southern Stone County and Eagle Rock-Golden-Mano Fire Departments for automatic mutual aid. Once on scene, two-thirds of the structure was ablaze, and two people were believed to be inside.

One of the victims of the fire, a man, was transported to a local hospital by ambulance before being air lifted to a larger hospital. Stone County Sheriff Doug Rader confirmed the man to be Charles Patrick, who has since been released from the hospital. The wife in the home, Cynthia Patrick, 82, could not be located while crews were fighting the flames.

Rickard said it is believed that Patrick went back into the home to locate a family pet but didn’t come back out.

Once the flames were extinguished, crew stayed on until around midnight, searching for the remains of the woman presumed to be killed in the fire. At that time, the Stone County Sheriff’s Department secured the scene until the fire fighters and investigators returned at 6:30 a.m. on

Purdy hires city manager to oversee operations

Charlea Estes-Jones

The City of Purdy is keeping an eye on the future and created a city manager position to help keep up with growing demands. The current city clerk Debbie Redshaw, a 30 year veteran with the city, was approached by the city council about taking the city manager position, and she agreed.

Purdy city mayor Bo Prock said, “With all that the city has going on, we’ve had a massive amount of management—type work that is happening all day, every day. We’re going to have a ton more of that going forward; little details that need to be handled every day. That started the discussion for needing a manager.”

Some upcoming projects include replacing city water meters, a major sewer overhaul, and more daily maintenance of city-owned properties like tree-trimming.

Redshaw said, “We don’t have anybody here on a day-to-day basis managing things. I could see issues that needed to be resolved but didn’t have the authority to do anything. So when [the city council] brought it up, I thought that I would be able to do that.”

The scope of the projects makes a daily manager essential to the city being successful in the coming months and year, Prock said, “What we have going on right now is this huge sewer project. It’s probably the biggest project that Purdy has taken on in 20 to 25 years.

“We have also taken on a new meter project and we are installing all wireless-read meters for every customer in town. It’s way more detailed and watched closely by their system. With all of that and working on more smaller projects like yearly tree trimming and cleaning our culverts, we needed someone to help do this day-to-day planning deals.”

Redshaw said her duties will primarily change to working more directly with employees and ensuring all departments are on track and doing what needs to be done in a timely manner.

Prock said, “She takes all the calls for leaks and projects throughout the city and dispatches guys already. She’s been doing 90 percent of that job as it stands. With the responsibility growing, we needed someone to be able to put their name on things to be able to send things to, say DNR and engineers on the city’s behalf so that it could be handled a little more quickly.”

Redshaw added, “We are going to work really hard to make sure our properties are cleaned up. We’re really going to work on being more timely in getting things done and not putting things off; those types of things.”

Redshaw’s promotion was confirmed at the January Purdy City Council meeting on Monday, January 8. The new position encompasses her current duties as city clerk, as well as manager positions.

Proposed Prescription Drug Monitoring Program public meeting slated for Jan. 25

Charlea Estes-Jones

Barry County may be the next Missouri county to join a prescription drug monitoring program to help curtail the opioid crisis. The Barry County Health Department is presenting a public meeting for the proposed ordinance on Thursday evening, January 25.

Locally, other counties have voted to join the Prescription Drug Monitoring Program (PDMP), which is designed to help fight prescription drug abuse, a growing epidemic across the United States. The PDMP is a secure, electronically accessible database. A patient’s prescription information would be accessible to approved users of the database, who are physicians and pharmacists. The only information logged is prescriptions for opiates.

The Barry County Health Department released information stating that the meeting about the county’s proposed participation in the PDMP is open to the public, and that the St. Louis County Department of Public Health will be in attendance to do a presentation on their current PDMP program.

Roger Brock, Barry County Health Department administrator, said the BCHD reached out to Barry County pharmacists and physicians to invite them to attend the meeting.

St. Louis was the first county to institute a program. Some states make participation mandatory, however, in Missouri it is voluntary. Pharmacies and doctors have to sign an agreement with the Commission to participate. “There will be very little additional work for pharmacists and doctors offices,” said Kevin Gipson,

Director of Health for the Springfield-Greene County Health Department. “With electronic medical records, it is as simple as clicking one button at the end of the day.”

Sharing information across counties is important to monitor over prescription and doctor shopping for opioid drugs, according to proponents for the PDMP. The data, consisting of simple identifying marks, along with doctor and prescription information only for opioid drugs, is transmitted and stored by St. Louis County.

“All information shared with the PDMP is protected by HIPPA (the law protecting health information),” said Gipson.

He continued, “The PDMP is basically for doctors and pharmacists to better serve their patients.”

For those concerned about privacy, the representatives from Springfield and Greene County have repeatedly emphasized this information is just between the doctor, pharmacist and the patient. “This is not a public database. Law enforcement does not have access to the data without a court order,” said Gipson.

After the presentation and discussing the proposal with the community, the Barry County Commission will vote on whether Barry County will participate and institute a PDMP. The date for that vote has not been set.

The public meeting for the proposed PDMP ordinance will be held on Thursday, January 25, at 6 p.m. in the Cassville FEMA Event Center. For questions, contact the Barry County Health Department at (417) 847-2114.

Man charged for sexual assault of mentally handicapped person

Charlea Estes-Jones

A Cassville man was charged with sexually assaulting a mentally handicapped man on multiple occasions. James Lamoin Weathers, Jr., 63, of Cassville, is charged with sodomy or attempted sodomy in the first degree.

According to the affidavits of probable cause by the Cassville Police Department, Weathers sexually assaulted the victim when the victim was spending the night at his house. Weathers allegedly invited the victim to spend the night at Weathers’ residence on Spring Street in Cassville on multiple occasions, during which he performed sex acts on the man.

The victim in this case is mentally handicapped, which Weathers allegedly knew, and was unable to give consent to sexual contact.

Weathers was held on a $50,000 bond, which he posted and was released from the Barry County Jail on Tuesday, January 23.

injuries. It is unknown if he was wearing a seatbelt at the time of the crash.

According to the report, the intersection of the tracks and Washington is marked with a crossbuck only.

The driver of the train, an Arkansas/Missouri Railroad SMTN Diesel/Electric locomotive, was Michael D. Richardson, 49, of Lowell, Ark. The engine only sustained minor damage while the pickup was totaled as a result of the crash. Richardson had no reported injuries from the incident.

FIRE from FRONT

Wednesday.

Heavy equipment was brought on scene and crews continued to search for the woman until night fall, returning Thursday morning. The search was finally called off after 43 hours.

Rickard said, “After much effort and no success locating the missing victim, the difficult decision was made to suspend further search efforts for the time being. No official determination has been made as to the cause of the fire. The fire is not currently considered suspicious and is thought to possibly be related to the wood burning fireplace.”

Rickard said he got in contact with the State Fire Marshal because of the death involved. The Fire Marhsal sent investigators with sifters and cadaver K-9’s to continue searching.

Rickard said, “Many difficult challenges were faced during the 43 hour term of this incident. The extreme winter weather conditions resulted in snow and ice covered roadways and temperatures down to -7 degrees. Trucks had to be equipped with tire chains. Hoses, nozzles, valves & tools quickly became frozen, some resulting in damage & failure. Emergency responders had to take special precautions for themselves due to the temperatures and working in wet environments.”

Rickard said that at one point, crews thought they found Patrick’s remains on Friday afternoon, however it proved to be a family pet. He said, “The State Fire Marshall Friday morning called and at that point, they were working to bring in three different screen sifters and a cadaver K-9 team. That was in the works Friday morning late.

“Then Friday afternoon right after lunch, we got a call that people on the scene think they had located her. That ended up being a family pet and they kept searching.

“On Friday night, they finally found human remains that was thought to be that of the missing victim.”

Rickard said the severe conditions during this search was difficult on all involved. He released a statement: “Our thanks to Stone County 911, Southern Stone Fire, Eagle Rock Fire, Mercy EMS, Missouri State Fire Marshal’s Office, Stone County Sheriff’s Office, Carroll Electric and Stone County Road and Bridge for their assistance. Also, thank you to Harter House of Shell Knob for the food and drink as well as all of the locals and neighbors for providing warm drinks and support.

“Please keep the family and emergency crews in your thoughts and prayers during this difficult time.”

The inmate services like the phone and commissary funds go back to purchase things for the jail. Davis said, “That goes to support inmate welfare. We’re full right now with 79 people in jail as of last night [Sunday, January 21]. We’re buying 40 new mattresses from those fees collected.”

The approval of the new jailer will help alleviate short-staffing at the jail, and the deputy will serve multiple-roles in the department. Davis said, “The additional deputy will make sure we won’t be short-handed by functioning as a part-time officer and part-time as a bailiff at the court.

We have three deputies on at all times, but if someone is sick or has a family emergency, we are short.

“I also hope another officer will aid in serving civil papers and ex parte orders, because that is additional revenue for the county.”

Sheriff Davis concluded saying that he appreciates working with the commissioners on budgets. Capital improvements have been dedicated to recent jail updates that

Other departments got approval for close to what they requested. The only main discrepancies between requests and approvals were the Sheriff and Jail Budgets. The county commission budget was slightly less at $256,570 approved versus the $264,370 requested. The collector’s requested budget of $123,222.43 for additional training was not approved with the commission allotting $115,275.20. Emergency management was also approved for less at $14,600 instead of $17,000 which was for a pay increase.

Steeple – The addition of a steeple to a church often had three functions. First, vertical lines of the steeple helped to visually enhance the lines of the church, directing the viewers' eyes vertically to the heavens. Second, steeples gave church buildings—which were usually short and squat—an aesthetically pleasing feature that enhanced the harmony of the design. Third, steeples were often the highest architectural feature in an area, which provided a landmark for people to find the church from any part of town.

Pickup Truck

The roads got a little slick last week. I could tell because I was driving a two wheel drive pickup with highway tread tires. I got around fine; I just had to pick and choose my routes. So, I took the path of least resistance and hazard to myself and my pickup. Not quite enough confidence. A lot of people navigate their spiritual lives in the same manner. Not quite enough confidence. A lot of people navigate their spiritual lives in the same manner. Not quite enough confidence, so, they take the path of least resistance and most probable reward. "These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews; for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, he should be put out of the synagogue." John 9:22. What a shame and what a spiritual tragedy; "Whosoever therfore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my father which is in heaven." But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my father which is in heaven. Matthew 10:32-33. As followers of Christ; we need to have the confidence of our faith and the courage of our convictions." I can do all things through Christ which strengthened me." Philippians 4:13.

Lady Cat basketball's Coach Chris Shore hits 300th career win

Rachael Freeman

As I walked into the gymnasium at Cassville High School on Tuesday evening, I noticed many changes. The bleachers are new. They are black and comfortable. Unlike the yellow wooden bleachers from before. The pep band was where the student section used to be, instead of in the middle of the fans. While the aesthetics were different, one major element was exactly the same, head Coach Chris Shore.

Coach Shore was my basketball coach from 2001-2005. My senior year, our team won the Big 8 Conference Championship title, District Runner-Ups and finished the season with a record of 20-5. Tuesday evening, Shore hit his 300th career win.

I've watched Shore coach over the years and even from the sidelines, I can tell his coaching style hasn't changed. The name of his plays haven't even changed. He still screams out "UCLA, UCLA" when a team's defense goes man-to-man. I still don't understand what he means when he yells T-Game. His face still hits a shade of red that you rarely see outside of a Crayola box. So red, that sometimes you might think that he is not taking in an ounce of oxygen.

As I watched him high-five his players as they ran out on to the floor and came in off of the court for a breather, I couldn't help but reflect on the times I spent crossing the sidelines. Shore understands his players. He realizes that each athlete is different and requires a different coaching approach. Shore knew exactly how to motivate me and exactly how to get under my skin.

It has been 13 years since I wore the Lady Cat uniform but that doesn't mean that Shore has stopped coaching me. I will talk to him from time to time. It's never a quick conversation or just two acquaintances in passing. It's never that. It's always a mentor.

Laura (Forgey) Holycross, played for Shore 1999-2001. One thing Holycross appreciated from Coach Shore were his scouting reports before each game.

"We always knew what to expect from our opponents and what his expectation were for each one of us. I thought if I went into coaching that I would want to do the same for my players," Forgey stated.

Desiree Corn played for Shore and was a member of Shore's first Conference Championship team.

"There are so many memories I could tell you about playing for Coach Shore; however, some of the best would be the "family team" aspect we had when I played. We did everything together and played that way too.

"We definitely were not the most talented group of players, but Shore always had faith in us and we played hard for him. In the end, he pushed us and helped us to be successful. So much laughter and fun and literally finding the pure love of basketball," said Corn.

Lacy (Underwood) Fox, 2001-2004, echoed Corn's memories with the family atmosphere Shore created for his team.

"He created a culture for each of us that made us a family. With his knowledge of the sport and dedication to our wins, he always had us prepared to face any opponent whether it be in a notebooks of plays, detailed reports about our competition, intense practices, or game strategy.

"Shore's hard work and excitement set the tone for the rest of the team. Always approachable, I knew I could come to him with any ideas or concerns on or off the court.

"He sparked my energy and enthusiasm about the sport and enriched my love for the game. He is a man of high character and he coached, encouraged, and influenced me throughout some of the best days of my life shaping who I am today," said Fox.

Tracey (Longley) Stoufer played alongside Desiree Corn each year during her basketball career. Her memories mimic those of Shore's other players.

"When I look back at my "glory days" for high school, Coach Shore is a big part of those memories. I can remember a tough game we had that at half time Coach was so mad that he broke his clip board and from then on we would joke not to make him "clip board breaking mad."

"When school would close for snow he would give us just one day off, but if school was closed for two days due to snow we all knew we had to make it to basketball practice and if we couldn't, then he would come get us.

"If we had a home game, Coach always knew we would be at my house before the game so my mom could feed us and we could talk about the game that night. We were family and he was our leader.

Coach Shore is one of those coaches that pushes you to be great because he can see what you cannot see. He saw that in our senior class and because of his direction, pushing and scouting reports, we were able to make history for the Lady Cat Basketball program. We were able to win conference but then districts came for us and we started to fall.

Our time was plagued with injuries and sickness but we made it to the finals and lost to Webb City. After the game was over, Coach Shore talked to the four of us. He told us how proud he was and also how sorry he was that we didn't do everything we set out for and he told us to take our time.

"That was the kind of coach he was and he would push you to be great, but knew when to give you a moment. He knew how to talk to us and be our leader. I cannot imagine the hours of videos he watched, the number of scouting reports he made, and the number of hours he practiced with all of us. He is an example of what the love of the game and dedication to his players can achieve," shared Stoufer.

While Coach Shore has inspired many players through wins and losses, he has also built lasting relationships with his co-workers.

Mandy (Payne) Henry worked alongside for 16 years. When asked what Coach Shore means to her, she described him as a mentor, a friend and a brother.

"Coach Shore and I taught together for 16 years. In that time I coached for him in his Middle School program and for three years as an assistant on the High School level.

"Chris is a leader, a mentor, a friend and became a brother. I've watched him grow as a person and a coach over the years, and there is no one more deserving of this milestone in their career.

"The time and effort that he dedicates to his program and his players will leave a lasting impression for years to come. I have watched the young ladies that have gone through the program grow as basketball players and as human beings.

"Coach Shore has used the gifts God gave him and is making a difference not only on the court but also in the lives of those who step out there with him. I consider it an honor to have gotten to coach and teach with him and will look back on those memories with joy, humor, a few tears, and pride," Henry stated.

Shore gave his reflection of the milestone to Barry County Advertiser reporter Lee Stubblefield, saying, "To me, the relationships that I have built with the players over the years and the fact that we hope we have helped the young ladies learn valuable life lessons far outweigh this accomplishment.

"However, it is a testament to longevity for sure. I have been blessed to get to coach as long as I have. We have had some really good teams and many groups that were not as talented but that worked hard and represented our program well. The best part of reaching this milestone is sharing it with the group of girls we have now."

Mercy Cassville, Aurora names new administrator

Gamet

The New Year brings a new leader to Mercy in Aurora and Cassville, but she’s no stranger to the health care system. Serving at Mercy for more than two decades, Nicki Gamet is now administrator for both hospitals.

“I really hit the ground running,” said Gamet, who most recently served as executive director of operations at Mercy hospitals in Aurora and Cassville. Before that, Gamet served as director of nursing in both locations for eight years. “There’s something different about working for Mercy – we live and breathe our faith, and I hope my new role will help me impact others the way the Sisters of Mercy have impacted me.”

Gamet’s career in health care began 27 years ago as a certified nurse assistant during high school, serving Milan Healthcare in Milan, Missouri. She attended nursing school at North Central Missouri College in 1995, and then later received her bachelor of science in nursing from Southwest Baptist University. She received her master of arts in management and leadership from Webster University.

“My first job as a registered nurse was in Kirksville at Grim Smith Hospital, which today is Northeast Regional Medical Center,” Gamet said. “Two years later, my husband and I moved to Springfield and I started working at Mercy – the same year we got married.”

Gamet quickly moved up the ranks after joining Aurora Community Hospital (now Mercy Hospital Aurora) in 1997. During the next 20 years, she would serve as a registered nurse; a charge nurse, director of nursing and chief nursing officer at Mercy hospitals in Aurora and Cassville; and, most recently, executive director of operations in both communities.

“I’m so excited to continue my journey with Mercy in this new leadership role,” Gamet said, who is also a self-described “full-time sports practice mom.” She and husband Patrick – her high school sweetheart – have two children: son Jackson, 12, and daughter Parker, 11.

“We spend a lot of time at basketball, softball, baseball and football practices,” said Gamet, who does manage to squeeze in a Disney World trip each year with the family. “We also make time to help others in the community, whether it’s through Victory Mission or Crosslines. Most recently, my daughter collected hundreds of cans of fruit to help the homeless because some lacked access to essential food groups.”

On the hospital floors, that compassion continues for Gamet. “We have to keep the faith and let our co-workers know that everything they do impacts our mission to serve others. I’m challenging myself and my colleagues to not only continue putting patients first, but to also build upon the incredible care that we provide. We’re all in this together.”

Stone County Livestock & Forage Conference on Feb. 15

Farmers and ranchers in Southwest Missouri are invited to attend this year’s Stone County Livestock and Forage Conference. “This long-running conference will continue to equip livestock producers to better manage their operations and provide quality beef products for consumers,” according to Tim Schnakenberg, University of Missouri Extension Agronomy Specialist based in Galena.

The program will focus this year on two main topics.

Dr. Tim Evans, associate professor with the University of Missouri Veterinary Diagnostic Lab in Columbia, will discuss reasons why there could be cattle death on farms, including poisonous weeds. He will provide tips for preventing these types of needless losses in the cattle herd. Dr. Craig Payne, state extension veterinarian from Columbia, will discuss vaccination strategies for cow-calf beef operations.

This conference will be held on Thursday, February 15, 2018, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Stone County Livestock and Forage Conference, 1000 S. Main St., Galena, MO 64601. Admission is free. For more information, contact Tim Schnakenberg at 660-326-1234 or tschnaken@missouri.edu.

Low soil ph cuts your fertilizer efficiency by 50% or more. You may be spending $100 an acre for fertilizer and getting only $50 worth of results. ph correction with aglime should be done whenever soil conditions threaten crop production... year in and year out, in good times and bad. EPA extends deadline for poultry and livestock facilities

University of Missouri Extension agricultural engineering specialist Teng Lim advises poultry and livestock producers to be aware of an approaching deadline that could affect their operations.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) extended its deadline to Jan. 22 for producers to notify public agencies if their poultry and livestock facilities emit (air release) more than 100 pounds of ammonia or hydrogen sulfide daily, says Lim. A court of appeals stayed the previous November deadline.

Lim says the facility owner or operator can notify the National Response Center (NRC) using a new email address: farms@uscg.mil. After receiving a notification email, NRC will send an automatic response email with a single identification number (CR-ERNS) for the submitter's farm(s). The next step is to submit an initial written notification to the EPA regional office with the identification number.

EPA is enforcing an existing reporting rule on the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act. The deadline results from an appeals court ruling that requires EPA to enforce the existing reporting rule. The decision does not affect a related rule, the Emergency Planning and Community Right to Know Act, which is triggered by similar emissions values.

EPA has asked the appeals court to reconsider enforcement of the deadline, but at this time the rule is set to go into effect, Lim says. The best plan is to prepare, and MU Extension specialists are available to help advise producers, he says. Producers should follow the emission reporting issue closely, especially for new information released by the agencies.

According to Lim, ammonia emission will be the greater value triggering reporting. For example, based on ammonia emission, farm sizes likely to emit 100 pounds of ammonia daily are 1430-hd dairy, 1,020-breeding gestation on sow farm, 1,818-hd grow-finish pigs, 26,240-broiler, 28,200-layer or larger operations. University of Illinois Extension specialists devised a table of animal numbers that can help producers decide if they fall within the mandatory reporting guidelines. Go to web.extension.illinois.edu/lfmm/downloads/72587.pdf

Lim urges farmers to review their operations and the rules and be prepared to make the mandatory reports. He says the reporting requirements can be met by making a phone call and follow-up report within 30 days. If a farm participated in the EPA's AFO Air Compliance Agreement and have made no changes to its operation since 2008, the farm is exempt from the Jan. 22 deadline.

For more information, go to epa.gov/epcra/cercla-and-epcra-reporting-requirements-air-releases-hazardous-substances-animal-waste-farms (short link: <http://bit.ly/2i8RQ7x>).

For compliance assistance, call the EPCRA, RMP & Oil Information Center at 800-424-9346. For more information, you may also contact MU Extension specialists Teng Lim at 573-882-9519 or limt@missouri.edu, and Joe Zulovich at 573-882-0868 or zulovichj@missouri.edu.

Nurse Practitioner joins CoxHealth Center Shell Knob

Ever since she was a child, Judith Lewallen knew that she wanted to become a nurse. However, it wasn't seeing the health care providers in movies or books that prompted her interest: It was an accident suffered by her sister that showed her their kind, compassionate work.

"My little sister suffered a severe head injury from a fall and was hospitalized in the ICU for what seemed like a long time," says Lewallen. "I had to wait outside the unit and the nurses would bring me ice cream. That is when I decided that I wanted to be a nurse."

Lewallen

After graduating from high school, Lewallen became just that (and says she has given ice cream to patients at times, too). Since then, she has devoted most of her life to working in health care, and continued her education to become a board-certified nurse practitioner. That designation means she does many of the same things as a doctor – such as prescribing medication, examining patients, diagnosing illnesses, and providing treatment.

Much of her 40-year career has been spent in the Ozarks, including time in Marionville, Pineville and Monett. However, there was a period when she wasn't working in southwest Missouri. Several years ago, she decided to cross an item off her bucket list after a family tragedy: She moved to Alaska, and lived and worked in a fishing village.

"I learned that you shouldn't put off anything," she says.

However, the Alaskan beauty and tranquility didn't keep Lewallen and her husband from missing the Ozarks. The couple moved back, and Lewallen began teaching nursing classes at Crowder College in Cassville.

But for Lewallen, working directly with patients was what she liked more than anything else – and led her to take the job at CoxHealth Center Shell Knob.

"I just love getting to know the patients and their families," she says. "The relationships you develop through health care are an extremely rewarding part of the job."

To make an appointment with Lewallen, call the center at (417) 269-2470.

The Fall 2017 academic honors' list includes a total of 724 students, with 285 named to the President's List for achieving a 4.0 grade point average, and 439 named to the Dean's List for achieving a 3.5 to 3.99 GPA.

Campbellsville University is a widely-acclaimed Kentucky-based Christian university with more than 8,000 students offering over 90 programs of study including 20 master's degrees, six postgraduate areas and seven pre-professional programs.

SKITS Auditions Feb. 10

SKITS (Shell Knob in the Spotlight) is holding auditions for their 2018 spring comedy. There are adult male and female roles, and no experience necessary. SKITS had actors with the last play that were on stage for the first time.

The auditions are on Saturday, February 10, at 10 a.m. at the Central Crossing Senior Center in Shell Knob. If you cannot make that time, call director Susan at (417) 858-0621 to arrange another time. Rehearsals start February 26. They are blocked for specific pages, so your character will not be needed at all rehearsals.

The play "The Groom Has Cold Feet" has the twists and turns of a murder mystery with all the fun characters of a western.

The play is Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28, at 6:30 p.m. each evening and Sunday, April 29, at 2 p.m. at the CC United Methodist Church, Shell Knob on YY, just off Highway 39.

For more information, see the SKITS website at www.shellknobspotlight.com. Their Facebook page is: "SKITS Community Theater."

Cassville R-IV recognizes Board of Education

During the week of January 21-27, communities across the state of Missouri will honor the dedicated service of local boards of education during School Board Recognition Week.

The goal is to build awareness and understanding of the important function an elected board of education plays in communities and schools.

“Our community and our students benefit every day from the countless volunteer hours devoted by our Board of Education members,” stated Dr. Richard Asbill, Cassville R-IV School District Superintendent. “Our Board is dedicated to our school district and work hard to represent our various communities that entrust us with their children. The Board understands the difficult challenges that come with operating a school district but are mindful to keep decisions based on students. Their decisions not only affect our students and community today, but create a lasting impact on the future of Cassville Schools. For that, we appreciate them immensely.”

The Cassville School District is governed by a seven member board that meets monthly. Board of Education members serve a three-year term. Cassville R-IV School District current board members are: David Haddock, Jon Horner, Becky Henningson, Carolyn Bowen, Chad Yarnall, Jeremy Marple and John Sullivan.

During the January Board of Education meeting, Cassville Community Teachers Association members presented the board with an appreciation gift.

School Board Recognition Week is sponsored by the Missouri School Boards’ Association. MSBA is a private, not-for-profit organization that exists to help school boards succeed.
