Charlea Estes-Jones
Cassville R-IV School Board has two new members after Tuesday's election. Wade Hermansen and Steven Henbest were elected to the board and will be sworn in at the April board meeting.
Cassville School Board election drew six challengers to the one incumbent seeking reelection. Carolyn Bowen faced challengers Wade Hermansen, Steven Henbest, Lisa Roark, Mark Kelley, Michael Hagins and Devin Barber. Board president John Sullivan did not seek reelection, saying he believed it was time for him to step down from his position after serving on the board for 30 years.

Hermansen said, "It truly is a beautiful school, and I look forward to working for the parents, teachers and students."
Hermansen also talked about his plans as he assumes his role as board member. "Mainly, I want to get settled in, understand the structure and the processes and make sure that I am developing the proper relationships so that I can be an informed school board member," he said.
Hermansen continued, "I want to make sure that I make myself available. That is the system that I am going to follow. I have

Protesters gather demanding justice for dogs shot in Eagle Rock

Charlea Estes-Jones
On Saturday afternoon, over 50 people gathered on a small rural road in Eagle Rock for a single purpose: Justice for Gus, a movement demanding charges for the shooting deaths of three dogs last month. The three Labradors, Gus, Tug and Kaycee, were shot to death while playing in Table Rock Lake, according to owner Dani Johnson.
The group of people demanding Justice for Gus gathered outside of the driveway entrance to the alleged shooters' property.

The deaths of the three family pets has gone viral online with multiple news outlets picking up the story and a flood of negative online reviews for the people who allegedly killed the dogs. Protesters staged their demonstration outside of the entrance to Paradise Cove Camping Resort in Eagle Rock who Johnson says are responsible for the dogs' deaths.
Since the dogs were shot on March 13, Paradise Cove has been the subject of over a thousand negative online reviews through Facebook, Google and Yelp. An online petition demanding justice for the shooting of the dogs currently has almost 127,000 signatures. Calls placed to Paradise Cove requesting an interview were never returned.
Protesters were on site

Dozens of protesters gathered on Saturday to demand Justice for Gus, a movement to gain attention to the shooting of three Labradors on Table Rock Lake.

Saturday to demand felony charges for the people who shot them. They also said they will be out every Saturday protesting until felony charges are filed against those responsible for the dogs' deaths.
People at the protest Saturday came from as far away as Wichita, Kan., Tulsa, and Kansas City. Most were locally from the Eagle Rock area.
One woman, Pam Harris-Linn, of Nixa, said she drove down to the lake town, because she couldn't get the story out of her head. She said, "I came out because this sickened me. I thought about it everyday, and they aren't even my dogs."
Another woman, Tara Asmus, is from Eagle Rock and had two dogs go missing last year. She shared, "We live around the corner. We had two dogs go missing, and now we're afraid this is what it was."

Johnson gave an impassioned speech over the bullhorn, addressing the crowd and the alleged shooters. She said, "It's very simple. These were not just dogs, they weren't just animals. They had souls, something you have no idea about."
The crowd responded with 'amens' before Johnson continued. "Anyone who could brutalize and mutilate has no soul. I knew my dogs. They were like babies. They were trusting and I know you took advantage of that. I'll never forget."

One man said he heard the shooting of the dogs, not realizing what was going on. Terri and Steve Featherston were both at the protest, wielding signs. Terri said, "We knew their dogs." Steve added that their niece actually adopted one of Gus' pups.
Terri continued, "He heard the whole thing, but he didn't know what he was hearing. He heard the shot and the dog cry out, and then a bunch more shots."
Steve said, "I thought maybe they shot a coyote. I didn't think they'd shoot a dog, but I was wrong."
Most protesters on Saturday agreed that they didn't feel

Central Crossing Fire propositions pass, department to be staffed 24 hours

Charlea Estes-Jones

With votes tallied, both Barry and Stone County voters showed up at the polls heavily in favor of new levies that will help to financially support the Central Crossing Fire Department. Two propositions appeared on the ballot for the fire department, each requested a $0.30 cent levy per $100 of assessed property value to fund the department. The 30 cent levy will be used to fund operational support and the other 30 cent levy will make the fire department staffed 24 hours a day.
Central Crossing Fire Chief Rusty Rickard said, "We're thankful for the good turn out and positive results. Obviously, we're looking forward to the future. We've still got a pretty difficult financial year ahead of us just to get through 2018, but we're looking forward to the future. We thank voters for the support they've shown us."

Rickard sent out a letter to voters prior to the election explaining the reason the board was putting the issue before the voters. In the letter, Rickard said, "It is past time to determine if the department should 'get smaller' or 'get bigger.'"
Rickard said the fire department's board of directors was faced with tough decisions regarding funding. He said, "The whole plan for this was the board was up against some very difficult decisions as far as our future was concerned. Rather than making those decisions without talking to the voters, that led us to this election. Thankfully, things went well and the voters have spoken what their desires are for us moving forward.”

According to figures provided by Central Crossing, the average resident will see a $35 to $70 increase on their home taxes annually.

Rickard said that a lot of the groundwork has already been laid for the changes with the new levy in 2019. He said, “On the equipment side, that’s where we’ve seen the biggest issue. We have old and outdated equipment. A lot of the equipment work assessment had to be done before we went to voters just to see what funding we needed. We didn’t want to go out and say we needed a ten cent levy when we needed a 40 cent levy. So we did a lot of that ahead of time.

“Our desires are already in place for equipment.”

As far as staffing, that will be new for the department. In the same regard as the equipment, Rickard said research was done prior to asking voters to make the decision. “On the staffing side of things, we’ve done research as to the cost and benefits for the same reasons to figure out how much money we needed to ask for. The policies and paperwork and operational side of those things is what we’ll be diving off into between now and the first of 2019,” he said.

Rickard said that the board of directors didn’t want to make decisions to scale back services or get rid of equipment without letting voters make the decision. He said, “We tried to get people to understand from the beginning that we don’t have to grow, but we either had to get bigger or get smaller for lack of better terms. We couldn’t continue the way we were going. Our maintenance and repair bills completely absorbed our new equipment budget and was eating into our operational budget. Our board wasn’t willing to continue this way because you can’t run a business that way.

“They were prepared to make some substantial cuts and close some fire stations and get rid of some of our fleet and downsize. But before they did that and impacted the services to the public, they wanted the public to speak, and the public has spoken.”

With both propositions passing, equipment will be tested and improved, and the department will now employ six certified firefighter/EMTs for full-time coverage as well as one office/clerical staff member. Two certified firefighter/EMTs will be at the station’s headquarters 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

In the letter sent out by Rickard to voters, the following benefits were listed if the Proposition 1 passed:

- Allow operations of your fire department to continue in a progressive direction
- Permit upgrades, replacement, repairs and testing of fleet and equipment
- Improve local communications/paging system after federal mandated changes
- Provide necessary safety gear and protective equipment for members
- Purchase proper extrication and rescue equipment for use on newer vehicles

The following was listed if Proposition 2 passed:

- Employ six certified Firefighter/EMT’s for full time coverage and one office/clerical staff
- Two certified Firefighter/EMT’s will be stationed at headquarters every day 24/7
- Staff responsible for maintenance of apparatus, equipment, stations and grounds

- Quicker response time to fire and medical calls
- Volunteers are still very much needed and required

Voters were heavily in favor of both propositions. Barry County voters supported Proposition 1 with 435 yes votes to 141 no votes. Stone County supported the proposition with 212 yes votes to 87 no votes. On Proposition 2, Barry County voters supported it with 367 yes votes against 207 no votes. Stone County supported Proposition 2 with 185 yes votes to the 118 no votes.

Proposition 1 passed with 73.9 percent of the vote. Proposition 2 passed with 62.9 percent of the vote. Voters also elected Dave Wilhelm and Debbie Gerleve to the board of directors. They beat out Chris Gibbons. Wilhelm had 491 votes, Gerleve had 431 votes and Gibbons had 352 votes.

CHAPTER FIVE OF EIGHT

KALI: A Polar Bear's Tale

AUTHOR: CAROLYN MUELLER | ILLUSTRATOR: JEREMY PATTON & JAYNE BALLEW

Chapter Five:

A few days later, Kali was put on a plane for the second time in his short life. He was headed for the Alaska Zoo. When Kali arrived at the Alaska Zoo he was greeted by zookeepers, who knew just what a baby polar bear needed. The keepers created a space for Kali, complete with a big, fluffy pile of straw where he could stay cozy and warm, and a box full of toys and blankets so that he would have something to play with in his new home. The keepers fell in love with the bright-eyed baby, but they knew Kali would not be staying forever. The Alaska Zoo already had two full grown polar bears living there, and did not have enough room for a third. Still, they all looked forward to the task of raising the cub for a little while and felt lucky to play an important role in Kali's life.

Raising a baby polar bear means much more than getting him to eat. The keeper team at the Alaska Zoo would become Kali's surrogate mothers. They not only had to provide food for him every few hours, but they also had to be sure he was getting enough water, gaining enough weight, and learning the "bear" necessities.

Like any young animal, Kali learned through play. The keepers would take Kali out into his snowy yard and give him balls or stuffed toys. They gave him a big tub of water so that he could learn how to swim. Boxes were placed to encourage him to climb in and out of things, building strength in his legs. With so much play time, Kali took lots of naps. Solid foods like salmon and bear chow, a kibble made specifically for bears, were added to his diet. He grew bigger, stronger, and more confident every day.

The keepers treasured their play sessions with the cub but knew it could not last forever. Soon, Kali would be too big and powerful to share a space with people. And there's only so much a polar bear cub can learn from humans. It is best to learn how to be a polar bear from another polar bear.

Three months after his arrival at the Alaska Zoo, Kali prepared for another journey. This time, he'd go even farther from his original home in the village of Point Lay.

Ask Zoo Keeper Julie

How fast are polar bears?
They can swim at speeds up to 6 mph and run up to 25 mph.

Fun Fact:
The polar bear was the mascot for the 1988 Winter Olympics in Calgary, Canada.

I will say that in his news conference there were a couple of misleading statements that he made. One was that there was no eyewitness. There was a witness. Secondly, he also said that originally that one of

"But every day, they have a shotgun mounted in their vehicle and they are carrying side arms. No reason for it. This is why we want a felony. Because we want those guns taken away from them."

Stilwell was not the only one who said she had seen the owners of the camp grounds patrol the neighborhood with guns. One man, Gerry Fohnseca, said he believes the owners are responsible for two dogs shot that he knows of. He said, "I used to walk my brother's dog, Coco, and my friend Terry's dog, Kahuna. They would patrol this road in their golf cart with their firearm sticking out to kill every dog they'd see."

“They told my brother they murdered her, and it was their fault for not keeping her on their own property. They

Despite multiple claims that the problem is recurring, Sheriff Davis said no eyewitnesses had come forward. He also said he stuck by his original statements in interviews that there were no eye witnesses, but that he had not seen the photos.

He said, "The Sheriff's Department has sent the information from our investigation to the prosecutor's office."

Some of the commentary online and messages sent to the Sheriff's Department were critical of the timeframe of the investigation. Part of the protest was demanding action on the case. An initial post by Johnson went viral with almost 3,000 shares within the first day.

Sheriff Davis said, "I'm sensitive to the dogs being killed. I have two. The dogs were shot on the 13th. The owners called us on the 15th. By Wednesday of the next week, we had the dog shooting case done. It was a week out and our investigation was done. I think most of Barry County understands we have to prioritize."

Dani Johnson, of Eagle Rock, is pictured above at the protest for justice after the shooting deaths of her three dogs last month. Gus, Kaycee and Tug were all shot on Table Rock Lake and protesters gathered outside the alleged shooters' property to demand felony charges against them. Johnson donned a shirt that said, "I was their mom".

Davis continued, “We go on animal calls every day. We responded to 28 animals calls just in the month of March. It’s not like we don’t care about this stuff. We also responded to potential suicide calls, 67 suspicious person calls, 24 harassments, 27 disturbance calls and 20 domestics. In March, there were 978 911 calls. Those were actually dispatched by 911, that doesn’t include those that contact us directly.”

Now the case is in Barry County Prosecuting Attorney Amy Boxx's hands, according to Davis. As of time of press, no charges had been filed according to Casenet, and Boxx had not returned an email requesting an update on the case. In Missouri, prosecutors have up to a year to file charges after receiving a report from law enforcement.

"The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida, and desired him, saying, "Sir, we would see Jesus." John 12:21 This verse has some of the most important words of all time. "Sir, we would see Jesus." The word 'would' in Greek means 'wish'.

Knowing Jesus is of the highest importance. We must see Jesus as our Savior, as the son of God, as the guiding force of our lives. Where do we see Jesus? In the Bible. Paul tells us how to see Jesus; "For I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified". 1st Corinthians 2:2 We should also see Jesus in His followers. Christians are to show Jesus Christ to the world; "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me." Galatians 2:20

Please join us at Mill Street as we strive to see Jesus in the scriptures and show Jesus in our lives.

Purdy AmeriCorps program celebrates year, seeks recruits

Purdy R-II School District AmeriCorps Program Director Renae Neill and the Purdy AmeriCorps Reading Coaches will host an informational meeting for anyone interested in serving as a Purdy AmeriCorps Reading Coach for the 2018-2019 school year. The meeting will be held at Purdy Elementary on Thursday, April 5, at 8:30 a.m.

The team of 10 part-time reading coaches and two Purdy High School students is wrapping up a busy year of service. In addition to their daily literacy work with Purdy Elementary students, the coaches volunteered their services at the school's fall PTSO Mega Party and coordinated the annual Thanksgiving Food Drive that netted a record 3,055 pounds of food for Purdy First Baptist Food Pantry and Monett Crosslines. Purdy AmeriCorps members also gave their time to Crosslines packing Christmas food boxes for area families. They served the St. John's Lutheran Church Snack Backpack program that provides weekend food to Purdy students, sorting and packing ready-to-eat meals for hungry bellies. The team celebrated National AmeriCorps Week March 4-11 by rolling up their shirtsleeves and removing graffiti from the picnic tables in the city park. The team is currently planning its annual Scholastic Buy One, Get One Book Fair, scheduled for April 23-27. The Fair will be open for business each day, from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Neill and her team will host a Book Fair Family Night on Thursday, April 26, from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Neill spoke glowingly of her current team of literacy coaches. "My favorite part of the AmeriCorps experience is watching the team come together. Every month, through shared experiences ranging from reading with our children to serving the community through beautification projects, food drives and volunteer service to local organizations, such as Crosslines, our members draw closer and closer. Now that spring is here, it is difficult to think that some of our coaches won't be with us next year, but it's been a great ride, as usual, and we look forward to adding and meeting new faces next year."

First year member Misty Hughes offered words of wisdom for anyone considering applying for a service position for the 2018-2019 year. "To be honest, I applied for my personal and family benefit. I wanted to be more involved with my kids and their school activities. Going into my ninth month as a reading coach, I can honestly say I have gotten more from my co-workers and the kids with whom I read than I ever dreamed. Seeing things through little eyes has opened my eyes. If you choose to pursue service as a reading coach, I promise you they will change your perspective, too. I don't know what I did before my work pals and the kids that we serve came into my life."

For more information on the benefits of serving as an AmeriCorps reading coach at Purdy Schools, please call Renae Neill at (417) 840-0528.

Shell Knob man named “King of Hearts”

When you’re battling back from heart trouble, it can take a royal effort. David Mohler knows that all too well: he’s had multiple stents and vascular bypasses since the 1990s. Most recently, he had coronary artery bypass surgery and got a pacemaker.

Now, his efforts in cardiac rehabilitation have earned him the title of “Ozarks King of Hearts” for Mercy Springfield Communities. The award recognizes and honors patients who have made significant positive lifestyle changes for their heart health. It also educates people across the Ozarks about the importance of heart health.

Through exercise and diet, David has been able to stabilize his blood pressure, lower his cholesterol and get back to some fun recreational activities like boating and golfing.

“David is always willing to listen to our advice,” said Tiffanie Holman, RN at Mercy Hospital Cassville. “He was very active prior to his procedure and wanted to make a full recovery so he could get back to those things he loves. Beyond his own results, he’s also motivated other patients to keep coming in and working hard.”

Talk to your doctor about whether cardiac rehabilitation can make the same difference in your life.

Lee Stubblefield

On February 26, the Cassville Lady Wildcats held their very first high school soccer practice. Then, on March 23, in their very first game on their very own field, the Ladycats played Monett's JV team to a standstill on a night to remember.

Trailing 2-0 in their program's inaugural match, the Lady Wildcats earned a 2-2 tie with Monett on goals by Madi Bowyer and Damaris Taylor.

Cassville's boys soccer has a storied history. But in the past, Cassville girls who wanted to play beyond the youth leagues had few opportunities. In adding girls' soccer, Cassville is making a giant step forward with its athletic program.

This season, the Lady Wildcats will play an all JV schedule with an eye on beginning varsity play in 2019.

Cassville will host New Covenant Academy next Tuesday, April 10. Kick off is set for 4:30 p.m.

Members of the historical first Cassville High School girls soccer team include: Bayla Osborne, Jazmin Aguirre, Kamyryn Jaques, Dalia Phelps, Nautica Russell, Madison Bowyer, Alexis Mann, Olivia Holman, Sadie Reuter, Jamie Watts, Brianna Hemphill, Leila Chavez, Damaris Taylor, Lakein Madison, Emily Sink, Emily Ortega. Mangers are: Carter Fletcher, Russell Dunker and Eli Herrin.

Long celebrates Cassville Intermediate repairs with ribbon cutting Congressman Billy Long recently helped the Cassville R-IV School District celebrate the completion of repairs of the intermediate school. Cassville superintendent Richard Asbill has attributed Long’s office to be integral in helping the school receive FEMA funds to help pay for the project.

Congressman Billy Long (MO-07) and Dr. Richard Asbill, the superintendent of Cassville R-IV School District, released the following statement after the ribbon cutting for the newly renovated classrooms at the Cassville Middle School:

“A few years ago, during a meeting with the southwest Missouri school administrators, I made a point to say, just like I do with all constituents, to call me if they ever need my help,” said Rep. Long. “A few months later, Dr. Asbill took me up on that offer and called me asking for help to secure funding for flood damage repairs for the Cassville Intermediate School. My office and I got to work immediately and contacted FEMA. After months of hard work, FEMA finally approved the funding. I’m happy to do what I can to help my constituents on a federal level. This kind of work is why I ran for office.”

Roof Solar to bring solar power benefits to area chicken houses

Charlea Estes-Jones

Clean energy is a growing trend and one business is bringing the benefits of solar power to area chicken farmers and businesses. Roof Power Solar, a solar panel installation company based out of Rich Hill, is presenting a seminar in Purdy next week to explain the benefits of putting solar panels on chicken houses in Barry County as well as how to utilize grants and tax credits to help pay for it.

Roof Power Solar owner Jeff Droz said, “Generally, the system, before incentives, will take eight to ten years for payback. After incentives, it can be as low as three to four years payback depending on credits and utility rebates.”

The system Roof Power Solar is marketing toward farmers means support from start to finish to help farmers go solar with as much ease as possible. Droz said they complete all the utility company paperwork, and permit applications as well as rebate and grant applications.

Start to finish, a system takes anywhere from six weeks to three months to be up and running.

When asked why Droz is focusing his efforts on chicken houses, he said, “It’s the perfect area to put up solar panels, but we can set them up on roofs or the ground, anywhere that a commercial business has room for them.”

Droz also helps customers decide on what system will be most advantageous based on their needs and property. He stated, “It’s based on the customer’s space and usage. We come up with the best return on their investment and that is our first proposed system size. We look at all the variables and try to find the best return for the customer.”

With solar power, on a sunny day, a customer’s meter will run backward, then that kilowatt hour credit can be used toward credit on that month’s bill. If a customer sends more power back to their utility company than they use, that will roll over on their bill for up to a year, according to Droz. However, the credit for that power is at a wholesale rate, which is about a fourth of the retail cost charged by a utility company. Even so, in a month, the credit for power exchange is one-to-one, meaning a lot of the time, having solar panels set up means farmers won’t have an electric bill.

Droz started his business six years ago, and today he has over 15,000 solar panels out on businesses across the state. He said it all started when he built a small house and realized the cost to run utility lines. Droz Shared, “In 2004, I first bought my panels to power a little small home and it was too far from the electric lines to connect. It was cheaper to buy the panels and batteries. In doing so, I learned quite a bit. Then I built a bigger house with a considerably larger solar system.

“There was basically no one installing at that time.”

Roof Power Solar now serves businesses south of Kansas City all the way to Arkansas and as far east as Springfield, according to Chicken farms are usually ideal places for solar panels. Pictured above is a panel Roof Power Solar installed between chicken houses.

So far, they have two farms set up with solar panels in the area, and he’s hoping more farmers will utilize the service which is why he is planning the seminar for Monday.

He said, “We’re going to explain how solar can save business owners money. We have an example system that we did in Purdy this fall. That one will be there to help answer questions, too.”

He continued, “We’ve done a project in Purdy and south of Mt. Vernon. We don’t have a lot around Cassville at the moment, but now that we’ve done two poultry farms and we realized how big of opportunity there is for those types of operations, we’ve shifted our focus to them superficially for the next year or two.”

Droz concluded, “Basically, we’re going to explain the parts, pieces and the how-to, including paperwork and available grants and rebates.”

With Roof Power Solar helping farmers get as many applicable credits and grants as possible, the endeavor can cost much less than people realize. Droz said, “There is a 25-percent competitive USDA grant, but it isn’t guaranteed. There’s a 30 percent federal tax credit. On a business, people are eligible for a five-year depreciation schedule.” While municipal and cooperatives don’t offer

Former CHS music teacher Russell Robinson to present scholarship April 9

Dr. Russell Robinson, former music teacher at Cassville R-IV schools (1974-1979, 1980-81), will be in Cassville on April 9 with his wife, Brenda, to present the first Russell Robinson Music Education Scholarship to a graduating senior, who is going to college and majoring in music education.

The presentation will follow a choral concert at 7 p.m. in the FEMA Event Center where the choirs will perform and Robinson will conduct some of his published choral works at the request of Mary Richmiller, CHS Choral Director.

“This very, very generous scholarship is a game changer for our students,” said Richmiller. “Dr. Robinson is a renowned composer and conductor. He wants to give back to Cassville, where he began his teaching career. I am humbled and thrilled that he is providing this opportunity for our students. It is especially exciting that he is coming to Cassville to present this award to the first recipient. The choirs at Cassville R-IV are rehearsing music he has composed for this terrific evening. Dr. Robinson has graciously agreed to work with our students himself and conduct his pieces at the concert. I hope everyone in Cassville comes to this very special concert to celebrate the music he has given the world as well as our school choirs.”

As this first scholarship will probably be the only time Dr. Robinson will personally attend to present this annual award, all of the Cassville community are encouraged to attend.

Robinson says, “I have such fond memories of beginning my teaching career in Cassville. As a 22 year-old college graduate, my students were so kind to me as were the fellow teachers, administrators, parents and the entire community. After retiring from the University of Florida in 2016, I reflected on how much Cassville influenced my personal life and my professional career. I communicated my wishes to establish an annual scholarship with Superintendent Dr. Richard Asbill, School Board Member Jon Horner (my former music student), and Mary Richmiller, and they made it easy for me to make this a reality. I only wanted to establish the criteria and provide the funding for the scholarship each year, and not be involved in the actual selection of the recipient. When I was teaching in Cassville, I had so many gifted and talented students, many of whom could have benefitted from financial assistance in pursuing a music teaching career. I am privileged to not only pay it forward but also pay it backward for all that Cassville did for me.”

“Dr. Robinson’s commitment is twofold in demonstrating his view of music education and Cassville School District,” stated Dr. Asbill. “His efforts to support students’ dreams and career pursuits in music education is so important to our local community.”

Dr. Russell L. Robinson, was named Emeritus Professor of Music Education at the University of Florida and received the Preeminent Faculty award in 2016 when he retired after 32 years as Professor and Head of Music Education. He received his Bachelor of Music Education degree from Drury University in 1974 and his masters and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Miami in 1980 and 1984.

Robinson has made over 300 appearances as a conductor, speaker, consultant and presenter at festivals, workshops, honor choirs, all-state choirs and state, regional, national and international conferences in the US, Europe, Asia, Africa, Central America, South America, Mexico, Canada, the Middle East, and Australia as well as conducting venues, which include: Carnegie Hall (three times and has been invited to conduct there again in 2019), Lincoln Center, the Kennedy Center, Boston’s Symphony Hall, the White House, and Washington’s National Cathedral.

Dr. Robinson was the 2016 inductee into the Florida Music Educators Association (FMEA) Hall of Fame, and is a past President of FMEA, Associate Dean of the UF College of the Arts, National Collegiate Chair and Choral Adviser for the National Association for Music Education (NAfME).

He and his wife Brenda, were the Founding Directors of the UF Teach the World program from 2010-2017, providing internships for over 100 college students in international schools in Rome and Paris. After several trips to Africa, Dr. Robinson founded the UF Africa Choir in 2009 with an institutional linkage program at Kenyatta University in Nairobi, having his Ph.D. students from Kenya conduct the choir. This choir is still in existence at UF, performing authentic choral music of Eastern, Western and Southern Africa.

Robinson is a published author, composer and arranger with over 450 publications in print, including choral compositions, arrangements, articles, books, and instructional DVD’s that are used by music teachers world-wide.

Jon Horner added, “It is such a wonderful and gracious act by Russ and Brenda to set up the scholarship for CHS students wanting to go into music education. Russ has had such a positive impact on the lives of so many students during his career. Russ has been an amazing mentor and has had a tremendous impact on my professional life. I’m

Since his retirement from UF, he has continued to be active professionally: writing, conducting, speaking and consulting internationally, and as he says, “having a lot of fun doing only what Brenda and I want to do.” Dr. Robinson’s website is: RussellRobinson.com.

Purdy's Bayleigh Schad to attend D.C. Journalism Conference

Schad

Bayleigh Schad, a student at Purdy R2 High School, has been selected to represent Purdy as a National Youth Correspondent to the 2018 Washington Journalism and Media Conference at George Mason University.

Schad joins a select group of students from all over the country for an intensive study of journalism and media. Schad was chosen based on academic accomplishments and a demonstrated interest and excellence in journalism and media studies.

National Youth Correspondents participate in hands-on, experiential learning through decision-making simulations that challenge them to solve problems and explore the creative, practical, and ethical tensions inherent in journalism and media. The experiential portion of the program is complemented by speakers who are well-known leaders in the media community. Presenters include prominent journalists, CEOs of major media outlets, researchers, and recent college graduates successfully entering the field. Past speakers have included Hoda Kotb from NBC, Brian Lamb from C-SPAN, Pulitzer Prize winning photographer Carol Guzy, and Sonya Ross from the Associated Press.

With distinguished faculty, guest speakers, and direct access to elite D.C. practitioners, the Washington Journalism and Media Conference offers aspiring journalists and student leaders an unparalleled experience. The week long program, held at George Mason University's state-of-the-art campus, will encourage and inspire young leaders from across the country who desire a unique experience focused on successful careers in this dynamic industry.

The Washington Journalism and Media Conference will be held July 15 to 20, 2018.

About George Mason University

Its dynamic culture and innovative academic programs prepare Mason's hard-working students for 21st century careers. SOLAR from 2B rebates, most other electric companies do.

Droz said, “If it’s on Empire Electric, there is a rebate up to $12,500 per meter.”

Roof Power Solar also offers a warranty on their products. Droz said, “We are always asked about the durability of the solar panels themselves. They are incredibly durable, but they are not indestructible. We have had to replace a few that were damaged by very large hail or large stones from mowing. Generally, people have insurance for them with their home insurance to protect them from damage.

“We do offer a warranty. The panel is warranted against falling apart and not working, but not against a tree or a rock or giant hailstone, similar to a car’s windshield.

“They are made to be outside for 25 plus years. They are rated up to one-inch hailstones. The only ones I’ve seen damaged were from hail the size of softballs.

“The panels have 25 years, and the inverters have 12 year warranties. We also have a two year warranty for craftsmanship in terms of our installation.”

Droz said that he started Roof Power Solar because it is something he believes in on a personal level. “It was a combination of financial reasons and environmental reasons and self-sufficiency. I could have put in a power line, but I didn’t want to be tied to the coal powered plants. Environmental, financial and personal independence and being able to make my own energy was pretty significant driver,” he explained.

To find out more about Roof Power Solar and how they could impact your business, the seminar is Monday, April 9, at 6 p.m. in the Purdy Community building.

Roof Power Solar is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and can be reached at (417) 393-2355 or at www.roofpowersolar.com. They are located at 908 East Park in Rich Hill.

Care Group for Single Moms

Are you a single mom with a desire to connect with other moms going through the same struggles as you? Being alone is hard, but you can join with others who share some of the same day-to-day struggles. A monthly Care Group for Single Moms meets on Monday, April 9, at the Cassville First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall at 602 West Street.

The evening of fun, food and fellowship is designed to bless and encourage single moms. The doors open at 5:30 p.m. and the evening concludes at 7 p.m. Simultaneously, there are planned activities for children.

The Care Group for Single Moms is part of The Caring People, which is a Christian organization that reaches out to single moms. Christian women are trained to lead care groups in which single moms receive unconditional love and friendship. It was founded by JoDee Herschend in 1997. One in four homes in America is headed by a single mom. Discover more about The Caring People at www.thecaringpeople.org.

Barry County Clerk sending out voter canvasses

By law, every two years, Gary Youngblood, Barry County Clerk, is required to canvass the voters before a general election for federal office. The purpose for this is to update the records with correct addresses or names. Youngblood and his staff are working to send each registered voter in the county a new voter registration canvass card.

This new yellow canvass card will replace the old voter registration canvass card. When voters receive their cards, they should check to see that all the information is correct. If the information is incorrect, the voter should fill in the correct information and return the cards to Youngblood’s office.

Anyone who receives a card for a relative, who no longer lives in Barry County or is deceased, should notify Youngblood’s office in writing and include the relative’s name and date of birth. The person submitting the information should sign the document and list his/her relationship to the relative.

For more information, call the Barry County Clerk’s office at (417) 847-2762 or write to 700 Main St Suite 2, Cassville, MO 65625 or e-mail to barrycountyclerk@centurytel.net.
