Cassville hires new athletic director

Rachael Freeman

After interviewing candidates both in-house and out of the district, Cassville Schools has hired their next Athletic Director. The position became available earlier this semester when current Athletic Director Ben Abramovitz extended his resignation.

Cassville hired Doug Martin from Ash Grove for the position. At Ash Grove, Martin was the head football coach as well as the health and physical education teacher.

According to Cassville Schools Superintendent Dr. Richard Asbill, Martin will officially take over as Athletic Director beginning in July but the district is looking to ask him to do some transitional duties as early as June so they can expedite the transition for Martin as well as the District.

Asbill stated, “Doug brings a wealth of experience and leadership in athletics and budget management. Doug's experience in both the small and large school district venue provides him a great balance to understand all the needs of each sport and the need to work with other activity programs when students are

17 year-old Purdy student charged with rape

Pastor-Gomez

Charlea Mills

A 17-year-old Purdy student is being charged as an adult for allegedly raping a 14-year-old in the teacher's lounge earlier this month.

Wilder Francisco Pastor-Gomez was arrested on Wednesday, April 22, for the crime that allegedly occurred on April 6. According to an affidavit of probable cause written by Purdy Police Chief Jackie Lowe, Pastor-Gomez assaulted the girl in the teacher's lounge of the school and that the security camera showed the two entering the teacher's lounge together.

It stated that the girl told the school's nurse, Sarai Salazar, that he forced her to have sexual intercourse against her will. Lowe also said that a witness interrupted the assault and saw the suspect with his pants down and the victim unclothed.

During an interview at the Children's Advocacy Center, the victim described the event in detail and said that Pastor-Gomez told her to pull her pants down at least three times.

Dr. Steven Chancellor, Purdy Schools superintendent, released the following statement:

“On April 9, 2015, Purdy High School administrators heard rumors concerning a serious act of alleged student misconduct.

“The administration conducted a prompt investigation and removed the alleged perpetrator from school. At that time, school officials made a hotline report and notified law enforcement. The District also is taking action to assist the alleged victim and her family. We are fully cooperating with law enforcement in their criminal investigation. The District takes the welfare and safety of its students very seriously and deeply regret that one of our students appears to have been abused by another student on school premises. School officials and staff are reviewing what transpired to determine what steps, if any, can be taken to minimize the reoccurrence of such misconduct.”

Pastor-Gomez is being held in the Barry County Jail in lieu of a $15,000 cash-only bond on charges of rape in the 2nd degree.

Seligman breaks ground on splash pad

Sanders Construction began levelling out the area where the new splash pad will be installed at the Seligman City Park last week. Plumbing is expected to begin being installed this week.

Charlea Mills

After two and a half years, the City of Seligman finally broke ground on the new splash pad being installed in the city park.

The splash pad, which will be a 30-foot concrete circle with 24 water jets is being installed on the north side of City Hall in the park. The project began in 2012 when the city purchased the splash pad equipment for $7,600.

Since then, city clerk Brian Nichols said it has been a few factors that delayed the project. He said, “Part of it was finding people to bid it.” Initially, Seligman mayor Jason Raucstadt, who was also the maintenance supervisor, was planning to do the project himself in-house. However, after he resigned as mayor and the council opted to terminate his position with the city, the project needed to be bid to outside parties.

In mid-summer, the city asked for bids for the project. Two bids came in for the installation. The first bid was from Sanders Construction for $18,246. The other bid came from the company who manufactured the splash pad, Rain Deck out of Florida. Rain Deck bid the project at over $47,000. The Seligman City Council opted to accept Sanders Construction's bid.

Last week, Sanders broke ground by levelling out the area that will house the 30-foot pad. This week, they plan to install the plumbing for the pad. It will also have a three-foot sidewalk around the outside and park benches, as well. Ten new park benches were purchased for the park by a grant from Walmart for $1,500. The benches will be placed around the splash pad and throughout the park.

Sanders said the project should be complete by June and ready to use. The pad will be set up with a touch pad embedded in the concrete. When it is activated, the jets will operate from 15 to 30 minutes, whatever they decide to set the timer at. Then if they shut off, the pad will just need to be activated again.

The water from the jets will be recycled and stored in an underground tank with a UV filter and chlorine tablets. Nichols said they expect the pad to be operational throughout any time when freezing isn't an issue. He anticipates the pad to be turned on for patrons from April through late October.

Rash of burglaries may be related

Charlea Mills

A recent string of burglaries may be related, according to local law enforcement. In the last week, Cassville Police Department has responded to three burglaries and one attempt. The Barry County Sheriff's Department has responded to around nine.

Sheriff Mick Epperly stated, “We think they're all related, but we can't be sure. Whoever they are, the seem to be pretty busy lately so we want to get it taken care of.”

Cassville's Police Department received a report of cash stolen from Burchfield Tax Service on Sale Barn Road and an attempted burglary at Gerardi's restaurant. Those burglaries were after a break-in at Cassville Discount Grocery earlier this month. Then, this week, Cassville Police Chief Dana Kammerlohr confirmed that Papa Vape's on Main Street was also burglarized and cash was stolen. Kammerlohr said that both burglaries occurred through the back entrances of the businesses, but that no other details are available at this time.

She said, “There's a suspicion when there are multiple burglaries that they may be related.”

Epperly said that last week, MO-ARK cattle sale was struck as well as the Hardwood Lumber Comapny, both in Exeter. Earlier this month, there were also break-ins at Sunrise Cafe in Monett and an attempted burglary at Trinity Presbyterian Church in Shell Knob. Two other Shell Knob businesses, Icy Mae's and Neill's Home Store, were also burglarized, but the alleged thief in the Shell Knob thefts was caught. The Shell Knob burglaries are attributed to Heath A. Sanborn who is being held in the Barry County Jail.

This week, the Sheriff's Department has already received reports from Benny's Auto Repair in Washburn, Country Cooking in Washburn and Cassville Hardware on Sale Barn Road that all had been burglarized, and cash was stolen from each location.

Epperly said, “We have one picture from a video camera that might be of interest and we hope to get an ID from.”

If you have any information regarding recent burglaries, contact the Cassville Police Department at (417) 847-4911 or the Barry County Sheriff's Department at (417) 847-6556.

Man charged with Shell Knob's Icy Mae's burglary

born also had a deep cut on his left palm and his flashlight was found at a different burglary committed nearby with blood on it. Barry County Sheriff Mick Epperly confirmed that the other burglary was at Neill's Home Store in Shell Knob where only change was stolen. The glass was smashed in at the back entrance at Neill's, as well.

Det. Evenson applied for a DNA warrant to match the blood at the crime scene to Sanborn, according to a statement released by the Sheriff's Department.

Sanborn was charged with burglary in the second degree, a class C felony, and theft/stealing, a class A misdemeanor. He is being held in the Barry County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

Charlea Mills

A man has been charged with burglarizing Icy Mae's and Neill's Home Store in Shell Knob last week after being identified on security tape footage.

Heath Allan Sanborn, 32, was arrested on Thursday, April 23, for the crime that occurred around 10:26 p.m. on Wednesday night. According to an affidavit of probable cause written by Detective Robert Evenson, Sanborn broke into Icy Mae's on Highway 39 by smashing the glass door and walking through.

On the security footage, he was seen taking a collection jar for an animal shelter, and then he tried to open the cash register. When he was unable to open the register, he took the entire register with him.

Employees of the restaurant, as well as Sheriff Mick Epperly and Deputy Angela Cole, identified Sanborn as the person in the video. When officers made contact with him, he was wearing the same jeans and shoes as on the video, as well as the same facial hair as on the video.

According to Evenson, San-

Roses celebrate 70 years of marriage

Denver and Dorris (Watson) Rose were united in marriage on May 5, 1945 in Cassville. The Roses were blessed with three children, six grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Denver and Dorris are both residents of Cassville Healthcare and Rehab on County Road in Cassville.

There will be a drop in celebration at the Rehab Center on Sunday, May 3, 2015 from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. There will be a basket for cards from well-wishers.

The event is hosted by their daughter, Annette Henderson and her husband, Charles, of Seligman, and their son, Garry and Barb, of Washburn. Garry's twin brother passed away in February 1998.

E.M.

The Hotel Barry Building now occupied by Ellis Cupps and Cole was built in 1894 by John M. Bayless. A hotel has been located on this site from near the time Cassville was established in 1845 until the building housing the Barry Hotel was converted in to a law office and abstract office in 1959.

The original hotel on this site was the McConnell Hotel and was owned and operated by William Shakespeare McConnell. McConnell had come to Cassville in 1849 and has been described as being an attorney, a druggist and occasionally a doctor.

Circuit Court records reflect McConnell was first enrolled as a practicing attorney in Barry County in May of 1850, and he actively practiced law for almost 40 years.

He built the McConnell Hotel on this site before the Civil War 1861-1865.

As well as practicing law, William Shakespeare McConnell served as the State Representative from Barry County in 1861-62. These were turbulent years leading up to and during the first part of the Civil War. Missouri, a slave state, as well as Barry County was divided over the question of whether Missouri should succeed from the Union. In February, 1861, a constitutional convention was convened to consider whether Missouri should succeed from the union. The delegates at the convention voted not to succeed, and stated, "The position of Missouri in relation to the adjacent States which would continue in the Union, would necessarily expose her, if she became a member of the new confederacy, to utter destruction whenever any rupture might take place between the different republics. In a military aspect, secession and connection with a southern confederacy in annihilation for Missouri. The true position for her to assume is that of a State whose interest are bound up in the maintenance of the Union, and whose kind of feelings and strong sympathies are with the people of the Southern States with whom they are connected by ties of friendship and blood."

The delegates at the convention reflected the view of most Missourians that they did not want to take sides. Missouri remained a part of the Union, but became very much a battleground.

Missouri's Governor Claiborne Jackson who was a proponent of secession mobilized the Missouri State Guard (the state militia) to "repel" any incursion into the state by Federal troops when hostilities broke out between the Federal Government and the newly formed confederacy in April of 1861.

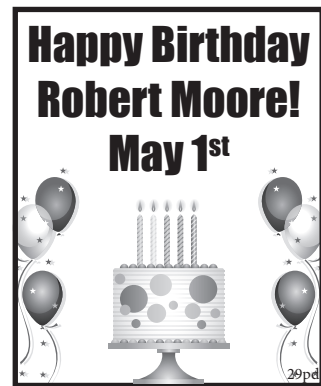

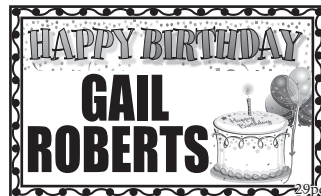

However, this mobilization of troops militia came to naught, when in June, 1861, Federal Troops under the command of Nathaniel Lyon advanced on Jefferson City compelling Jackson and his administration to flee the state capitol, never to return. Along with Jackson, the Missouri State Guard commanded by General Sterling Price left Jefferson City and after fighting Federal forces as an independent force allied with the Confederate forces, remnants of the Missouri State Guard were absorbed into the Confederate Army in 1863.

After fleeing Jefferson City, Governor Jackson made multiple attempts to convene the Missouri General Assembly to consider the question of secession. The governor called for a meeting of the state legislature in Neosho for October 21, 1861 for the purpose of considering the question of secession again. Though the legislature met in Neosho, and voted to secede, it did not have sufficient numbers present to constitute a quorum. On October 31, 1861, the rebel state government for the State of Missouri (at least the part of the state government in favor of succession) until November 7, 1861, when the threat of advancing Federal troops caused Governor Jackson and his administration to leave the state and go into Arkansas, never to return.

Because of it's location on the Wire Road, which ran from Rolla to Fort Smith Arkansas, Cassville changed hands at least three times, during the Civil War. On July 29, 1861, the Missouri Home Guards under the Command of Major General Sterling Price came to Cassville and here met up with regular Confederate Army forces from Arkansas and Texas under the command of General Ben McCullough. In Cassville they assembled some 12,000 men who marched north on the Wire Road to Greene County where they met and defeated Federal Forces under the command of General Nathaniel Lyon at Wilsons Creek on August 10, 1861.

After Wilson Creek, Cassville and Barry County were under the control of Confederate forces for only a short time. In February, 1862,

Confederate forces withdrew from Cassville in advance of Federal forces under the commander of General Samuel Curtis and joined other Confederate forces just over the state line in Arkansas under the command of General Earl Van Dorn. On March 6, 7, and 8, 1862, the two armies met in the Battle of Pea Ridge, Arkansas some twenty five miles southwest of Cassville. At Pea Ridge, the Federal forces defeated the Confederate army which include the Missouri Home Guards.

Because of his secessionist learnings William Shakespeare McConnell's was placed under house arrest by Federal authorities from 1862-1964. His McConnell Hotel was appropriated by the Union army and used as a hospital. Following the Battle of Pea Ridge, some of the wounded Union soldiers were brought by wagon from the battlefield to the hotel on this site. Soldiers who died here were brought by wagon from battlefield to the hotel on this site. Soldiers who died here were initially buried in a field owned by McConnell, which is now a part of the city park west of the present Oak Hill Cemetery. Following the Civil War these bodies were exhumed and reburied in the National Cemetery in Springfield, Missouri.

Throughout the war Cassville was subject to repeated occupation and conflict. By the end of the war in 1865, the town was decimated, from a population of approximately 500 residents and a thriving business district before the war, Cassville in 1865 had only had a few buildings and 150 residents left.

Mill Street Church of Christ

The Bible is full of water. One old preacher once said, “There is so much water in the Bible that if you were to wring it out with your hands it would gush out.” Consider how many times throughout Scripture that God used water to save His people or to teach a lesson. God used water to purify the world and save Noah (1 Peter 3:20,21). He parted the Red Sea for Moses and the Israelites to cross over on dry ground (Exodus 14:30). He again parted waters (Jordan River) for Israel when Joshua led them into the Promised Land (Joshua 3). That same River was the site of Naaman's healing when he was commanded by God's prophet Elisha to dip in the Jordan seven times in order to have his leprosy removed. And again this body of water was the location that John the Baptizer called much of Judea out to in order to baptize them. One of those individuals was Jesus Christ Himself. Water is fundamental to Christianity. Jesus said, “Most assuredly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God” (John 3:5). Again the Savior stated, “He who believes and is baptized will be saved; but he who does not believe will be condemned” (Mark 16:16). The members of the Mill Street church of Christ invite you to our services to learn more about this element of water and the commands that surround it.

For two decades now, Missouri has distinguished itself as the only state to consistently run out of unemployment funds. When the Unemployment Trust Fund runs dry, Missouri must borrow from the federal government to continue paying unemployment claims. When Missouri borrows, business owners are burdened with costly, unexpected bills to help the state pay off the remaining balance.

After five recessions, lawmakers now have a solution. Last week, the General Assembly sent HB 150, an overhaul of the state's unemployment insurance program, to Governor for his approval.

HB 150, sponsored by Rep. Scott Fitzpatrick (R-Cassville), would institute several changes to ensure Missouri's Unemployment Trust Fund remains solvent for years to come. Most importantly, the bill ties the length of unemployment benefits to the state's average unemployment rate; a maximum of 20 weeks if unemployment is greater than 9 percent down to 13 weeks if unemployment is below 6 percent. Missouri would be the fifth state; joining Kansas, Florida, Georgia, and North Carolina; to index unemployment benefits to the unemployment rate. The bill also raises the minimum fund balance before employers see a reduction in their contribution rate and requires the state to consider selling bonds to pay back federal debt.

"HB 150 is the solution to years of insolvency and federal borrowing," said Fitzpatrick. "Missouri workers and job creators cannot afford another two decades of kicking the can down the road. By tying the availability of unemployment benefits to the unemployment rate, we achieve two things: we return our trust fund to solvency and we ensure unemployment is used only as a safety net as workers transition between jobs."

HB 150 passed in the Senate, 21-8, and in the House, 88-68. The Governor has 15 days from April 22 to take action on HB 150.

Cassville vies for $10K for dual-enrollment

Charlea Mills

Cassville High School is competing for a $10,000 grant to help students who want to do dual-enrollment but can't afford the fees.

According to part-time counselor Patti Daniels, the school made a short four minute video about why they should win the grant. The grant is offered by the Midwest Technical Institute (MTI) in Springfield. The voting process is determined solely by Facebook votes on MTI's page.

MTI gives out the $10,000 grant to an eligible high school or vocational center to purchase equipment, renovate shops or labs and obtain resources for classroom instruction. According to MTI, "The program also supports the incorporation of real-world job preparation and hands-on training with a more conventional high school educational experience." Last year's winner was Climax Springs High School.

Cassville had to submit their video by March 29 and voting for the school continues until May 4. The winner of the grant will be announced on May 6. Cassville is one of 19 areas schools that applied for the grant for various projects and programs.

Currently, Cassville is in fifth place in the voting, but there is a sizeable gap between the local school and leaders Fordland and Bronaugh. As of time of press, Cassville had 303 votes and front-runner Fordland had 1,338. However, there are still a few days left in the voting.

When asked why the dual-enrollment program is so important, Daniels said, "The dual credit and dual enrollment program give students a jump start on college." if students enroll in enough classes that qualify for college credit, they could go into their first year of college after graduation as sophomores instead of freshmen, knocking a year off of their college graduation.

To vote for Cassville for the MTI $10,000 grant, go like MTI's Facebook page at <http://www.facebook.com/MTISpringfieldMO>. At the top of the page, there is a tab for "MTI $10,000 Grant." Once you click on the tab, there is a link to view entries. Click on Cassville's video and then click "vote". The vote count should change as soon as you submit your vote.

Daniels said, "There are many students who would participate in dual-enrollment if they could afford it, and this would make a big difference to them."

Cassville commercial building trends still slow Wildcat Stadium to get new press box

Charlea Mills

For the last few years, new construction projects in Cassville have been slow when compared to earlier years. New residential construction projects seem to have stayed steady, but additions, alterations and commercial projects have been slow for the last few years.

Within the Cassville city limits, a permit is required for any new construction project, addition to a building, roof project, alteration and more. A good way to look at economic trends is to analyze the building trends within a city. For Cassville, new home construction remained steady for the last few years, but commercial building projects have been sparse since an influx in 2011.

In 2011, the city had a big year for new construction. While the number of homes constructed was similar to years since, commercial construction and alterations made a big impact on revenue generated from building permits. The city generated $11,702 in revenue from construction permits, mostly due to large projects like the Casey's and Access. That was also the year where Sonic Drive-In and Emmanuel Baptist Church did alterations to their buildings.

Since, the closest year to 2011 in terms of revenue was 2013 when McDonald's applied for a building permit to rebuild after the devastating fire. In 2013, the city generated $9,286 in revenue from building permits, but 2012 and 2014's numbers were $1,969 and $2,330, respectively.

New home construction over the past four years has remained stable. In 2011, five permits for new homes inside the city limits were issued. In 2012, that number was only three, but in 2013 it went up to six, and in 2014, five permits were issued. Smaller projects, like additions to existing buildings, also contribute to permit fees, but no one applied for a permit for a major new addition or alteration in 2014. In 2013, three permits were issued for additions. By way of the numbers, the only stable trend appears to be new home construction within the city limits.

Thus far, only a few permits for minor projects have been applied for in 2015 with the city receiving $264.80 in building permit fees since the beginning of the year. Thus far, no commercial or new home construction projects are in the works.

Bringing new commercial businesses to the area is a popular discussion subject. In Cassville, the city, the Industrial Development Corporation and the Chamber of Commerce all work to bring in new businesses and support businesses already here.

According to Cassville Mayor Bill Shiveley, Cassville works to try to bring businesses into town, including monitoring various websites to see what businesses are looking to relocate or establish a new business. Shiveley also said, "The City supports the Chamber of Commerce and their efforts to promote local businesses. The City on its own does not have a budget to promote businesses, but the City participates in Chamber functions that promote local businesses."

Mindi Artherton, Cassville Area Chamber of Commerce director, said, "The chamber is often the first place potential business owners contact when they are interested in starting a new business."

Artherton also said, "Along with working closely with our Industrial Development Corporation and the City, I work with the potential business to help them find space for their new business and point them in the right direction for other resources needed when starting a new business."

The Chamber also refers community members and guests to various business and offers a relocation guide and website to assist in drawing businesses to the area.

IDC Board President Stan Kelley said that the IDC works to establish new businesses, as well. Kelley said, "The IDC provides insight to the nuances special to Cassville that makes it a desirable choice [for businesses]. Also, the IDC considers ways to provide incentives to a prospective company that will bring jobs to Cassville. IDC strives to stay in contact with various resources across the region and State to obtain any leads for a company considering coming to Missouri and wants to locate in small cities such as Cassville."

The IDC also acts as a liaison to navigating any obstacles a business may encounter when expanding or moving to the area in a way that would create more jobs and revenue. With city revenue improving, hopefully the city starts to see more commercial expansion again in the coming years.

Shania Stumpff

The Wildcat Nation will see significant improvements to the football field this upcoming year. Cassville's maintenance crew are beginning a complete remodel of the press box.

Superintendent Richard Asbill said, "The construction progress is going well." The goal this week is to finish the "dry in." Over the past month, they have completed the foundation and framing. After the metal work is finalized, they will begin the finish work on the inside.

"June is our goal, and it looks like we are on track to complete the renovations by then," said Asbill. The original press box was built in the 1980's and wasn't designed for the coaching staff and scout filming that took place on the roof. The old press box wasn't balanced with the field and that made media coverage and coaching options more difficult. It also had a cat walk that allowed access to each of the rooms.

"This was very unsafe and allowed unauthorized access during non school times. The new box has eliminated the cat walk area and enclosed that into the main structure to encompass it into a hallway leading to each room," said Asbill. The old press box could only be accessed through one door, now it will offer individuals rooms that will limit any interruptions to the announcers and media.

"We budgeted $22,000 for the project, and currently we are under budget, some donors are providing fiscal support for the project, and we hope to raise half of the construction costs through donations," added Asbill.

Security Bank provided the Cassville School District with a donation of, $2,500. The bank donation was made to support the school's new press box at Wildcat Stadium.

In making the announcement, bank president John Horner stated, "We are pleased to assist the Cassville School District in the funding of improvements for our great school district. Security Bank appreciates the forward thinking approach of the school district and their positive impact on the Cassville community."

Since half of the costs are to be expected from donations, the second half of the money will come from the local capitol project budget. Currently, the District is getting competitive quotes on the materials being used on this project and trying to keep the material dollars with local vendors.

Be prepared for tornadic storms

Purdy names March Students of the Month

Storm season has arrived and, with that, everyone needs to be prepared and have a plan. The City of Cassville has six outdoor storm sirens. If you are indoors, you may not hear the sirens. It is highly recommended that people who have smart phones download a weather app that will alert you to storms in the area. A weather radio is also highly recommended to have for alerts.

One also needs to know the difference between a watch and a warning. The National Weather Service (NWS) issues a tornado watch when weather conditions in an area indicate an increased risk for severe weather that may be capable of producing a tornado.

The NWS issues a tornado warning when a tornado has been sighted or indicated by weather radar. On average, tornado warnings are issued 13 minutes prior to the event, but warning times vary greatly and may be much less. Occasionally, tornadoes develop without detection, and no official warnings can be made before touchdown. Forecasters do their best to predict the path of a storm, but not all areas under a tornado warning will experience a tornado. Even if you have been through a tornado warning without experiencing any damage, remember that tornadoes are unpredictable and you should always take immediate action when authorities issue a tornado warning.

The sirens are activated when the National Weather Service advises that conditions are right for the possibility of a tornado in the area and also if straight winds reach 75 miles an hour. When the sirens are activated it is time to take shelter.

Now is the time to have a plan for you and your family.

You need an idea of where you can go for shelter if you do not have a basement or storm shelter. The lowest floor of a structure with the most walls between you and the outside is recommended. Also discuss with your family where to meet after an occurrence if you are not together at a time strong storms strike within your community.

Through recent grant funds, Cassville now has two FEMA-approved storm shelters. They are located at the middle school campus by the football field and the north end of the Cassville High School campus. If you live within a half-mile radius of these shelters, you may seek shelter there. Please remember if you are traveling to these shelters to drive carefully and park where you will not block others seeking shelter. Remember, if storms occur when school is in session students will be sent to these shelters.

Also, your family will need to have an emergency supply kit prepared. Have it stored in an accessible location. It is recommended to have an emergency supply kit at home and one at work. A duffle bag, pillowcase, or a container that is easy to carry is recommended. Store the supplies you may need after the tornado passes. Identify the things you would need most when you emerge from your protective location to find severe damage, no power and no water. If possible, keep some of these items in your pre-identified protective locations at home, work, school or your place of worship. You may need to keep other items in a “go bag” or other container to bring with you. For a full list of supplies for your emergency supply kit, visit www.ready.gov/build-a-kit. Here are some suggestions to consider:

- Battery-powered or crank-operated flashlight to inspect your home or office after the tornado has passed. If using a battery-powered flashlight, turn it on outside the building first because the battery could produce a spark and cause a fire if gas is present. Include spare batteries.
- Battery-powered or crank-operated radio to listen for emergency updates and news reports.
- First aid kit to address minor injuries.
- Complete change of clothing, including a long-sleeved shirt, long pants, work gloves, and sturdy, thick-soled shoes. These will protect you from further injury by broken glass, exposed nails or other objects.
- Whistle or air horn to notify rescuers in case you are trapped by debris resulting from the tornado.
- Dust mask to protect you from inhaling particles and fine debris.
- Food and water for a day or two and consider specific dietary considerations.
- Your medications and medical supplies.
- If you have children, a special item (e.g., stuffed animal, book, game) to provide comfort. Store the important documents you will need to start your recovery.

Always be aware of the weather and your surroundings. Have a plan for you and your family along with an emergency supply kit.

Purdy Principals Janet Boys (K-6) and Bob Vice (7-12) announced March Students of the Month. Each month the middle school core class teachers nominate one student from each grade level, fifth through eighth.

The fifth grade Student of the Month for March is Kaden Liggett. Fifth grade teachers Cheryl Ulmer and Michele Taylor noted, “Kaden was chosen as the March student of the month because he has shown wonderful improvement this year. Not only has Kaden had a very good attendance record, but he also participates in class. Kaden is friendly with other students, respectful to the teachers, and completes his work on time. Kaden always follows class rules and procedures. He raises his hand to talk and get out of his seat. Lastly, Kaden is very good about sharing his thoughts and ideas with the class. We have enjoyed having Kaden this year.”

Faith Coscia received the award in sixth grade. Sixth Grade teacher Barbara Warnick observed of this month's winner, “Faith tries really hard in class each day. She participates well and shares in class. She always has a smile on her face. We enjoy having her in class and will miss her next year when she is in 7th grade.”

Shelby Haskins represented the seventh grade in March. Instructor Heather Romine recommended her because, “Shelby is a sweet and kind person. She always has a positive attitude in class.”

Mrs. Romine also explained the selection of eighth grade student Bayleigh Schad. “Bayleigh is always willing to help me or another student. She is a great student.”

March's Students of the Month received a Certificate of Accomplishment and an invitation to a pizza lunch with Mrs. Boys and Mr. Vice. The Purdy R:2 School District would like to congratulate these students for their outstanding accomplishments at Purdy Middle School.

Silver Leaf sends students on Sophomore Pilgrimage

Recently two area high school students attended the annual General Foundation of Women's Clubs Sophomore Pilgrimage in Jefferson City. They were sponsored by Silver Leaf Benefit Club of Cassville. Olivia Padilla, daughter of Talisha Padilla, represented Cassville R IV School District and Dalton Horn, son of Robert and Brandy Horn, represented Exeter R-VI School District.

Sophomore Pilgrims are selected on the basis of their leadership, citizenship, and service in their respective communities. The purpose of this event is to increase student knowledge of government, promote leadership, and provide a view of state government in action. After a tour of the State Capitol, the students had lunch with top elected officials and the Chief Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court. The officials spoke on the responsibilities of their offices.

New room sponsor for Central Crossing Senior Center

Holy Family Catholic Church is the latest to sponsor a room in the new addition to Central Crossing Senior Center. "Sponsorship" of a room involves helping to fund a significant portion of the cost to construct a room in the new addition.

Father John noted many of his parishioners were either regular visitors or volunteers at the Center or both. After considering the many services and activities offered for the welfare of area seniors, he "bought into" the idea and decided to help. Father John spearheaded the efforts to raise sufficient funds to "buy a room" in the new addition. He presented the idea to his many good parishioners and they not only opened their hearts to the idea, they opened their wallets too. Holy Family Catholic Church is active in the community in so many ways and this latest act of selflessness is just one more example of the love they show for the seniors

Eagle Rock Lutheran raises money to fight malaria

This past Sunday was World Malaria Day and at Community Lutheran Church in Eagle Rock, they celebrated this day with songs, sermon and prayers about this deadly, but treatable, disease. The church has been participating with the Evangelical Lutheran Church in American (ELCA) Malaria Campaign which is currently working with the Lutheran companion churches and partners in 13 African countries. The goal to raise $15 million to fight malaria in these countries will soon be met. The church is proud to be a part of the campaign.

The goal was set five years ago by the ELCA. The campaign was called "Nothing But Nets." Today, the campaign has been expanded to also include medically staffed clinics, medications to fight malaria, education on how to fight malaria and how to get help when needed, counselors, and the treated bed nets that have been given to many families.

In certain areas in Africa, there have not been any deaths from malaria in three years. The dollars raised have been saving lives in some of the areas in Africa which have, in the past, had the highest malaria death counts.

Stubblefield garners road race awards

Lee Stubblefield

Not too many runners wait until age 50 to start posting lifetime personal bests. But Josie Stubblefield of Cassville has done just that.

At the Irish Dash in Branson on March, 14, Josie won the women's 50-59 age group and was the second-fastest woman overall. She posted a time of 42:51 to claim her leprechaun bling.

Then on March 19, Stubblefield posted her first sub-25:00 5K at the Go Girl Run in Springfield. She placed 13th overall and was 9th out of 347 women with her personal best 24:28.

Finally, she won her women's 8K age-group division of the Frisco Railroad Run on Saturday, April 25.

Stubblefield, the middle school PE/Health teacher at Southwest, logs 20 to 25 miles a week on the Greenway Trail in addition to her classroom activities. She attributes her good health and lack of injuries to a healthy lifestyle and diet, crosstraining and a positive attitude.

Her next planned race is also one of her favorites: the annual Running of the Squirrels 5K in Marionville on Saturday, May 9.

Lady Bulldogs hold 3-on3 tournament fundraiser

The Wheaton High School Lady Bulldogs held a 3-on-3 basketball tournament on Saturday, April 18, at the Wheaton High School gymnasium. A total of nine teams participated in the fundraiser with all proceeds from the tournament being used to help offset the costs of participation in this years summer camps. Sponsors for the event were: Security Bank of Southwest Missouri, L and S Foods, Mitchell Farms, Angel Tree Floral, Senseney Tree Service and D and D Oil and Propane.

Charlea Mills

For the first time, the Missouri Assessment Program (MAP) tests are being administered online instead of on paper, and local districts see the advantages.

The MAP test is an assessment used to determine how well students in third through eighth grades across the state are performing. Before this year, the students took a paper-based assessment that was sent into the state for grading. However, this year, the MAP is being administered solely online, shortening the time students test and also the time it takes for districts to receive their scores.

Other tests also administered online include the End-of-Course (EOC) testing for higher grades and a free ACT test for all Missouri high school juniors.

Cassville, Exeter, Southwest and Wheaton have all begun testing and seem positive about the process despite some technical issues. While there have been a few kinks, that was to be expected with a brand new format.

Cassville assistant superintendent Jill LeCompte said, "We had some minor issues that had to have eDIRECT and DESE (Department of Elementary and Secondary Education) clear up, but overall, it has been fairly smooth." Cassville completed the fifth and eighth grade assessments last week.

Southwest's testing coordinator Angela Long said, "Testing took longer than expected for English Language Arts, so we had to be quite flexible in our scheduling, but otherwise, the process went fairly smoothly." Any of the technical difficulties at Southwest were addressed quickly by their technology director Dan Shelton.

Exeter's superintendent Dr. Ernest Raney stated, "The first day of testing was difficult due to technical issues that were undetected by the online MAP program prior to placing students at the workstations. Once resolved, technical interruptions were minimized."

Dr. Raney continued, "The most common problem experienced by our students was the loss of connection, causing them to be logged off multiple times. This was due to a needed software update from the testing center. As distracting as this was for our students, we were proud of the perseverance our students demonstrated as they continued to deal with the issue throughout the English/Language Arts portion of the MAP test on the first day of testing."

Wheaton and Purdy begin their testing this week. All Districts will continue testing into May to finish up with various grade levels.

All of the districts went through sample testing to ensure that the tests will be able to administered properly. Information released by DESE primarily listed the availability of test scores as the biggest advantage. DESE also assured that there were only a handful of districts that would be challenged by the bandwidth to provide the testing. However, all of the districts appeared to have at least some issues with the technological aspect of having all of the tests administered online.

Purdy superintendent Dr. Steven Chancellor stated, "We have experienced technical problems from the test manufacturer across the state. Their ability to provide a stable, reliable platform has caused concern. We will begin dialogue with the appropriate people in DESE to voice our expectations for improvement."

Dr. Raney said bandwidth was an issue for the Exeter district. "Challenges we face in the new format include increased demand for internet bandwidth, wifi infrastructure expansion, and an increasing need for access to electronic tools with our students."

Most students at various districts seem to be pleased with the online format versus the paper and pencil version utilized in the past. Chancellor said, "Students seem to embrace the technical aspect. Once the consistence issues have been addressed by the testing manufacturer, I expect to see the comfort level increase. In theory, it should also lend itself to providing deeper questions that students can truly express their thinking with."

DESE is utilizing a Smarter Balanced test design and blueprints which will have students tested more effectively on their individual levels. Chancellor said, "The technology enhanced items add a layer which cannot be attained via traditional paper-pencil tests."

With the new format, there is expected to be a learning curve. However, DESE also said that the tests are more challenging than the paper-and-pencil format in the past. DESE stated, "We are raising expectations to help our students better prepare for college and career."

Wheaton superintendent Lance Massey addressed those changes. "This year we are being tested over the Missouri Learning Standards. As you move to a new set of standards, the challenge is ensuring that you have adequately taught the students the standard and that the students can, in turn, relay the knowledge back in a testing format. Another challenge is with the advanced level of rigor on the new format questions will have multiple answers and steps to correctly answer the question."

The new format of MAP testing did not change the cost to the districts. Some schools are expected to receive their first round of testing results this week.

Morgan named FCA Coach of the Year

Morgan

Southwest's Fellowship of Christian Athletes coach Linda Morgan was named the Coach of the Year for the South Central Missouri district.

Morgan started the FCA group at Southwest in 2012 with eight students. Today, the group has over 85 students attend the huddle meetings each week.

Morgan was presented the Coach of the Year award for the district by football star Emmitt Smith at the Christian Athlete and Coach of the Year Banquet at Chateau on the Lake on April 9.

Morgan said, "The students who aren't Christians are coming because of the fun, fellowship and the love that the group shows. This group is one where they don't feel the peer pressure to drink, do drugs or have premarital relationships.

The group hosts special events, community events, and does service projects during the year.

If your farm has been in your family since Dec. 31, 1915, you can apply to have it recognized as a Missouri Century Farm.

To qualify, farms must meet the following guidelines. The same family must have owned the farm for 100 consecutive years. The line of ownership from the original settler or buyer may be through children, grandchildren, siblings, and nephews or nieces, including through marriage or adoption. The farm must be at least 40 acres of the original land acquisition and make a financial contribution to the overall farm income.

"It is important to honor and respect our history," said Michael Ouart, vice provost for University of Missouri Extension. "These farms represent both Missouri's cultural heritage and the good stewardship that our farmers strive for."

"Missouri Farm Bureau is a proud partner in the recognition of century farms," said Blake Hurst, president. "We applaud the hardworking farm families that have kept us fed and clothed for generations. They represent an important part of our heritage and laid a foundation for the bounty Americans enjoy every day."

Extension office to offer Annie's Project classes

Registrations are being taken now for a day-time farm business course for farm women in the Cassville area known as Annie's Project.

The course will begin May 15 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Cassville Branch Library at 301 W. 17th Street. The series of classes will be held on the Fridays of May 15, 22, 29 and June 5, 12, and 19.

University of Missouri Extension and the Barry County Extension Council are sponsoring the classes. University of Missouri Extension specialists will teach the course.

Course topics include understanding personality types, business plans, how the property is titled, leases and legal issues, financial statements, risk management, marketing, computer software tools and more.

The six session course has a cost of $75 per person. Pre-registration is needed by May 6 and will be on a first-come basis. The class size will be limited to 25 women to ensure sufficient group interaction. The course is being partially funded by a grant from the North Central Risk Management Center.

Program History

Annie's Project began in Illinois. Annie was a farm wife who grew up in Northern Illinois. She married a farmer and spent her lifetime learning how to be an involved business partner with her husband. Together they did great things, but it was not easy.

"The goal is to empower farm women to be better business partners through networking and by managing and organizing critical information," said Dr. Gordon Carriker, agriculture business specialist, University of Missouri Extension. "This course can help women who are new to the farm business and may be overwhelmed or reluctant to ask questions. It can also help those who are accustomed to the farm business and may understand agriculture, but struggle with new technologies."

For more information about the course, contact Reagan Bluel at (417) 847-3161 or by email at bluelrj@missouri.edu or the Barry County Extension Center in Cassville by email at barryco@missouri.edu.

Registration brochures are downloadable at <http://extension.missouri.edu/barry> and <http://extension.missouri.edu/barry>.

SSS Spotlight: Alex Williams

Alex Williams is an Elementary Education major who will be graduating from Crowder College in Cassville, in May 2015. After two and a half years at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, she said she transferred to Crowder because of its location. "I was ready to come home to be close to my family and boyfriend." She advises incoming students to never give up and take everything one day at a time. Williams stated, "Whenever you are struggling, never be afraid to ask for help."

Williams recently joined Student Support Services (SSS) and, in a short time, picked Jerri Hudson, her SSS Advisor, as her favorite staff member. "Jerri is such a kind and helpful advisor who makes sure all of her advisees are on track and getting the help they need. She always has a smile on her face and will go out of her way to help you." She has an appreciation for SSS because it has helped her get involved not only with students, but instructors as well.

Hudson has this to say about Williams, "Alex is a very hard worker. She has met many new friends here at Crowder and is thriving. I believe she has certainly chosen the right field to be in as she is very good with organization and discipline. She genuinely cares about people and believes people should do the right thing. Her substitute teaching has given her the opportunity to be sure this is the career for her. I am very proud of Alex and cannot wait to see her soar in her career and life."

Williams received her Missouri Substitute Certificate in December and has been busy substituting nearly every week since - sometimes multiple times per week. After graduation, Williams is going to take advantage of the Missouri State University's Teacher Education program that is offered through Crowder, in Cassville, to obtain her bachelor's degree. "I'm so glad I found out about this opportunity so I can be close to my family and follow my dream at the same time," she said.

SKITS to present “Mind Over Manor” in May

Rehearsals are underway for the fourth and newest play produced by SKITS (Shell Knob in the Spotlight).

Mind Over Manor is a comedic drama. The play centers around Jasmine Winters, who is determined to claim her rightful ownership to Summer Meadows Manor, a beautiful mansion. She hires private investigator, Chester Banks to look into the backgrounds of the manor's current owner, Opal Summers, and the other ragtag tenants.

Jasmine and Chester arrive at Summer Meadows looking for the owner. What they meet is a collection of people who are, at the very least, eccentric. When Jasmine starts to question them fiercely, the residents start to question her motive. Then Jasmine goes missing. The audience will get a chance to guess who did it with a prize awarded to one winner.

The play will be performed at the United Methodist Church in Shell Knob on Highways 39 and YY. Play dates are:

- Fri., May 8, 7 p.m.
- Sat., May 9, at 7 p.m.
- Fri., May 15 7 p.m.
- Sat., May 16, 7 p.m.
- Sun., May 17, 2 p.m.

Tickets are $7.00 in advance and $9.00 at the door. They can be purchased in Shell Knob at the Central Crossing Senior Center, Shell Knob Chamber of Commerce, Treasures Now and Then, Service #1 Credit Union and the United Methodist Church.

Group and company discounts are available. For more information, call Barb Van Dusen at (417) 858-9590. Find them on Facebook as SKITS Community Theater or at www.shellknobspotlight.com.

Financial assistance for this project has been provided by the Missouri Arts Council, a State Agency.

MoDOT plans resurfacing projects in Barry County

Drivers can expect lane closures and occasional traffic delays on Business Route 60 in Neosho and in Barry Co for a resurfacing project beginning the week of May 11, the Missouri Department of Transportation said.

Contractor crews will lay new asphalt on a 3.5 mile section of Business Route 60 between Route 60 and Hickory Creek Bridge in Neosho.

Drivers should obey flaggers and wait for pilot cars to guide motorists through the work zone.

The project also includes resurfacing on several state routes in the Neosho area. The work will be done after the Business 60 project is complete:

- Route D from Route 59 to Doniphan Drive in Neosho
- Route HH from Route 59/60 in Neosho to Route 86 in Fairview
- Route A from Route D near Stella to Route 86 in Wheaton
- Shoulders on Routes D,

HH and A will be widened by two feet and will have rumble strips added

Project Information

• Prime contractor:

APAC-Missouri, Springfield

• Total project cost: $3.6 million

• Completion date: November 1, 2015. Although, the entire project is set for completion by the end of August.
