Charlea Estes
Grief was felt throughout the Cassville community after the death of twin boys from Cassville High School on Friday afternoon. Lawrence and Michael Dickson, 16, of Cassville, were killed in a single-vehicle crash on Highway 248. Lawrence was driving a Ford F150 eastbound on Highway 248 about two miles west of Wheelerville with his brother, Michael, on Friday when they ran off the road and overturned, according to the Missouri State Highway crash report. Despite wearing seat belts, both boys were killed in the crash, leaving fellow students, faculty and the community to mourn their loss. Barry County deputy coroner Charles McManus pronounced the two deceased at the scene of the crash at 4:13 p.m.

According to Cassville R-IV Schools superintendent Dr. Richard Asbill, counselors were at the school on Monday to help faculty and students deal with the loss of the brothers, who played football at the school.

Other events planned in the community, including the Big Man on Campus competition that was slated for Saturday night, were postponed or cancelled due to the crash and respect for the family.

Lawrence and Michael are survived by their mother, Tammy Dickson, of Cassville; father, Kevin Dickson, of Springfield; as well as siblings and other family members. An obituary for the twins is on page 6A.

Earth Day festivities draw attention to outdoors

Taylor Pogue, 3, of Neosho, visited Roaring River State Park over the weekend with her grandparents, Mike and Kim Pogue. Above, Taylor is feeling various animal furs and identifying them with the help of Nature Center staff as part of their Earth Day activities.

Charlea Estes
Last Friday, April 22, marked Earth Day, the annual day dedicated to preserving the environment for generations to come. All across the world, communities and groups give their time and energy into efforts educating the public and cleaning up the environment.

Locally, Roaring River State Parks' Chinquapin Nature Center hosted their own Earth Day celebration on Saturday, April 23. At the Nature Center, staff were on site to help children with animal identification, including getting to feel various furs, as well mud buckets filled with things to dig for and the regular exhibits within the center. Around 200 people visited the Nature Center and took advantage of the education program. The Missouri Conservation Department also had free trees for people to take home and plant in honor of the day, as well. Earth Day was first started in 1970 as a political movement. Over the years, it has grown into an annual event that brings people together to talk about environmental issues and make a difference within their individual communities. Areas like the Nature Center are great places to encourage people into thinking about how their actions impact the environment and conservation efforts. Part of the focus of Earth Day is to draw attention to activities that are leading to additional greenhouse gas emissions and their contribution to climate change. However, local efforts are much less globally oriented and help people become aware of their local ecosystems and animals and how to keep the environment clean through trash pick up, cleaner living practices and attention to small steps that make the world a better place for years and generations to come.

Flying circus flies over Golden skies last weekend

Charlea Estes & Brenda Moore
The fifth annual Golden Aerodrome Flying Circus was held this weekend, April 22 through 24, at the Golden air park. People came from all over to enjoy this annual event that has grown over the years to include many different events for people of all ages and interests. Vibrant aircrafts that ranged from mass production to homemade in the owners' own garages flew the sun skies over Golden's

Table Rock Airpark MO32. The event began as a much smaller endeavor five years ago and has since become a much bigger affair. Dan and Bernice Smith, of Golden, stated the event as a way to host a fly-in locally so that pilots and aviation enthusiasts could enjoy the event without having to spend as much on the rising costs of fuel.

Tim Serall AKA D.B. Cooper, of Rogers, Ark., stated, “We need something local that would be a fun family event.” The flying circus is just that.

Each year, the fly in features food and live music as well as an airplane parade, jet demo, awards and more. There are even special drops for kids where pilots fly over and drop stuffed animals and candy from their planes for the children to rush the runway to collect.

Arkansas Helicopters also provided flights for a small fee over the weekend.

Pilots and enthusiasts fly in, drive in, or stumble in to set up campsite or park an RV and spend the weekend enjoying the company of other pilots and families. The event has turned into an enriching family-oriented event that promotes the fun of flying and a warm sense of community all in one place.

For pilots, education classes were also a plus, teaching some skills that help them to develop skills they’ll use on their own planes.

This year’s proceeds from the event went to help fund scholarships for people interested in pursuing aviation. All funds raised were donated to the Aircraft Electronics Association for educational aviation scholarships.

For information about future Golden fly-ins, go to www.goldenaerodrome.com.

Cut With Care.

Electric power tools make quick work of lawn and garden chores that otherwise could take all day. But be sure you go slowly enough to pay attention to electrical safety as you work.

Keep electrical cords in good repair, and make sure they don't get in the way of cutting tools that could damage the cords and create a dangerous situation. Also, remember that electric tools and cords must never come into contact with water.

Religious freedom, legal discrimination. Where are we headed?

There is no doubt that the recently proposed Missouri Senate constitutional amendment SJR 39 has sparked a lot of controversy, a lot of hostility, a lot of noise amongst those following it. The proposed bill would allow certain businesses and churches to reserve the right to refuse service to individuals claiming religious freedom. And I thought long and hard about writing this editorial, but after a recent Letter to the Editor, printed alongside this opinion piece in today’s issue, I decided that I would respond.

Our country’s peoples have spent hundreds of years defining who we are as Americans. We are a melting pot. We are all immigrants because that is what America is, a refuge for those persecuted against. If I look at my lineage, my heritage goes back to my Native roots, before the Americas were colonized. The freedoms we enjoy have been fought for over a long period of time. Our country is constantly evolving and changing, protecting those who need protection, protecting us from those whom we need protection against.

Businesses and churches want the right to refuse to serve someone who conflicts with their religious beliefs. Religious freedom is a big premise of our Constitution, absolutely. Our individual rights are a big premise of our Constitution. Now, the Supreme Court has ruled that same-sex marriage is legal in all 50 states. Like it or not, gay marriage is a legally protected right.

Here is where I take issue: SJR 39 would put a measure before voters that would legally allow discrimination. Take a moment to re-read and think about that. Take out anything related to personal or religious beliefs about homosexuality, gay weddings, rainbow flags and think of it in those terms: legalized discrimination.

That frightens me. Why? Because just over 150 years ago, humans could be sold legally. They were considered just as livestock. Humans were property. Because 100 years ago, I wouldn’t have been allowed to vote because I’m a woman. Because 50 years ago, an interracial couple could have been and were refused the right to marry. Because America is founded on individual rights and protection, and I don’t want to see our country go backward in our progress in a way that infringes on the rights of others.

The LGBT community is comprised of people. Individuals who love one another, raise children and serve our communities. These people are your colleagues, your co-workers, your neighbors, your friends and maybe your family. A friend and I recently discussed refusing service to others based on clashing personal beliefs after talking about this amendment. We discussed her profession as a photographer and how she would respond to an overtly racist person asking for her service. She said, “You know, if a KKK member asked me to shoot their wedding, covered in racist tattoos, I would still do it. I wouldn’t refuse them, because they are still people.”

She doesn’t have a racist bone in her body. She does not support white supremacy, not by a longshot. In fact, I doubt she could ever say an unkind word against someone because of the color of their skin, their sexuality, their gender or their lineage, but to her, and to me, this is all much bigger than that.

In my own profession, I have never refused to speak to anyone who has requested a meeting with me. There were times when I was uncomfortable. There were times when what was said about a group of people, whether that be racist, sexist or bigoted, made my heart ache. But I never refused to speak to them, regardless of their view or beliefs, and I treated them with respect.

My office is an open door. I want to talk to and serve the people of my community. Whether I agree with them or not is irrelevant to me. I still want to hear what my readers have to say.

So back to SJR 39, while the belief systems of people has been addressed, I want to talk about one more facet. Currently, there are thousands of businesses that are opposed to this amendment, some who have threatened to not do business in our state anymore if it passes. Monsanto is one of the companies who opposes the amendment. In the Letter to the Editor, Ms. Casey pointed out that she has no dealings with Monsanto, but I would like to address that almost every single food in a grocery store, prepackaged or not, probably has a Monsanto contribution. Whether it is the grain fed to the animals, the corn in chips, additives in a number of other foods, they are everywhere. The consequences of passing SJR 39 could be economically disastrous to our state. Businesses who believe in equal rights for the LGBT community are threatening to remove themselves from economic dealings in our state. That in and of itself is enough for us to take pause and reevaluate.

I know a great many of you will disagree with me. That’s okay. We can agree to disagree. I’ll welcome you into my office just the same. I promise that I won’t turn you away for having a different opinion, but I hope at least that you’ve thought about the issue in a way that maybe you hadn’t before.

-Charlea Estes, Editor

Letter to the Editor

I don't know how many people are following our Missouri legislature and know that they are voting on putting a Constitutional Amendment on the ballot this year that would protect the Religious Liberty of those who believe, rightly, in marriage as a man and woman, and do not wish to participate in a ceremony that violates their religious beliefs.

It is not a matter of discrimination, but a matter of that which is supposed to be protected by the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. That there are judges who believe they have the authority to overrule this is cause to enshrine the right in our own state Constitution.

However, for reasons beyond comprehension, there are companies that are actively trying to keep this from being on the ballot for the citizens of Missouri to vote on. Two of those companies are Monsanto and Edward Jones.

I am making it known that I shall not do business with a company that uses its power to prevent a vote by the people.

I cancelled my paypal account because they took a stance against Religious Freedom. I don't have dealings with Monsanto. I shall move my account from Edward Jones if they continue to take this stand.

I cannot name other companies at this time, as I can no longer find the article. But I have contacted my state Representative and Senator to give my opinion.

I am tired of government and powerful businesses bullying us into submission. It is long past time for us, individually, and for Church leaders to stand up against this abuse. Our rights and freedoms are being taken and we are doing nothing to stop it.

Family fishing traditions in the Ozarks

Barry County's famous fishing spots draw families together from all over. As part of a regular family tradition, Hank Blowers and his brother, Dylan, of Lee's Summit, visited on their spring break to take some time on Table Rock Lake and Roaring River with their pop, Chuck Kirch.

Hank and Dylan spent time with aunt and uncle, Jeanne and Jesse, where they live near Big M Marina. With a day full of catching crawfish and minnows to fish with, the boys continue a family tradition of fishing the beautiful waters of Barry County.

Wildcats take second at Cassville Relays

Cassville’s Joby Paul races to third in the 1600.

Lee Stubblefield
Reeds Spring outlasted Cassville 188-143 to win the boys division of the Cassville Relays on Tuesday, April 19. Monett won the girls division with 95 points, Cassville was fourth, scoring 75.
It was a smaller meet than usual. With the Ozark 7 Conference meet scheduled for Wednesday, Southwest, Purdy and Wheaton did not attend.
There were outstanding performances by the Cassville thinclads. The Wildcats have not been competitive in the distance events in recent years, and the emergence of Joby Paul and Derek Christy added strength to an already-powerful Cassville squad.

Purdy Military Appreciation night May 3

The Purdy High School baseball team will host a Military Appreciation night in conjunction with the Purdy vs. Wheaton baseball game on Tuesday, May 3, at 5 p.m. Eagle Broadcasting will call the game and broadcast it, as well as the evening’s special activities, on KKBL 95.9.
SFC Terry Billingsley, recruiter for the Missouri National Guard, shared details of the enlistment ceremonies planned for the evening. Purdy High School senior Justin Renkoski and Wheaton High School senior Christian Dunegon will complete their enlistment ceremonies at home plate before the baseball game on Tuesday, May 3. The ceremony will be conducted by Captain Chase Phillips. We hope to see many current and former military personnel, family, friends and community members at the ball parks for this special moment in our young people’s lives.”
Purdy Schools Athletic Director Jennifer Schallert Cornelius recently announced plans to honor all former, retired and current military personnel attending the game. In addition to a special time of recognition led by SFC Billingsley, followed by the performance of our National Anthem by PHS junior Kaden Propps, all military veterans and active duty personnel may enjoy a complimentary meal (burger or hot dog/chips/drink) at the concessions stand during the evening. The honorary first pitch will be thrown by veteran Bob Mareth. Cornelius added, "The athletic department cordially invites all military personnel in the Purdy and Wheaton areas to attend this special evening. It is our great honor to recognize our community's heroes."

DOGWOOD CAR SHOW COMING MAY 7

The Cassville Area Chamber of Commerce will host the 30th Annual Dogwood Car, Truck and Motorcycle Festival around the Cassville square on Saturday, May 7. Registration will take place inside the courthouse from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. with judging set to begin immediately.
