$1.2M CCC Lodge renovation complete

Charlea Estes

After a year and a half of planning and construction, the historic CCC Lodge at Roaring River State Park is now open as a lodging option for park visitors. The ribbon cutting ceremony was held on Friday afternoon, May 6, hosted by Missouri State Parks director Bill Bryan with a special appearance by Governor Jay Nixon.

A large group stood outside the lodge on the sunny Friday afternoon to watch the ribbon cutting and take a tour of the lodge two days before reservations would be available.

Bryan welcomed the audience and thanked park staff for all they did to make the $1.2 million project possible. In his speech, Bryan noted that Roaring River had over 560,000 visitors in 2015, a huge number.

He said, "We hope that with the addition of this lodging, even more families can enjoy the park than before."

Nixon also addressed the crowd, showing his pride for the project and what it means to not only Roaring River, but State Parks as a whole. He said, "When I became governor, there had been a decline in state parks attendance and since then, many others states' parks have been closing. But when I was elected, I said that I would protect and improve parks, and through bipartisan efforts, we've been able to do that." In 2015, Missouri State Parks had 19.2 million visitors, an increase of 30 percent since 2008. Nixon gave credit partially to "outstanding leadership" from the Missouri State Parks director Bill Bryant and staff across the state to make that increase happen.

Nixon reminisced about coming to Cassville in 1987 and having a lunch meeting at that time with Senator Emory Melton. He said, "We wouldn't be here where we are today without visionaries like Emory Melton leading the way."

He praised State Parks for dedicating the time and funding to the project.

"When we talk about the outdoors and State Parks, there is no more better legacy we can leave than that for our children. We are working to leave Missouri State Parks better than we found it."

At the close of his speech, the governor shared a quote from John James Audubon: "A true conservationist is a man who knows that the world is not given by his fathers, but borrowed from his children."

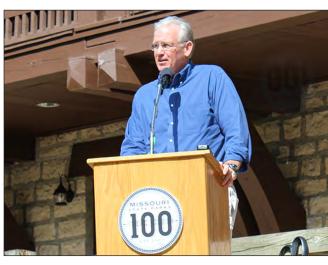

After, when asked when he would be staying at the lodge, he said he had hoped to stay that evening, but other obligations prevented that. He said, "I'll be back. This park is very dear to me. Be rest assured that Georgeann and I will be back this year."

"This is a day that's been a long time coming. It's a great day for our state."

While Nixon was on site, he signed a panel on the original wall of the lodge next to where one of the workers signed it during the original construction between 1936 and 1938. The panel is preserved behind one of the fire extinguishers installed in the lodge.

The tour of the lodge revealed the final product which is seven guest rooms and a gathering space on the

Two injured in motorcycle wreck Monday

Two Monett residents, Kara D. Seay, and Russell J. Seay, both 36, were injured in a motorcycle crash on Monday night around 8:25

Russell was driving a 2000 Suzuki motorcycle with Kara as the passenger on Route Z just west of Route VV. According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol crash report, the motorcycle hit an animal, causing the bike to overturn. Both Russell and Kara were transported to Cox South Hospital in Springfield via ambulance for moderate injuries. The motorcycle had extensive damage and was towed by West 60.

Leash law discussion quiet at Cassville Council meeting

Charlea Estes

The Cassville City Council readdressed the possibility of a leash law ordinance in the city at Monday's city council meeting on May 9. The subject, which received a resurgence of interest following a dog attack last month, was up for open discussion.

Attention to the dog attack escalated when the story was picked up by area television stations when Cindy Carr's son Aaron's pit bull broke through their electric fence and attacked a chihuahua being walked by its owner in Carr's neighborhood. The Carrs paid for the dog's vet bills, but the chihuahua had to be euthanized due to injuries sustained from the attack.

Since, there has been a lot of conversation in the community regarding the number of stray and roaming dogs in the city. Leash laws have been brought up multiple times in past years, but no changes were made to the existing law on the books regarding aggressive dogs in the city with funding issues being the primary concern.

At Monday's meeting, the open discussion did not bring any outside input from the community, but aldermen Jon Horner and Jerry Marple both offered insight into the issue.

In a statement by Horner, he said that he could not support a leash law that the city did not have a funding mechanism in place to pay for an animal control facility, fulltime animal control officer, vehicle and maintenance for the facility and staff to run it.

Horner said, "Until such an issue law can be properly funded, I cannot in good conscience vote for a law that cannot be supported financially at this time by the city of Cassville.

While no formal estimates regarding the cost of what would be needed to enforce a leash law has been calculated, Horner said that the initial facility, vehicle and equipment would cost around $250,000, and the annual cost for staff, benefits and operations would be around $65,000. Horner said, "Within 10 years, the city could spend nearly $1,000,000 to properly enforce a leash law. Additionally, citizens would face costs: annual registration fee for dogs, fencing materials and installation or repair of fences to keep dogs from roaming."

Alderman Marple said, "We have laws in place. People can call the police, and I know they chase dogs from time to time when there are problems. I don't see the need for a full-time animal control officer in the city."

Horner added that he had been on the opposite side of the issue, receiving a summons regarding one of his dogs in the past. He said, "I've had summons issued to me years ago because my dog Sally made some neighbors mad. I've been on the opposite side, and I know the laws in place are enforced."

While the city council does not plan to work on a leash law at this time, Horner is open to the idea in the future if funding mechanisms were established. But as of right now, Horner said a law change wouldn't be enforceable.

After the discussion was brought up at April's council meeting, Horner looked into the areas of concern with dogs in the city, including the number of occurrences of dog attacks, enforcement, and the cost.

He added, "Making a knee jerk reaction based upon one occurrence or emotion is typically bad public policy. Fixing a problem that truly doesn't really exist is also a costly way of doing business.

Are we experiencing a rash of dog bites or attacks in Cassville? Based upon the facts, the answer is no." A leash law ordinance would likely require a sales tax put in place by voters to make the facility and animal control officer funding possible, which does not seem feasible currently, according to the council.

Horner said, "I ask our citizens to look at our challenges and decide which problem is most important to the future of Cassville."

HOMESTORE

To all of our valued customers.

The Neills Homestore in Shell Knob was recently purchased by Michael Carman, a long time area resident. Selling the business was a very difficult decision to make. All of us here at Neill's have enjoyed serving the people in the Cassville and Shell Knob area for the past fourteen years. However, in the end we felt we needed to devote more time to our larger Branson location.

The new store name in Shell Knob is the Michael Carman Furniture Gallery. Please stop in to meet Michael and his family. They have lots of great new ideas and are planning to add some new lines you'll defiantly want to check out.

Our Neill's Homestore family in Branson would like to thank all the loyal customers and friends for shopping with us at our Shell Knob store. We truly appreciate your business and friendship.

Sincerely,

Rick and Gayla Neill

When we depart our earthly home for God's resting place, it is not how long or brief our stay, but how we lived our lives that counts. Though we may mourn the passing of a loved one, we should also take comfort in the memory of the many kindnesses he or she has performed.

We conduct every funeral service as to be a source of comfort and inspiration to the living as well as a worthy and memorable tribute to the departed.

Homeschool science fair brings experiments to life

Charlea Estes

The Cassville Library was host to a big group of aspiring scientists last week when librarians were asked to judge a homeschool science fair.

The science fair had around 20 partcipants this year, with 29 kids in total attending the event. The group behind the event is Discovery Kids, a homeschooling group that meets at the library three times a month for special lessons taught by parents of the kids in the group. Children ages preschool through high school are part of the group, and events like the science fair give them hands-on experience.

Students had experiments that ranged topics like volcanoes, chemical reactions, mummification, solar system study and more.

Librarians Verna Fry and Angie Judd judged the event, leaving comments for the students about their experiments and presentations. Homeschool mom Tammy Gunter helped to organize the event and said, "This was a new idea and we thought we would try it out. We liked it so well that we might do a history fair and a science fair next year."

Each of the students with a project received judges' comments and a ribbon for their participation. Gunter said, "We gave out ribbons and everyone got the same one. Some of the kids had never done it before, so we gave a ribbon to everyone who participated."

Homeschool groups have been meeting at the Cassville Library for the past 14 years or so, but groups sponsor their own activities. Gunter said that their meetings each month focus on a subject, have a guest speaker or sometimes feature a field trip. Moms in the group take turns scheduling the events. Gunter said, "We try to pick something every week that is versatile that you could tone it down for a little kid but also stiffen it up for an older kid and make it interesting"

Structurally, the lodge received some foundation

"With the centennial of Missouri State Parks, it was only fitting to restore this to its original use of lodging."

David Waugh, general manager for Roaring River's concessionaire MO Parks, Inc., said the opening of the lodge has special significance to him. "It's exciting to see. When I came down here, the park store was here. This building has a lot of memories for me," he said. Waugh said he heard and shared a number of fishing stories in the park store at the CCC Lodge before the new store was opened.

When asked, Waugh said that they will not need to hire additional staff to manage the additional lodging. He stated, "We'll be using existing staff. I have great staff."

The initial announcement that the historic lodge was going to be renovated occurred at the annual Roaring River meeting in September 2014. Since then, the path to completion of the project has taken twists and turns, including stalling temporarily because of funding con-

Initially, the renovation was to be paid for out of a $20 million appropriation by the Missouri legislature for the fiscal year 2015 budget to the Department of Natural Resources to use for historic site projects including maintenance and renovations. At the end of the year, around $5 million was spent, and Gov. Nixon requested the remaining $15 million to be reappropriated in the 2015 budget along with $50 million in bonding capacity for parks projects. However, legislators only awarded $10 million to state parks, causing the administration to reevaluate their projects.

While the lodge was not completed by Opening Day 2016 when State Parks initially hoped, renovations were complete with reservations open from early May until the end of trout season on October 31.

The seven rooms in the new lodge will rent for between $119 and $139 per night, depending on amenities. The cost for renting the common area on the bottom floor is yet to be determined.

Waugh said, "We've had a lot of reservations, but I'm not sure exactly how many. The first round of reservations extend all the way out to October."

CHURCH of CHRIST

1104 Mill Street • Cassville, MO 65625

Last week two of the prominent contenders for president dropped out of the race. One stated in effect "I see no chance for victory."

Millions, perhaps billions of dollars will be spent over the next few months to place someone in the Oval office. It seems as if the race for president never ends. All this for a position that last eight years at most.

Christians also run a race. Our race is much different than the political races. Our race is spiritual and the reward is certainly not short-lived; "Know ye may obtain..... Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible." 1st Corinthians 9:24-25.

The victory is certain, and it is eternal, for those who run the race as set forth in the New Testament. Paul wrote of the victory and the prize in a letter to Timothy; "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." 2nd Timothy 4:7-8. Please join us at The Mill Street Church of Christ as we run the good race of faith in obedience to the gospel of Jesus

Bull Blast success leads Rotary Club to consider annual event

Charlea Estes

After the success of the Bull Blast bull riding event the last weekend in April, the club is considering turning it into an annual event.

Eugene Dilbeck, Rotary president, said the group raised around $3,000 at the one-day blast, which is impressive for the first-time event. He said, "My initial reaction is that we need to move forward and do this again next year."

Each year, the Rotary Club

hosts two events: the demolition derby and the rodeo. The derby is a one-night event, and the rodeo is a two-night event. Dilbeck said, "For a one-day event, we really did well."

L.J. Jenkins, the professional bull rider featured in the Bull Blast, is also interested in returning to Cassville, according to Dilbeck. He said, "He is definitely interested, but there is lots that comes into play with that like dates, costs and so on. But we will continue to consider it as long as it is a profitable event for us."

Events hosted by the Rotary Club are used to raise funds to give back to the community through a variety of programs. Each year, the club gives dictionaries to area third grade students, hosts a methamphetamine -prevention program for fifth graders, and also supports an international vaccine campaign through the Gates Foundation.

Purdy Lady Eagles claim district softball title

Lee Stubblefield

The Purdy Lady Eagles posted a solid 6-1 victory over Southwest on Wednesday night at Pierce City to claim the Class 1 District 10 Softball championship. Breanna Keeler pitched 5 1/3 strong innings for Purdy, and Hallie Henderson came on in relief to secure the win. Southwest freshman Maggie Robbins took the loss, pitching her third complete game of the three-day tournament.

Purdy continued a season-long domination of Southwest with the victory. The Lady Trojans finally scored in this championship tilt after suffering 8-0 and 3-0 shutout losses earlier to the Lady Eagles.

After a scoreless first inning, Purdy changed the scoreboard when catcher Casey Ellison drew a leadoff walk and then scored when Keeler laid down a crafty bunt. A Southwest throwing error allowed Ellison to score all the way from first base.

Leading 1-0 entering the bottom of the third inning, Purdy took advantage of good hitting and Southwest mistakes to build a 5-0 advantage. The Purdy batters were patient and disciplined at the plate, laying off Robbins' tantalizing eye-level pitches that Pierce City couldn't resist on Tuesday night.

Rion Boyd's pop fly was as a good as a double when the Lady Trojans misplayed it in the wind. Boyd advanced to third on a wild pitch, and then Sami House was safe at first when her dribbler died between home plate and the mound. Ellison walked again to load the bases, and Boyd scored on a passed ball for a 2-0 Purdy lead. Andrea Humphrey ripped a 2RBI single to right field for a 4-0 lead, and Mikey Shad brought in Humphrey with a single before Southwest finally got out off the field.

The big inning was the beginning of the end for Southwest. Only Mt. Vernon had managed to score more than four runs against Purdy this year, and the light-hitting Lady Trojans had only topped the 5-run plateau 9 times in racking up 23 wins.

But with their backs to the wall, the Southwest girls got more aggressive at the plate. The Lady Trojans loaded the bases in the top of the 4th inning. But Keeler pitched out of the jam, whirling a strikeout and then coaxing a flyout to center field to extend the shutout.

Southwest continued hacking away in the 5th inning, and finally broke through against Keeler. The Lady Trojans used a two-out rally to delete their goose egg from the scoreboard. Robbins walked, Jaime Shrum singled, and then Taylor Swindle looped an RBI single to right field. But Southwest would score no more.

Purdy added an insurance run in the bottom of the 6th inning when Keeler's infield hit with the bases loaded sent House home to create the final score of 6-1.

Robbins reached base with a single in Southwest's final at bat, but then Henderson retired the next three Lady Trojans on pop flies to end the game.

Purdy improved to 25-2 with the win, but fell to Mt. Vernon in Tuesday's sectional game.

Silver Leaf donates to Southwest Theatre program

The Silver Leaf Benefit Club of Barry County made a donation to the Southwest Little Theatre program at their April meeting. Club president Sherry Johnson presented a $500 check to Southwest Little Theatre director and teacher Wyatt Hester. The funds will be used to provide a scholarship to help pay for a theatre student to do dual enrollment through Crowder College. Silver Leaf decided to make the donation after the group did a special Christmas performance at the club's meeting.

Purdy Elementary's April Character Kids

Purdy Elementary Principal Janet Boys announced the character education medal winners for the month of April. In partnership with elementary counselor Gary Jurgensen, Purdy's kindergarten through fourth grade teachers present a different character trait each month. At the end of the month, each teacher nominates one student who best exemplifies the trait presented. These students receive character medals from Mrs. Boys at a special assembly.

In April, students focused on Kindness. Staff and students honored a special guest at the awards assembly. Donna Terry, the school's Literacy Coach and Title 1 Coordinator, will retire at the conclusion of the school year. Her school family celebrated her years of service and kindness. Mrs. Terry enjoyed seeing and hearing from former students and parents. Her son, Logan Terry, paid his mom a surprise visit to honor her as both his mother and his former fourth grade teacher.

Other speakers included former student Trenton Patton, parent Chris Shepherd, Purdy Elementary Principal Janet Boys and Purdy Superintendent Steven Chancellor. After being named the Queen of Kindness, Mrs. Terry oversaw the awarding of student medals. April medal winners are fourth graders Cynthia Villa and Hunter Lee; third graders Nathan Harris, Emilee Coffey and Karma Kessinger; second graders Alana Williams, Corbin O'Donald and Zoey Merritt; first graders Jackson Lee, Cyris Williams and Joshua Wood; and kindergartners Karolin Solis, Hayden Patton and Jaycee Lile.
