CoxHealth breaks ground on new $42 M Monett hospital

Vinnie Roberts

On Wednesday, May 1, CoxHealth officially broke ground on their new $42 million facility in Monett. This new facility will be located on Highway 60 east of Lowe's on the land previously occupied by the Bryce Oaks Golf Club.

The facility will replace the current CoxHealth campus located in the residential district of Monett. This facility has been in use since 1953 and since then, its functionality has outgrown its square footage.

"[We will be] bringing a state-of-the-art building to the already five star patient experience," said Darren Bass, president of CoxHealth Monett. "We are looking forward to a 'one stop shop' for hospital, clinic, pharmacy and ancillary services. The new location will be a big advantage for growth."

According to Bass, the new facility will include several expanded services as well as facilities that weren't previously available to Monett patients.

"We are looking to expand our orthopedic surgeon presence in Monett to full-time allowing more procedures to be done locally," said Bass. "We will be expanding the size of the emergency department and integrating three primary care offices into one large medical office building. This new medical office building will be home to family practice and specialty services

Three tornados confirmed in Barry County last week

Charlea Estes-Jones

A third tornado was confirmed to have hit Barry County last week. The two previously confirmed tornados on Tuesday, April 30, hit in Pleasant Ridge, outside of Purdy, and Wheaton. The third hit in Cassville. Initially suspected to be just straight line winds, the EF-0 tornado in Cassville was responsible for the destruction of a few trees, knocking down limbs and home damage to at least one residence in mid-Cassville near the square.

Of the three tornados confirmed, Wheaton's was the most severe. Rated at an EF-1, the Wheaton tornado hit around 3:42 p.m. and had maximum estimated wind speeds of 110 miles per hour. The path was 880 yards wide at the maximum and travelled 12 miles, according to the National Weather Service.

While there were no reported injuries from the tornado, it was reported to have destroyed several buildings and uprooted several trees. It was on the ground approximately 18 minutes.

The Pleasant Ridge tornado was rated at EF-0 and struck around 4:25 p.m. The National Weather Service estimated the peak wind speed at 85 miles per hour and travelled five miles. The maximum path was 200 yards wide. The Weather Service released that several outbuildings were destroyed as well as several trees were uprooted while it was on the ground for about 10 minutes.

The newly released data on the tornado in Cassville showed it hit at 6:48 p.m. and travelled intermittently for 1.89 miles. The maximum path width of the tornado was 75 yards, and large trees were downed or damaged. One large tree fell and damaged a house, as well.

Wheaton clean-up efforts continue

Charlea Estes-Jones

When tragedy strikes, Barry County citizens have a long history of stepping in and helping out. Since a devastating tornado hit Wheaton and the surrounding area last week, people came together to help out and make sure those affected have everything they need. Wheaton Police Chief Clint Danforth said the town finally shut down their command post Tuesday, May 7, now that most of the immediate issues have been resolved.

Danforth said people from all over helped out to get things under control. Danforth said, "We are a big family here and in the time of need we all step up and do what we need to do."

Efforts in Wheaton focused around clean up, food, water and anything else people might need. Danforth estimates they've helped between 15 and 20 families up to this point. He said, "We've been offering help for clean up and any type of assistance. We have food and water. We were just offering anything that we could provide. We've been getting a lot of people volunteering from even Arkansas, Lawrence County and McDonald County. We've had a really good response from all over the area."

Multiple law enforcement and fire departments from across Barry County provided mutual aid in the initial clean up and getting roads reopened.

Danforth said, "The Wheaton community comes together to help every time there is a need."

Danforth said people are still needed to aid in the clean up process, especially metal clean up. He said, "We're still in need of volunteers to help clean up metal. Homeowners are having trouble doing that themselves."

To help, contact Danforth at (417) 693-3145.

If you want to donate to help those affected by tornado damage, there is a fund set up at the local US Bank branch. Any US Bank branch can accept a donation made as long as you designate it is for the Wheaton tornado relief.

Danforth added, "We are really appreciative of the community for how they stepped up and helped. It was heartfelt for sure."

City of Cassville flooding causes minor damage

Vinnie Roberts

Last week on Tuesday, April 30, Barry County residents felt the effects of a major storm cell. During that time, there were 11 reported tornadic touch-downs across southern Missouri during the storms, three of those in Barry County, leaving several structures throughout the area damaged or destroyed.

The City of Cassville experienced a confirmed, fairly small, EF-0 tornado, but due to the town's close proximity to Flat Creek, once again the city received flood damage.

According to David Brock, Cassville's public works director, the storms and the ensuing flooding left some streets and culverts with debris issues and damage to the Greenway Trail.

"We had a lot of debris that washed up on box culverts," said Brock. "Most of the street cleaning and debris removal was done by the end of the following day."

Brock went on to explain that some of the most costly damage centered around Cassville's Greenway Trail. The Greenway runs from a northern point in town, beginning at Rocky Edmondson Park behind Cassville Middle School, to the Aquatic Center, located in the town's industrial district.

"The real damage that we suffered was on the gravel sections of the Greenway Trail," said Brock. "Sections were washed out down adjacent to Flat Creek and some more down at our city's south park by the aquatic center, and we're still doing repairs on those."

Brock also said that the main lasting damage done to the trail is the large amount of gravel that the storm and subsequent flood washed away.

"The trail is still passable," said Brock. "We've reclaimed as much gravel as we could, but there's been some areas where we're needing to bring new gravel in. We need to wait for the ground to be less soggy so that our trucks can get through to there. As soon as that ground firms up and we can get those dump trucks in, then we'll finish that off."

The public works department will locally source the gravel, according to Brock. This will be funded through the city's public works budget and should cost no more than $2,000.

However, the public works department may be reimbursed, as the recent storm activity has the potential to be declared a disaster by the State Emergency Management Agency (SEMA). According to Brock, SEMA representatives have contacted Cassville City Hall as well as several other local government representatives, advising them on the matter.

"SEMA has advised all of the local communities to document their flood response and damages, because now they've said there's been 11 tornado touchdowns in southern Missouri during the storm event. There's some potential that there will be a disaster declaration and reimbursement."

Resurfacing on the Greenway Trail is expected to begin at the city's earliest possible convenience. For more information on this or other public works projects, contact Cassville City Hall at (417) 847-4441.

City Washburn online ticket payment issues to be resolved at next meeting

Vinnie Roberts

At a city council meeting on Tuesday, April 16, Washburn City Clerk Emily Arnett made the alderpersons aware of an issue regarding the payment of traffic tickets needing to be resolved immediately.

According to Arnett, after several calls from confused citizens regarding their ability to pay their traffic fines online, she was prompted to conduct further investigation into the complaints. She discovered the Washburn Police Department hands out business cards with traffic tickets with instructions on how to pay fines online. Washburn, however, does not currently have an online payment system in place.

After conducting further research, Arnett concluded that an online payment system was put in place under the previous city clerk, but due to a lack of communication, payments to the system were cancelled without realizing their importance.

Arnett then contacted Washburn City Attorney Darlene Parrigon about the matter. According to Arnett, Par-rigon said the city has to have a system in place for online payments to be in compliance with state law.

Arnett told the council members she would work throughout the month on finding a suitable service to process the ticket payments.

After some pricing comparisons and a few weeks of digging, Arnett settled on a service called Jetpay. The service will transfer money from online traffic and court payments meant for the Washburn court to the appropriate accounts.

It will not cost the city anything to utilize, instead exacting a small convenience fee from the defendant to process payments online. People still have the option to pay the city directly for no additional fee. The onlinepayments will be processed through the Jetpay website. The City of Washburn does not have a dedicated website.

Arnett plans to present her findings to the council at their next meeting on Tuesday, May 21. Should the council move to accept this service, the cards handed out to citizens during traffic stops will be amended to reflect the correct information regarding online payment options.

For more information about Washburn courts or how to handle traffic court payments, contact Washburn City Hall at (417) 826-5242 or 321 Main Street, Washburn.

Goodwill Is Not Dead

I was going through a fast food drive through last week and as I pulled up to the window to pay: “The car in front of you has already paid.” The employee then said it’s “pay it forward” day.
 “What’s that?”
 “You pay for the order of the person behind you.” I looked in may rear view mirror. I didn’t see anyone. “Is there anyone ordering behind me?”
 “No, I guess you got lucky.”
 What a wonderful idea in today’s society of “me first.” You do an act of kindness with no expectation of repayment.
 In a way, that is a good explanation of Christianity. Our King, Jesus Christ, extended the greatest act of kindness not only without expectation of repayment, but knowing the vast majority of mankind would not just reject him but actively oppose him.
 We as Christians are to show acts of kindness. The church began with acts of kindness with no regard for compensation.
 Back to the drive-through. Since no one was behind me, that chain of kindness was broken. Christianity is a never broken chain of kindness. It always has been and it always will be.

Roaring River Healthcare to celebrate National Nursing Home Week, host open house

Vinnie Roberts

On Friday, May 17, Roaring River Health and Rehab (RRH&R), an assisted living facility in Cassville, will host an open house event. The facility will open its doors to provide an afternoon of entertainment for the whole family.

Roaring River's open house will be from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and will feature party games, rented bounce houses and fair food.

Hamburgers, hot dogs and chips will be served at the event free of charge, however, snow cones and cotton candy will be available for $1 each. A $5 donation gets attendees a wristband for unlimited jumping privileges in the bounce houses.

There will also be a raffle for several to-be-announced items donated to RRH&R by one of the hospices partnered with the facility. Funds raised by the raffle will go to new bar-be-cue grill for residents to benefit from.

According to Norma Kirkpatrick, RRH&R activities director, the open house is part of a larger effort on the part of Roaring River Health and Rehab to celebrate National Nursing Home Week, which falls on the week of May 13 through May 17. Roaring River staff will host and participate in different celebratory events throughout the week.

The kick off to the celebration will be on Mother's Day, May 12, when they will host an ice cream bar and have flowers available to residents.

On Monday, May 13, the staff and residents will don red, white and blue themed apparel and costumes, culminating in a costume contest.

Cassville Mayor Bill Shiveley will also be present at the facility to give a proclamation officially kicking off the week's celebrations. Shiveley is scheduled to speak at 10 a.m. on Monday.

On Tuesday, May 14, the facility will host a sports day with staff and residents encouraged to dress in outfits celebrating their favorite sports teams. This will be followed by crazy hat and hair day on Wednesday, tie dye day on Thursday, and finally, the open house on Friday.

According to Kirkpatrick, the yearly event is often looked forward to by staff and residents alike.

"The residents look forward to this week all year long. The staff dresses up, the residents dress up, this is one of their favorite weeks," she said.

For more information on the facility or their National Nursing Home Week events, contact Roaring River Health and Rehab at (417) 847-2184.

In efforts to keep the citizens of the City of Cassville safe, Destruction Permits are required when removing or tearing down structures within the city limits. This assures utilities such as natural gas, sewer, water, and electrical are properly disconnected and secured in a safe manner.

Sign permits are also required within city limits. You can reference this information on the city's website.

Building permits are also required for new construction, additions, roofs, decks, and anything that has a structural impact on the building or that may impact your neighbor.

HOSPITAL from FRONT

and bring state-of-the-art equipment for surgery, radiology and laboratory.”

Bass also stated that, in addition to expanded services, having a facility designed to suit their needs will also aid staff in the care of patients.

“This new facility will bring a high level of efficiency that we currently do not have with the design and flow of the current hospital,” said Bass.

Regarding the old building, CoxHealth is currently in conversations with several organizations that have an interest in purchasing the facility.

“We are in conversations with several interested parties that have a common vision of enhancing this community with a purposeful plan for the current hospital,” said Bass. “We do not have a solidified plan yet, but are looking forward to being able to announce the plans once the final determination and agreements have been made.”

According to Bass, CoxHealth has been working closely with the community to ensure that the new hospital better serves the community’s needs more adequately than its predecessor.

“We are actively recruiting for a full-time orthopedic surgeon and currently assessing community needs,” said Bass. “We have a community advisory board that works with us to understand what the community needs and wants are.”

The new facility will be 75,000 square feet and will also feature an attached medical office building that will be an additional 27,000 square feet. This will make the total square footage of the new facility over a hundred thousand.

Bass stated that the construction of the facility has been a long time coming with hospital administration facing many challenges along the way.

“CoxHealth purchased the land on E. Hwy. 60 in 2005,” said Bass. “We started ramping up conversations about a new hospital again starting in 2017, and we were thrilled to make the announcement this past December.”

“Becker’s Review reported more than 60 rural hospitals have closed since 2010, 68 percent of which were Critical Access Hospitals like Cox Monett. Facilities in states where Medicaid expansion did not pass, like Missouri, have proven to be at a higher risk. We understand the importance of health care in rural communities. It’s a vital service.”

According to Bass, construction is expected to be completed in November or December 2020 with a tentative move-in date of early 2021.

Bass stated that, despite the larger facility, CoxHealth will not be planning any major staffing changes to accommodate the move.

“We do not anticipate adding staff initially, but will utilize the metrics already in place to determine staffing levels based on volumes and other statistics,” said Bass.

Plans for transferring staff between the two facilities have not been made official at this time, but are currently being deliberated, according to Bass.

“We are working with consultants to plan for the move,” said Bass. “All decisions have not been made as of this point, but we will utilize all the tools and strategies to ensure a successful transition for our patients and our staff.”

Citizens looking to donate further to the hospital’s construction fund can still do so. “To position Cox Monett and all it serves for a bright future, a community investment is needed,” said Bass. “Information on the Momentum Campaign can be found at www.coxhealth-foundation.com or people may call Lisa Alexander at (417) 269-7150.”

CoxHealth of Monett will remain operational until it moves to its new location early in 2021. For more information, contact CoxHealth Monett at (417) 235-3144 or online at coxhealth.com.

Missouri travelers should use caution, heed closure signs, during flooding

Moving barricades or driving over flooded roads could be deadly. With flooding impacting roads and bridges across the state, the Missouri Department of Transportation wants to remind travelers to pay attention to all posted signs.

“The phrase ‘Turn Around, Don’t Drown’ is the best advice we can give drivers,” said Becky Allmeroth, MoDOT’s chief safety officer and maintenance engineer. “With major rivers rising and flash flooding covering routes throughout the state, motorists need to check the Traveler Information Map before heading out.”

Travelers should heed barricades barring travel across flooded roads. Several water rescues have already occurred across the state. Almost all of them could have been avoided if the driver had not attempted to cross a flooded route.

“I’m always flabbergasted to learn someone has driven around -- or even moved -- a barricade to get across a flooded route,” Allmeroth said. “They are literally putting their lives, and the lives of their passengers, in jeopardy. It’s not only dangerous, it’s illegal.”

During flooding the road may have collapsed under the water. Water may be deeper than it appears and can hide hazards such as sharp objects, washed out road surfaces, electrical wires and chemicals.

According to the National Weather Service, it takes just 12 inches of rushing water to carry away a small car, while 2 feet of rushing water can carry away almost any vehicle. It is NEVER safe to drive or walk into flood waters. Downed power lines, hidden debris or one false step can lead to injury or even death.

With more rain forecast across the state for the next few days, MoDOT advises all travelers check the Traveler Information Map before heading out, even if your current location appears not to be affected by flooding. You can also call 1-888-275-6636 (Ask MoDOT) to talk to a MoDOT customer service representative 24-hours a day.

Purdy Lady Eagles claim district softball crown

Lee Stubblefield

Trailing Crane by a run in the bottom of the ninth inning, the Purdy Lady Eagles were down to their last strike. Then Bayleigh Robbins crushed a 1-2 offering from Crane's Olivia Edwards into center field for a walkoff 2 RBI double and a 7-6 Purdy victory. It was a fitting ending to a wild district tournament.

A rainy week led to the worrisome delay of this championship contest. With a sectional game looming on Monday, a game that was originally scheduled for Thursday had to be played on Saturday, somehow and somewhere. While moving the game to Joplin was a reasonable option, the Purdy grounds crew worked tirelessly to convert a muddy mess into a softball infield. By midafternoon, the word spread: Purdy would host the district title game. at home. The Lady Eagles refused to let a little water wash away that home field advantage.

Pregame jitters? The Crane Lady Pirates seemed well composed, and the Purdy girls looked even more so. Just minutes before the first pitch, the Lady Eagles entertained the crowd, line dancing to Copperhead Road while Crane took infield practice.

A blue sky and a blinding late afternoon sun that shone mercilessly from behind the mound greeted batters in the early going. "Beware the glare."

Bayleigh Robbins scored the first run of the game. Purdy's shortstop doubled to lead off the bottom of the second inning and scored on a sac fly from Annabelle Bowman. The Lady Eagles added two more runs in the third frame when Robbins ripped a bases loaded double.

The Purdy lead grew to 5-0 in the fourth, with McKenzie

Renkoski and Lauren Schallert supplying back-to-back RBI hits to punctuate a two-out rally.

After being shut out for five innings by Schallert's rising fastball, the Crane offense suddenly came to life. The Lady Pirates downed Billings 16-8 in first round action, and then downed Wheaton with a 9-1 blitz. The bats reawakened in the sixth inning of the title tilt, and a four-run uprising pulled the Lady Pirates within a run.

In the seventh inning, Crane's season gained new life when Edwards singled and then came home on a Lauren Akins sac fly to tie the game at 5-5. But Schallert pitched out of the jam striking out Mackinzie Funcannon and Celsie Killman to end the rally.

Purdy would not score in the home half of the seventh, and fans settled in for extra innings.

Neither team could score in the eighth, but Crane grabbed a 6-5 lead with an Edwards single and an RBI double from Lauren Akin.

Now, the pressure shifted to the Purdy dugout. A pumped up Edwards struck out Makenna Orwig to open the inning. But Kinsley Mattingley popped a seeing-eye infield blooper that just cleared the mound and died in the quicksand. Then Renkoski reached on a fielder's choice while Mattingley was erased at second base for the second out.

More cowbell

The Purdy crowd, vocal all game, roared its support as Schallert and Kylie Wood drew walks to load the bases. At every dead moment, the Eagle boosters came alive with cowbells, shakers, clappers and megaphones, exhorting and encouraging the black and gold.

After the walk to Woods filled the sacks, Edwards had nowhere to put Bayleigh Robbins. Robbins was two-for-four with a pair of doubles in her previous trips to the plate.

Edwards nibbled and missed with her first pitch but drew a foul ball with her next delivery and then pulled ahead in the count when Robbins took a second strike. Edwards went for the kill on the next pitch, but Robbins crushed a line drive to center field. Dager.

After blowing a 5-0 lead, the Lady Eagles found a way to win another district crown. Purdy improved to 23-5 on the season, earning a berth in a Monday sectional game at Forsyth. The Lady Panthers defeated Hollister to win the Class 1 District 9 championship.

Purdy baseball wins big at Miller tourney

On Tuesday, March 7, Cassville High celebrated senior night for girls varsity soccer. This was the last home game for the season, effectively making it the last home game of the careers of all senior players. During the 15-minute halftime period, seniors were invited to take the field with their parents and given gift bags in celebration of their time with the soccer program. As the players took the field to be recognized, assistant coach Kyle Troutman read their names, various accomplishments and favorite memories over the field's P.A. system.

Neighborhood Center to celebrate 50th anniversary

Vinnie Roberts

During the month of May, Ozark Area Community Action Center (OACAC) is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the opening of its neighborhood centers. During May, OACAC community centers across the ten counties they serve will be hosting open house events to welcome both former employees and the community into their offices to learn about programming.

The Barry County Neighborhood Center in Cassville will host its open house on Thursday, May 16. The event will begin at 10 a.m. and will conclude at 2 p.m. Lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. During this time, members of the community and current and former OACAC employees will join the staff and have an in-depth look at the services the center offers, as well as the day-to-day duties of the people who work there.

According to Gail Reed, Cassville Neighborhood Center supervisor, attendees will be able to ask employees and supervisors in-depth questions about their services and daily duties.

"We'll have the center open so that people can see what we do and ask questions about our programs and projects," said Reed.

Food will be served free of charge during the open house. There will also be a birthday cake to commemorate the center's 50th birthday. Food will be available at the event from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

There will be a drawing for a raffle that began last month during a fundraiser. The raffle is for a Mossberg .22 caliber rifle. Entry for the raffle will be open until May 9. Tickets for the raffle are available at the Cassville Neighborhood Center and cost $5 for a single entry or $20 for an "arm-span" of tickets.

Reed, an employee of the neighborhood center for 25 years, is excited about the event and the chance to celebrate with the community. According to her, she takes great pride in the center's accomplishments since her employment began.

"I'm really proud of our neighborhood center and what we do," said Reed. "I think we strive every day to do the best for our community and our clients."

Clients can receive a variety of services through the neighborhood center. These include: utility assistance, housing assistance, emergency shelter assistance, participation in the school readiness fair, Head Start preschool, and life skills classes that educate clients on a variety of topics. They also work with area schools to put on programs like REALL, a life-readiness simulation, and VOICE, which allows school-age children to be exposed to different careers to help them plan for the future.

For more information on the open house or the raffle, contact the OACAC Neighborhood Center at (417) 847-2140. The neighborhood center is located at 700 East Hwy. 248 in Cassville.

Mother's Day Tea at Roaring River to highlight wild herbs

Vinnie Roberts
On Sunday, May 12, Roaring River State Park will host its annual Mother's Day Wild Tea. The event will start at 11 a.m. and is scheduled to end at 12:30 p.m. at the CCC picnic shelter, located near Highway F. This event is free to the public.
According to Kelly Koch, interpretive resource specialist for Roaring River State Park, in previous years, the event met in a tent near the Chinquapin Nature Center on the park grounds. This year, the location was changed to the CCC shelter in order to give it a more naturalistic, outdoorsy atmosphere.
"It's a new location this year," said Koch. "I think the atmosphere will be better than the tent we usually have at the nature center."

During the event, park employees will be making and handing out warm herbal teas, cool beverages and finger foods, all made from wild plants and flowers that grow in Missouri. Park employees will also educate attendees on the process by which the food was made, as well as how to identify these edible plants in the wild.

Attendees will first make their own tea bags out of local herbs. Herbs available are said to include mint, echinacea and dandelion to name a few.

During this time, attendees will be educated on the wild roots and herbs that grow in Missouri and how previous generations used them for survival. According to Koch, the education portion of the event is the most important component. "I think it's important to teach people about these wild edibles, because it's some of the knowledge that our grandparents and great-grandparents had and utilized out of necessity."
"With the world that we have now, we're losing some of that knowledge, so it's kind of fun to look back on what people used historically so that people can know what's out there."
Cold drinks will also be served at the event. The main attraction of this portion of the morning will be root beer, made from Koch's own recipe using locally grown sassafras roots.

Finger foods made from local wild plants will also be served throughout the event. Details on some of the foods are to be announced since their ingredients will be picked from the wild in the days before the event, but Koch stated that there will be a type of spinach puff made from wild nettle leaves.
"Most of the foods will already be prepared," said Koch. "It's an opportunity to sit and enjoy the wild food that grows around here."
For more information on this event and future park events, contact a park naturalist at the Ozark Chinquapin Nature Center at (417) 847-3742.

United Way of the Ozarks recognizes local volunteer

Carol Craig, human resource specialist at Regal in Cassville, was recently honored by the United Way of the Ozarks as a recipient of its Campaign Champion Award. This recognition is given to those who passionately lead their company's campaign, demonstrating leadership and innovation in conveying the needs of the community. Carol coordinates the efforts of a volunteer team of Cassville Regal employees who hold a variety of events throughout the year promoting and helping raise funds for the United Way of the Ozarks. This year's week long kick-off campaign was a success with a range of activities including 80's attire and ugly sweater days, a bake sale as well as a "competitive" silent auction. Carol was recognized during the United Way of the Ozarks annual meeting in Springfield on April 10, 2019.
