

The ayes have it for the library tax

Sheila Harris
“I’m so happy; I’m so happy,” were the first words Barry-Lawrence Regional Library Director, Gina Milburn, came out with in reaction to the news that the 7-cent library tax levy increase had passed in Tuesday’s municipal election.
“I was glued to the news watching election results as they came in,” she said. “I had this secret fear that, at the last minute, the levy might fail, so I was bracing myself for the worst. To wake up Wednesday morning and realize it really did pass is a huge relief. Now, we can move forward with next year’s budget without worrying about what plans we’ll have to scrap and what repairs will have to wait. I am so grateful to the library patrons who are responsible for getting out and voting in favor of the levy. They are the real heroes for understanding the importance of local libraries, and ensuring we have the funds to keep them operational.”
The 7-cent tax levy increase will give libraries additional operating funds to offset shortages caused by the Hancock Amendment, which mandated that libraries had to roll back their property tax levy to numbers last approved by voters, which happened in 1973. At that time, the cap on the levy was 15-cents per $1,000 assessed valuation, which represented a loss from their then-current 2008 levy of 17-cents. Because the library gets 85 percent of their funding from property taxes, the seemingly small 2-cent decrease might not seem like much. To the library, however, it represented a loss of about $250,000 of operating revenue between the two counties.
With the 7-cent increase, the new cap for the library’s property tax levy will be 22-cents, an amount which will be collected during the 7th Street Bridge plans put on hold

Cassville utility workers clean up approach to 7th Street bridge in preparation for possible future project.

Sheila Harris
Removal of old pavement on the west side of the former 7th Street bridge in Cassville took place last week.
“Without enough funds to move forward with the construction of a new bridge, we’re at a standstill,” Public Works Director, David Brock, said.
According to Brock, after the 2017 flood which damaged the bridge beyond repair, a FEMA grant of $39,000 fell far short of the bids received for reconstruction cost, so with FEMA’s approval, the funds were spent on other street repair projects.
“Other sources of funding

Applications available for CARES funds

Background
On March 27th, 2020, Congress passed, and President Trump signed into law, the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (“CARES Act”). The CARES Act established the Coronavirus Relief Fund and appropriated $150 billion to the Coronavirus Relief Fund. Under the CARES Act, the funds are to be used to make payments for specified uses, based on the requirements of the CARES Act requirements and United States Department of Treasury guidance.
Generally, the CARES Act provides that payments may only be used to cover costs that:
(1) are necessary expenditures incurred due to the public health emergency with respect to COVID-19;
(2) were not accounted for in the budget most recently approved as of March 27, 2020, for the government; and
(3) were incurred during the period that begins on March 1, 2020, and ends on December 30, 2020.
Expenditures must be used for actions taken to respond to the public health emergency. Funds may not be used to fill shortfalls in government revenue to cover expenditures that would not otherwise qualify under the CARES Act. Expenditures

Sheila Harris
Based on probable cause statements signed by Detective Danny Boyd, of the Cassville Police Department, on May 18, 2020, warrants were issued for the arrest of 27-year-old Tiffany Morango and her fiancé, 38-year-old Lee Robert Schroeder, III, both of Cassville. first year, then be subject to the state’s decision in years ahead, based on the economy. Milburn would like to assure voters that the passage of the increased tax levy doesn’t mean that the library will begin spending money willy-nilly. “We’ll move forward with plans already in place,” Milburn indicated, “in particular, the expansion of our databases.” According to Milburn, streaming data programs, including Hoopla and Missouri Libraries to Go, are extremely popular with readers, especially in audio and e-book formats. “The programs allow readers to check out digital materials to read on their own

This summer, the Barry-Lawrence Regional Libraries have been awarded a Reading Challenge Software Grant of $544 to be used, initially, for the children’s summer reading program – scheduled to begin June 8. The grant is funded by the Library Service and Technology Act through the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services.

According to the statement, while in the hospital, medical personnel noted that the victim was alleged to be very weak, had lacerations, sores and bruising throughout his body, was dehydrated and malnourished, and appeared to be improperly fed and bathed. Prior to going to the hospital for treatment, the statement continued, the victim had been in the direct care of his mother, Tiffany Morango, and her fiancé, Lee Robert Schroeder, III. According to Cassville Police Chief, Dana Kammerlohr, the (child) was taken into protective services at that time, then placed in foster care. Gray earns Eagle Scout rank

Xain H. Gray was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout on January 27, 2020. He has been in scouting since he was 7 years old. As a Cub Scout, he was awarded his Arrow of Light, the highest award in Cubs, and is now the recipient of the highest honor in Boy Scouts of America. As his project, he chose to build garden boxes for Peachwood Manor. The residents and owner are very pleased with the raised boxes.

Born in January of 2002, while America was still mourning 9/11, he graduated with the Class of 2020 from Cassville High School during the COVID-19 pandemic, something completely different from what many have experienced in their first 18 years of life. He was on the football team, cheer stunted during off-season, and was very involved with drama and theater production. He's a great student, friend and family man. He has been raised by his grandparents, Les and Robin Coomer, since he was a year old. He plans to attend Crowder's Nursing Program, then continue his dream of becoming a PA or NP in a specialized field.

Leave tree trimming to experts

Recent storms and spring growth have left a lot of trees in need of attention. Barry Electric Cooperative wants you to know that tree trimming is a job best left to experts, especially when they are located near power lines. In fact, the two leading causes of death while trimming trees come from falling and electrocution.

Whenever you trim trees or do other yard work, remember these tips:

- Wear safety glasses to protect your eyes from sawdust, pine needles and other debris.
- When operating a trimmer or chainsaw, you'll need ear protection, shoes with slip-resistant soles, chaps and gauntlets.
- If you use a ladder, tie it off to a secure location. Never go anywhere near a power line with a ladder, especially a metal one.
- Be aware of anyone on the ground. It's best to have a spotter watch for people who might wander into your worksite.
- Safety is our number one priority and we are trained experts in safely removing debris from around powerlines. If in doubt, call us!

In addition to working for Royal McBee, Jerry worked for FASCO Industries for twenty-two years in Ozark and Cassville; Emerson Electric, St. Louis for sixteen years; and Brunswick Corp. in Knoxville, Tenn., for three years, before retiring in 2006. Jerry loved his work, which allowed him to travel to many parts of the world as a Manufacturing Engineer, Plant Superintendent, and a New Technologies and Cost Reduction Specialist. While at Emerson Electric, he was granted a patent in 2002. After retiring, he moved to the Table Rock Lake area, where he and his son, Andy, developed a tract of property for several home sites overlooking the lake near Big Cedar.

An avid sportsman, Jerry loved to hunt and fish, but his greatest pleasure was his children, teaching them how to ride horses, water ski, snow ski, and to compete in sports. He was a driving force in establishing the Ozark and Christian County Little League Program in 1970. In 1979, in Andy's senior year at Sparta High School, he and his teammates won second place in the Missouri State Basketball Championships for AA schools. This team was developed and coached by Jerry during their formative years, and remains close to this day.

He is survived by his beloved wife of forty-two years, Debra Workman; loving children, Cynthia Dowdy, Omaha, Ark., Jerry "Andy" Workman and Jeff Workman, both of Hollister, and Julie (David) Knox, St. Louis; eight grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; sister

Easy ways to keep your immune system strong

The immune system is a powerful component of the human body. The immune system recognizes when viruses, bacteria and other foreign invaders enter or compromise the body, and then takes action to prevent illnesses from taking over. The average person can help his or her immune system do its job more effectively by making the immune system as strong as it can be.

Harvard Medical School says that diet, exercise, age, and psychological stress may affect immune system response. Certain lifestyle choices can promote a strong immune system.

- Get adequate sleep. Doctors believe sleep and immunity are closely tied. A study of 164 healthy adults published by the National Institutes of Health found those who slept fewer than six hours each night were more likely to catch a cold than people who slept for more than six hours. Aim for adequate rest each night to keep your body in top form.
- Increase your intake of fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables supply the powerhouse antioxidants that are essential for protecting a body against free radicals. Free radicals may play a role in heart disease, cancer and other diseases. Serve fruits and/or vegetables with every meal to ensure you're getting enough antioxidant-rich foods.
- Consume fiber and fermented foods. Fiber can help feed the gut microbiome, which is linked to a robust immune system. The microbiome also may prevent harmful pathogens from entering the body through the digestive tract. Data also suggests that eating more fermented foods can further strengthen and populate healthy bacteria in the gut.
- Exercise regularly. Aim for 30 minutes of moderate exercise per day, advises the American Heart Association. Thirty minutes of exercise each day can go a long way toward keeping the body healthy. The U.S. National Library of Medicine says physical activity may help flush bacteria out of the lungs and airways. Exercise causes changes in antibodies and white blood cells. These antibodies and white blood cells circulate rapidly, so they may detect illnesses earlier than they would if you do not exercise. Body temperature also rises during exercise, which could naturally prevent bacteria from growing.

• Try to minimize stress. According to Simply Psychology, when people are stressed, the immune system's ability to fight off antigens is reduced, making people more susceptible to infections. The stress hormone corticosteroid can suppress the effectiveness of the immune system. Limiting stress through meditation and breathing exercises, or trying to remove stressors from one's life, may help.
A healthy immune system is vital to fending off or recovering from illness.

Your local mask-maker

When masks became mandatory for employees at many essential businesses, they became harder to find. Cassville seamstress, Charlotte Woods, is using her lifelong love of sewing to help the area meet this challenge. Woods has been sewing since she was a little girl. “I used to beg my mom for fabric scraps, a needle and thread,” she said. Woods used to make her children’s clothes, as well as her own. She started making alterations about 20 years ago; Woods has been making them at 4th Street Cleaners in Cassville for the past few years. “I’ve been sewing all my life; it’s what I love to do,” Woods said. Glenda Cassity, owner of 4th Street Cleaners, found instructions online for fabric masks. Woods began to make them, then Cassity posted them on her Facebook page. Woods has seen a steady flow of orders ever since. “I’ve probably got around 30 bins of fabric scraps in my shop that we have used for the masks and straps,”

Woods said. She also uses thin flannel from the bins to line the masks. Wood’s masks are machine washable. In addition to the masks she sells, Woods and her sister make and donate masks to area nursing homes who are experiencing mask shortages. These masks are made from Olefin material, which is the only fabric that nursing homes are allowing their employees to use. “Knowing I’m helping prevent the spread of this virus, specifically in older people who are prone to COVID, is very rewarding,” Woods said. If you have questions or would like to place an order, visit 4th Street Cleaners at 104 4th Street in Cassville, across from Sunrise Restaurant, or call (417) 847-3412. Business hours are Monday-Friday, 7:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.

I felt it was necessary to make the public aware that my office has received numerous phone calls from several local businesses and taxpayers, regarding the sale of Barry County Plat Books from an unknown solicitor. Attached is a copy of the front & back of a post card that a local law office received through the mail and then contacted me with questions and concerns. I’m not certain if this a fraudulent misrepresentation of the actual Barry County Plat Books, which the Assessor’s Office produces and sells locally, however, I would be hesitant to purchase a county plat book through this online company, as I’m uncertain of the validity of the data they are offering for sale. Just a reminder, the Barry County Assessor’s Office continues to offer current and up-to-date County Plat Books for $40 each, maps of various sizes - from 3’ x 3’ to 8 ½” x 11” - as well as an on-line GIS website which can be accessed at <http://barry-gis.countyportal.net/>. For any questions or concerns, or to make any purchases of available data we offer, please feel free to contact us personally, Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., or by phone at 417-847-4589. Respectfully, Ms. Sherry L. Smith Barry County Assessor sherryassessor@barrycountygov.com
