Local volunteers help kids look forward to back-to-school

Charlea Mills

Fourteen years ago, Gail Reed asked people in the community for donations to help buy underprivileged kids back-to-school supplies if their parents couldn't afford them. Reed collected $200 that year. Now, the program has grown and nearly 200 kids got what they needed to make sure they have a great start to a new school year.

Reed is the supervisor at the Ozarks Area Community Action Corporation Neighborhood Center in Cassville. Each year, the local OACAC hosts a back to school fair where children from area schools can sign up to receive free school supplies if their families are unable to provide them.

"It's really evolved over the years to grow so much bigger than I ever thought it would," Reed stated.

"When I first decided to do this, I went around to different businesses and collected $200 and bought as many school supplies as I could. Then I just handed them out of the back room, but it's become so much more than that now."

Today, OACAC pairs with Bright Futures at the Cassville School, the Cassville Ministerial Alliance, the United Methodist Church and a variety of local businesses and groups to get the event put together. Reed said, "It's so much more for the family now with the help we get. They can eat together and really enjoy themselves."

The back to school fair not only gives each child a new backpack and a bag of school supplies they need for their grade level, but kids also go home with new shoes, a haircut, and plenty of information about different community groups that help kids and families in the area. Groups like The Boy and Girl Scouts, the Barry County E9-1-1 Center, 4H, the Barry-Lawrence Regional Library and more have tables set up to tell families and kids what they have to offer or give them useful information. While kids mill around the Family Life Center, they have plenty to do and see.

Almost 200 kids went to the OACAC back-to-school fair over the weekend to get the supplies they need for the upcoming year. Volunteers all over the community donate their time and money to make the event possible and help local families in need.

It is truly a community effort to make the fair the celebration that it has become. The YMCA provides bounce houses for the kids to enjoy, the United Methodist Church provides shoes, they get a new backpack, and the Ministerial Alliance provides a meal for the whole family. Bright Futures also shows up with extra backpacks and school supplies for kids who didn't sign up in time.

Community mourns beloved pastor John Duncan

A beloved member of the Cassville community passed away last week, leaving people shocked, saddened and sharing memories of the times they shared. Longtime First Baptist of Cassville pastor John Duncan passed away on Thursday, July 30, at the age of 67.

Duncan began his service to the community in 1985 after graduating from the Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Ft. Worth, Texas. He stayed with the church for 23 years before moving to Thailand with his wife, Jennifer, as a pastor through the International Mission Board. Once they returned from Thailand, Duncan returned to Barry County where he pastured at Arnhart Baptist Church in Purdy until his death.

Services were held on Monday, August 3, at the Arnhart Baptist Church in Purdy. For the full obituary, see page 7A.

Richmiller earns Outstanding Choral Director for the third time in Southwest District

Charlea Mills

Teachers have it easy. They only work nine months out of the year. They get their summers off to do what they want. They only have to work until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and then they go home and relax. Sound familiar? For anyone who knows a teacher, or more importantly, a great teacher, knows that none of that is true.

Great teachers spend countless hours not only with students, but planning lessons, developing their strategy for the year, grading papers and more. Finishing up at 3 p.m. and heading home isn't in the cards for teachers, and particularly for the Cassville's Choir Director for the last 22 years, Mary Richmiller.

Cassville Senior Center experiences new low with flag theft

Charlea Mills

Certain types of theft and vandalism just hits a little too hard. This is the case with the most recent issue that the Cassville Senior Center is facing after someone stole their American flag.

Adena Cox-Holloway, administrator for the center, said, "The rope had just been cut, and the flag was gone."

The Senior Center, located on Fair Street in Cassville, has had issues with vandalism and theft in the past, but no one expected their flag to go missing.

The flag was normally a welcome sight for some of the many veterans and civilians alike that frequent the Center, but its absence has hit many close to home. Cox-Holloway said, "We've had issues with vandalism in the past on our sign and had the police out for that, and we've made the reports, but nothing turned up."

Lieutenant Danny Boyd with the Cassville Police Department said that there hasn't been any increase in crime lately. He said, "Everything has been pretty normal, but it always decreases when school starts."

"In this case, we think it was probably kids who were bored and just cut it down. That street has a lot of traffic with people walking, and its summer, so kids aren't in school."

Boyd said that there had been no other issues with flags being tampered with. He said, "Even with a lock on the flag, like we have here at City Hall, someone could still cut the rope. The only way to be sure they are safe is to take them down at night, but this is probably an isolated event."

Man wanted for murder arrested in Wheaton

Charlea Mills

A 25 year-old man was arrested in Wheaton on Friday for his alleged involvement in the murder of Pittsburg State University student on October 9, 2014.

According to a press release by the Pittsburg, Kan., Police Department, Juan Salas-Rueda, formerly of Pittsburg, was arrested by the Wheaton Police Department for a warrant issued through Crawford County, Kansas Attorney's Office. Salas-Rueda is the fourth person to be arrested in connection with the murder of Taylor Thomas, 20, in his home by a gunshot wound. According to information released by detectives and the Prosecuting Attorney's office, the burglary was related to marijuana in the home that was owned by Thomas' roommate.

It is believed that Salas-Rueda helped another suspect, Bryan Levi Bridges, 20, avoid capture. There is a $10,000 reward out for information that leads to Bridges' arrest. It is unknown at this time what Salas-Rueda was doing in Wheaton or what his ties are to the area. Wheaton Police Chief Clint Clark said he was unable to make a comment regarding the arrest at this time because it is an ongoing investigation.

Salas-Rueda is currently being held in the Crawford County, Kan., jail in lieu of a $2,000,000 bond on charges of murder, aggravated robbery, aggravated burglary and obstructing apprehension or prosecution.

If anyone in the Barry County area has any additional information, contact the Pittsburg Police Department at (620) 231-1700. Tips can remain anonymous.

DR. JOHN F. DUNCAN

John Duncan always liked to surprise people by saying he grew up in a funeral home. But it is true, when he was born, on January 17, 1948, his parents Joe and Helen Duncan were the second generation of Duncan Funeral Home owners, and John and his younger brother, JR, spent much of their young lives in the back of that beautiful rock building in Mountain View.

John was a student leader in Mountain View Schools, graduating as the Salutatorian of his high school class in 1966. As a high school senior, John felt impressed that God was leading him into full-time Christian service, so he chose to attend Oklahoma Baptist University, and graduated with a church music degree. His senior year, he served as President of the Bison Glee Club, and went on OBU's European Study Tour. On that tour, he got acquainted with his future wife, Jennifer Eighmy. They married the following year, in 1970.

John and Jennifer lived briefly in Dallas, Texas, where John attended mortuary school so that he could join the family business. During their years in Mountain View, John also served as music director of the First Baptist Church there. In 1974, John and Jennifer received what they considered the greatest miracle and blessing of their lives when twin sons, Jay Matthew and Jeffrey Mark, were added to their family. When the boys were seven, John again felt a calling of God's spirit to become a pastor. The family moved to Ft. Worth, Texas, for John to attend Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He graduated in 1985 and was called to pastor First Baptist Church of Cassville. John served there for 23 years and earned a Doctor of Ministry degree from Denver Seminary. During these years, two daughters-in-law, Jennifer Lawson and Christa Milligan, and four granddaughters, Grace, Emma, Kate and Meredith, were added to the family. One of his greatest joys was being called "Granddad".

In 2008, a change came for John and Jennifer when they felt clearly led to leave the Cassville church and serve, through the International Mission Board, as pastor of "The Gathering" in Chiang Mai, Thailand. While there, they learned to love the Thai people and culture, and began leading Missouri groups to minister there through short-term mission trips. These mission efforts continue, every summer, even now. Upon returning from service in Thailand, John was called to pastor Arnhart Baptist Church in Purdy, where he served happily and well until his death on July 30, 2015, at age 67.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Pamela Jo, who died in infancy, and by his parents, Joe and Helen Duncan. He is survived by his wife, Jennifer, to whom he would have been married 45 years on August 7, 2015. Also surviving are son Jay and his wife, Jennifer, and daughters, Grace and Kate, of Lantana, Texas; son Jeff and his wife, Christa, and daughters, Emma and Meredith, of Washington, Missouri; brother and best friend, Dr. J.R. Duncan and his wife, Kim, and daughters Abby and Whitney, of Springfield; brother-in-law Dr. Jeff Eighmy and his wife, Catherine, and family; sister-in-law, Jaclyn Potter and husband, David, and family.

John was greatly loved and respected in the communities where he served, and will be sadly missed by all who knew him.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant..." Matthew 25:21

CHORAL from FRONT

The dedication that Richmiller has to her students proved to be seen not only to those in her school, but choir directors across Southwest Missouri. For the third time, Richmiller was selected as the Outstanding Director of the Southwest District by the Missouri Choral Directors Association, and for many, it isn't a surprise.

Judie Starchman, former Cassville Elementary choir director and longtime friend of Richmiller, said, "These people have gone to all of these Show Choir concerts and listened at the competitions, so they know what's going on in our district, and they see Mary for who she is."

Starchman added, "She is here from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. almost everyday. She works so hard for these kids."

For her part, Richmiller is humble about her achievements. In her mind, all of this is about one thing: her students and their successes.

Richmiller started with Cassville Schools in 1993. She worked with choirs and spent over 20 years developing strategies that not only earned students awards at competitions, but life lessons that will help them through what life throws at them along the way. Unlike many other classes, choir requires students to rely on one another, regardless of their background or interests. It's a team effort. She said, "It's really an inclusive family in the choirs. We have kids that have trouble in school for one reason or another that look forward to that hour of choir because they fit, no matter who they are."

Starchman added, "That might be the reason why some stay in school that might otherwise not. Mary has such a great way to get on to those kids that aren't living up to what they can do, and yet they still know she loves them. I can't imagine anyone better for that."

Richmiller began with two choirs before adding a show choir, Centerstage, in the late 1990's and starting competitions in the early 2000's. Since then, the Show Choir has grown in size and notoriety with an additional choir added a few years later, NBA (No Boys Allowed). Richmiller said, "We've always had more girls try out than boys, so we wanted them to have someplace of their own to go."

She recalled the early days of competition for the show choir with a laugh, "At that first competition, we thought we were just going to wow them all. But we found all of these things that we didn't do that all of the other choirs did. So we started out with the lowest scoring, but we've worked our way up."

She said, "In fact, we won first place at every Class 3 competition we went to this year. They've done really well."

She went on, "But it isn't about the trophies. It's about having a show that other people want to see. That's where the real satisfaction is." Richmiller and Starchman both agreed that show choir competitions are special in that regard. While a rivalry football game may draw heated heckling from the other side, it isn't that way with the choir competitions. Starchman said, "You aren't going to see our fans cheering on Monett for that great touchdown they just scored."

Richmiller explained, "The nice thing about show choir is that all of the other choirs and parents are watching, too, and when they like it, they're on their feet, clapping and cheering. They're really into it, and that's encouraging."

As far as her favorite part about teaching choir?

"I like that they get to be expressive. They learn to resolve problems together as a group. They get to decide what we do to make it more beautiful than before," she said.

"It's about two parts: making beautiful music and having fun while making beautiful music."

Perhaps part of the reason why the Cassville High School choirs are so exceptional is a multiple part explanation. The kids, Richmiller and the strategy all work together to create the perfect blend for success. She said, "They work together to decide where to go next, that's it. They might listen to a song and say, 'What if we tried going really soft here and building up.'"

Starchman said, "Kids learn best when they have to learn it on their own and figure it out together. I don't know anyone who does that better. They really learn through her."

As reluctant as Richmiller might be to the accolades shared by her peers and children on Facebook and across the spectrum, she does see the importance of music and the arts in school and in her students' lives. She said, "They say that performing music and creating art are some of the only activities that use both sides of their brain at the same time, and it's important for these kids to do this."

Cassville High School principal Jeff Swadley said, "Nobody loves her students more than Mrs. Richmiller. She strives for perfection each and every day both in the classroom as well as out of the classroom. I am extremely proud of her accomplishments, but I have to admit it is no surprise to me."

Richmiller leads Cassville's traditional choir, girls choir, two show choirs and also helps with the junior high choir. This year will be her 22nd year with Cassville Schools.

Scooter driver charged for injury wreck

Charlea Mills

Tommy E. Canada, 30, of Seligman, was arrested on charges related to a scooter wreck that occurred near Roaring River last week. Canada was charged with leaving the scene of a motor vehicle accident with an injury, driving while revoked, and operating a motor vehicle in a careless and imprudent manner. Canada was driving the scooter on Missouri 112 when he ran off the roadway and his passenger, Patric L. Smith, 22, of Seligman, was ejected.

The wreck happened around 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 28. Smith was picked up by someone passing by after the wreck and had to be transported by ambulance to Mercy Hospital in Cassville. According to a witness statement, Canada had left the scene of the wreck on his scooter and Smith was in the roadway bleeding when he picked him up. In a statement made to the Highway Patrol, Smith said that Canada had been driving the scooter when he went off the road and struck a sign. Smith told the Trooper, "He was driving and he just left me."

Trooper Hilburn was unable to locate Canada initially, but a computer check indicated that his license had been revoked and had two prior convictions in Missouri, as well as two prior convictions in Arkansas. The following day, Canada was reported to be at a residence on Jefferson Street in Seligman. Canada was found to be unresponsive on a bed with a woman who was also unresponsive. Canada told Trooper Hilburn that Smith had fallen off the scooter more than once, but that he had not been driving when it crashed. According to a witness statement from what was observed around the time of the wreck, Smith

Three more charged in jail drug conspiracy

Moore

Baez

Miller

Charlea Mills

Two inmates and one other person have been charged with the Barry County Jail drug conspiracy discovered by the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

On Friday, July 24, corrections officer Matthew A. Hernandez, 24, of Buttefield, was allegedly found to be delivering marijuana to the Barry County Jail for two inmates, Matthew Miller and Norman Baez. The operation was discovered when the Missouri State Highway Patrol got a warrant for a man's cell phone who was wanted for leaving the scene of an accident.

Text messages on Logan Moore, 18, of Rocky Comfort, and Hernandez indicated that drugs were being exchanged and being taken into the jail for inmates housed there.

Barry County Prosecuting Attorney Amy Boxx filed formal charges against Hernandez on Friday, July 24, for delivery of a controlled substance into a jail, a class C felony. Boxx filed charges against the other three connected with the conspiracy on Thursday, July 30.

The two inmates, Matthew Miller, 22, and Baez, 25, were each charged with delivery or possession of a controlled substance at a county jail.

Logan Moore was arrested last night, August 4, and is currently being held on a $4,900 bond. Moore is charged with conspiracy delivery of prohibited articles on premises.

SCHOOL from 3A

school shopping, this week-end marks tax-free weekend across the state. Tax-free shopping begins on Friday, August 7, at midnight and ends Sunday, August 9, at 11:59 p.m.

Lt. Governor Peter Kinder said, "This is an excellent opportunity for Missouri families to save some money this weekend on items for their back-to-school lists," Kinder said. "For three days, you will pay no state sales tax on qualifying purchases."

The sales tax exemption applies to:

- Clothing – any article having a taxable value of $100 or less.
- School supplies – not to exceed $50 per purchase.
- Computer software – taxable value of $350 or less per purchase.

- Personal computers/computer devices – not to exceed $3,500.

"This is a simple but effective way to help Missouri taxpayers," Kinder added. "Because our state's population centers are border cities, this tax holiday helps keep Missouri shoppers here while also attracting those from neighboring states."

Many local governments also suspend local sales taxes during the sales tax holiday. The Missouri Department of Revenue provides a list of those that don't. The list is available online, along with other information about the sales tax holiday, at: <http://dor.mo.gov/business/sales/>

taxholiday/school/

"I encourage everyone to take advantage of this temporary tax break," Kinder said. "Enjoy your sales tax holiday."

Monjaras was seriously injured and transported by ambulance to Cox South Hospital in Springfield. He was not wearing a seat belt at the time of the crash. The pickup was totalled.

Hit-and-run near Eagle Rock leaves two injured

Charlea Mills

Two women received minor injuries last night when they were involved in a hit and run just north of Eagle Rock.

According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol crash report, Tracy Youngblood, 53, of Cassville, was driving southbound on Highway 86 in a 2008 Ford Focus. Around one mile north of Eagle Rock, another vehicle, a 1980s model Chevy pickup that was northbound turned in the path of her vehicle, being struck.

Youngblood and her daughter, Ana M. Pingel, of Universal City, Texas, received minor injuries and were transported to Mercy Hospital in Cassville for treatment. Both were wearing seat belts at the time of the crash.

The driver of the Chevy pickup is unknown at this time as they fled the scene after causing the wreck. If you have any information, contact the Missouri State Highway Patrol, Troop D.

Septic systems in southern Missouri need regular maintenance for safety

Most rural counties in southern Missouri have no sewage regulations on properties larger than three acres. However, that does not mean landowners are "grandfathered" from installing or operating their septic system in ways that protect water supplies.

"Septic system failures continue to be a primary polluter of streams, lakes and groundwater aquifers (water-bearing rock formations) in the Ozarks," said Bob Schultheis, natural resource engineering specialist.

Pollution can come from an underground problem from old leaky steel septic tanks or soil absorption field lateral lines buried too deep. It can be an overland problem from surface runoff of sewage effluent into ditches, ponds, streams, and sinkholes.

Spring and fall rainy seasons are particularly a problem because the restrictive clay soils in southern Missouri get saturated and cannot accept more wastewater from the increasing number of rural homes.

"It is fairly easy to tell if a septic tank system has a problem. Sinks will drain slowly, toilets will not flush right and sewage may surface in the yard. Worst of all, drinking water from private wells will have bacterial contamination, and family members may get sick," said Schultheis.

Unfortunately, television, magazine and Internet advertising would lead a person to believe that flushing some yeast, enzymes or other additives down the toilet will magically solve septic maintenance problems.

"We do not recommend the use of these additives. Some are damaging to the soil or groundwater. Others are unlikely to pollute groundwater but interfere with settling of the solids in the septic tank. Additives that dissolve solids in the tank often just move them to the absorption field and plug it, forcing expensive repairs," said Schultheis.

Instead, Schultheis recommends pumping the tank on a regular basis. Sludge and scum levels should be checked annually. Depending on the tank's size and number of people in the house, the tank usually needs pumping every two to five years.

"Using water conservation measures in the home will help reduce the likelihood of absorption field failure, especially during wet weather. If you have an abandoned metal septic tank, it should be pumped and removed, and the hole filled in," said Schultheis.

It is also recommended that owners of private wells get their well water tested at least annually through their county health department. Landowners can find a local office online at <http://health.mo.gov/living/lpha/lphas.php>.

For persons repairing or installing a septic system, the health department also maintains lists of registered soil evaluators (<http://health.mo.gov/living/environment/onsite/ose/>) and onsite wastewater treatment system installers (<http://health.mo.gov/living/environment/onsite/counties/>).

"These professionals can help ensure the renovated or new septic system will function properly for the soil location you have," said Schultheis.

Additional information and publications on home septic systems can be found on the MU Extension website at <http://extension.missouri.edu>.

For more information on this topic contact Schultheis at the Webster County Extension Center in Marshfield by telephone at (417) 859-2044, by email at schultheisr@missouri.edu, or online at <http://extension.missouri.edu/webster..>

Barry County courts send seven to prison in the month of July

• Nathan Alex Bland, 21, of Seligman, entered an Alford plea for receiving stolen property, manufacture of a controlled substance, possession of a controlled substance, and endangering the welfare of a child in the first degree on July 21. Bland was granted a suspended imposition of sentencing and five years of supervised probation.

Bland's first charge originated from November 2012. According to the affidavit of probable cause from the Barry County Sheriff's Office, Bland attempted to sell PT Cruiser that was reported stolen from Green Forest, Ark. Bland admitted that he had stolen the vehicle and dismantled it.

Then, in July 2014, the Seligman Police Department investigated Bland on Main Street. Bland was found to be in possession of methamphetamine, the chemicals to manufacture methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia that was within reach of a minor child living in the home.

Bland is to serve probation until July 21, 2020.

• Jamie Lee Brooks, 26, of Cassville, pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance and endangering the welfare of a child in the first degree on January 21, 2014. Brooks' probation has since been revoked for drug use, and she is to complete the Barry County CRISP program and was granted a suspended imposition of sentence with five years supervised probation.

Brooks was originally charged in February 2012 when the Barry County Sheriff's Office was stopped for expired tags on her vehicle. She was in possession of methamphetamine and a green leafy substance. Brooks was smoking the methamphetamine with the windows rolled up with a child in the car.

• Alexander Calhoun, Jr., of Monett, pled guilty to burglary in the second degree on July 31. Calhoun was sentenced to four years incarceration with the Department of Corrections.

Calhoun was initially arrested in August 2013 when the Monett Police Department investigated a burglary from Noble Finance on East 4th Street. The security footage showed Calhoun breaking the glass door and stealing $100 cash in an envelope that had been slid under the door. During questioning, Calhoun admitted to stealing the money.

• Trevin Dean Carver, 26, of Marionville, pled guilty to tampering with a motor vehicle in the first degree on July 20. Carver was sentenced to four years incarceration with the Department of Corrections.

Carver was arrested in December 2012 when a stolen Chevy S-10 pickup was taken to Triple P Recycling in Monett. The truck had been stolen from Marionville in August of that year.

• Kip Allen Church, of Exeter, pled guilty to non-support with arrears more than 12 monthly payments on July 20. Church was granted a suspended imposition of sentencing with five years unsupervised probation.

In April 2014, Church was found to have arrears of $8,361.41 in child support for his minor child.

Church is to serve probation until July 20, 2020.

• Jason Alex Dubson, II, of Monett, pled guilty to tampering with a motor vehicle in the first degree. Dubson was sentenced to four years incarceration with the Department of Corrections.

Dubson was originally charged in April 2015 when the Missouri State Highway Patrol was investigating a theft from the Butterfield Stage Stop. On March 3, 2015, the driver of a truck that Dubson was riding with entered the store and took a case of beer without paying. When the Highway Patrol found the truck, which had run out of gas, they found the beer inside. There was also methamphetamine inside. The truck had been stolen from Greene County.

• Larry S. Gilbert, 50, of Billings, pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance in October 2013. Gilbert's probation has since been revoked, and he is to serve four years incarceration with the Department of Corrections.

In December 2010, the Cassville Police Department found Gilbert to be in possession of Fentanyl, which he admitted to injecting with syringes he had on him.

• Leah Elizabeth Goist, 26, of Miller, entered an Alford plea for tampering with a motor vehicle and burglary in the first degree. Goist was granted a suspended imposition of sentencing and five years supervised probation. Goist is also to complete the CRISP program and complete 100 hours of community service.

On April 19, 2014, Goist took a cell phone from another person, as well as hitting another person's vehicle with her own. She hit the other car with such force that her car rolled and landed in a ditch beside the road. Goist entered the same victim's home in July 2014 with the intent to assault him, swinging her fist at him and pushing him.

Goist is to serve probation until July 15, 2020.

• Billy Gene Hile, 52, of Monett, pled guilty to distribution of a controlled substance. Hile was sentenced to six years incarceration with the Department of Corrections.

Hile was charged after officers with the Missouri State Highway Patrol responded to County Road in Monett with a narcotics search warrant on March 6, 2015. Hile was found to be in possession of four grams of methamphetamine, small plastic baggies, smoking pipes and digital scales.

• Christopher Eugene Ingle, 39, of Monett, entered an Alford plea to two counts of forgery on July 20. Ingle was granted a suspended execution of a five year incarceration sentence and five years supervised probation.

On September 30, 2014, a fake $100 bill was presented to the Supermercado La Michoacana on East Broadway in Monett to purchase merchandise. Using the license plate of the vehicle the two men were driving, the Monett Police Department found Ingle to be in possession of two counterfeit $100 bills, and admitted to passing the bill at the store. During the investigation, a bill with the same serial number had been passed at La Dureanguena Mexican Supermarket on August 30.

Ingle is to serve probation until July 20, 2020.

• Joshua E. Jacobs, 22, pled guilty to possession of a controlled substance. Jacobs was granted a suspended imposition of sentencing with two years of unsupervised probation.

On July 17, 2014, Jacobs was a passenger in a vehicle stopped for speeding by the Exeter Police Department. When patted down, Jacobs was found to have a hypodermic needle that tested positive for methamphetamine in his sock.

Jacobs is to serve probation until July 21, 2017.

• Shawn Michael Jones, 33, of Cassville, pled guilty to tampering with a motor vehicle in the first degree on July 22. Jones was granted a suspended imposition of sentencing, five years supervised probation, and must complete the CRISP program.

On April 27, 2015, Jones borrowed a 1989 Chevy truck from a victim on Farm Road 2185. After three weeks, Jones had not returned the truck.

Jones is to serve probation until July 22, 2020.

Notice of Public Hearing

A hearing will be held at 6:30 P.M., August 13, 2015, at the Southwest R-V High School Library. At this time, citizens may be heard on the property tax rates proposed to be set by Southwest R-V, a school district located in Barry and McDonald counties. The tax rates are set to produce the revenues, which the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2015 shows to be required from the property tax. Each tax rate is determined by dividing the amount of revenue needed by the current assessed valuation. The result is multiplied by 100 so the tax rate will be expressed in cents per $100 valuation.

How to help kids transition back to the classroom

The dawn of a new school year is an exciting time. Kids may not want to say goodbye to days spent lounging by the pool, but such disappointment is often tempered by the prospect of returning to school with friends.

For parents, getting kids ready for a new school year is about more than updating their wardrobe or organizing carpools with fellow parents. Reacclimating kids to the routine of school after a relaxing summer is a significant undertaking, and the following are a handful of ways for parents to get a head start as the school year draws closer.

- Establish a routine over the last few weeks of summer. Summer vacations typically lack the structure of the school year, and that lack of structure can help kids unwind and make the most of the freedom that summer vacation provides. But as summer starts to wind down, parents can begin to reintroduce some structure into their kids' lives to make the transition back to school go more smoothly. Plan morning activities so kids can readjust to waking up early each day. In addition, serve breakfast, lunch and dinner at the same time you typically serve it during the school year so kids' bodies can begin to readjust as well.

- Take kids along when shopping for school supplies. If you plan to buy your child a new computer or other supplies for the upcoming school year, take him or her along on your shopping trips. Kids who get to choose their supplies might be more excited about returning to school than those youngsters who are given what they need without offering their input.

- Monitor or assign summer reading. Many students are given summer reading lists to keep their minds sharp over the summer and prepare them for upcoming coursework. Parents should monitor kids' progress on such reading lists and even discuss the books with their kids when possible. Read the books along with them if you think it will help engage them. If kids were not assigned summer reading lists at the end of the school year, assign your own books, rewarding kids when they finish a new book. Kids who read throughout the summer may be more likely to start the school year off on the right foot than those who don't crack a book all summer.

- Encourage kids to sign up for extracurricular activities. Many school-aged athletes get a head start on the new school year by trying out for sports teams. Such try-outs often commence a week or two before a school year is scheduled to begin, and this can help kids ease their way back into the school year. But even nonathletes can begin pursuing extracurricular activities before the first school bell of the year rings. Theater programs may begin auditions or encourage interested youngsters to attend orientation meetings before the dawn of the school year, and such sessions can be a great and pressure-free way for kids to ready themselves for a new school year.

The arrival of a new school year can be both exciting and daunting. But parents can help their youngsters readjust to school in various ways after a relaxing summer.

FLAG from FRONT

About a year and a half ago, their shed was broken into, as well. However, the question remains: who would steal the flag that the Center flies each day? The flag, which has little monetary value, is of emotional importance to many. A thief does not stand to gain anything from its acquisition. To an extent, people were just shocked. Cox-Holloway said, “We came in, and the flag was just gone when we got here.”

Cox-Holloway said, “We would love it if someone has information on who did this.”

If you have information about the theft of the Cassville Senior Center’s flag, or information about previous vandalism or burglaries, contact the Cassville Police Department through Central Dispatch at (417) 847-4911.

Washburn man pleads guilty to assaulting man with cerebral palsy

Charlea Mills

A Washburn man pled guilty in court last month for domestic assault in the first degree for assaulting a man with cerebral palsy. Andy Eugene Wentz, 39, was first arrested for the incident, which occurred on Farm Road 2230 near Washburn in Barry County. Wentz was sentenced to seven years of incarceration with the Department of Corrections of which he will serve 120 days of shock time.

According to an affidavit of probable cause by Corporal Kerry Headrick with the Barry County Sheriff’s Department, Wentz attacked two people who lived in the same residence on May 28, 2015. Wentz kicked the man with cerebral palsy on the arm and head when he was seated on the floor.

Wentz

Then Wentz turned his attention to the woman in the home and struck her in the face, causing a cut on her forehead. Wentz turned back to the man, wrestling him to the floor and caused abrasions on his knees.

According to the statement, the man is unable to stand and effectively defend himself. He also received abrasions on his right arm.

Wentz fled the scene before law enforcement officers arrived, and had a criminal history before the incident. Wentz was taken into custody later that evening. His original charges were domestic assault in the first degree and domestic assault in the third degree.

tative and Cassville Assistant Superintendent Jill LeCompte said, “A few years ago, Gail and I talked about how to combine forces, and the Ministerial Alliance was interested, too. So, we went forward.” This year Bright Futures passed out 35 backpacks for kids that weren’t signed up for the fair but showed up on Saturday.

LeCompte added, “Our goal is to make sure kids have everything they need to be successful, and school supplies are a big part of that.”

The carnival atmosphere gets kids excited about the new school year by giving them the help they need, but also adds fun with popcorn, snow cones and a party-like good time that brings families together.

Even with all of the fun to be had at the event each year, at the end of the day, what matters is the sense of security the kids walk away with, knowing that they have what they need for school, and that can be a huge burden lifted off of their parents, too. Reed said, “A lot of people come in and say, ‘I never thought I would be here,’ but all it takes is one thing to happen, like a car accident, for people to get in trouble and need help. It may be just missing those two paychecks that makes the difference.”

She said, “The bottom line is seeing these kids with their backpacks, knowing that they’ll get to start school with all that they needs, that’s what it’s all about.”

Going from a $200 budget to serving almost 200 kids, 166 who signed up in advance and around 30 who showed up the day of the event, shows the ability of a community to step up and do what is needed to support area children in need. Reed said, “It was so much smaller in the beginning, and there wasn’t as much to do. We didn’t have many volunteers or services for them, but by trial and error, we’ve figured out the timing for when we need help and people are willing to do it.”

She added, “A lot of volunteers come out of the woodwork to make this all come together as a success. Freedom Bank employees even come in advance to pack the school supplies.”

What many don’t realize is that the back to school fair each year doesn’t just cater to younger students, it over arches to high school age kids, as well. Reed said, “We have a program called After School Opportunities that talks about what to do after high school. Because we go from kindergarten through 12th grades with this, it was great to see Crowder and Drury come out to talk to kids about what they can achieve after school ends.”

The back to school fair is just one of many programs that OACAC sponsors. The Neighborhood Center helps with everything from utility assistance to life skills classes, weatherization programs and family planning services. Each of the programs is to help encourage individuals and families and help them get on their feet if they are unable to provide what they need. Reed said, “We manage to stay really busy with all of our programs.”

She said that one program even helps kids understand the consequences of their choices and shows potential outcomes for their decisions. She said, “With some kids, they don’t take it seriously. But at the end of the day, when you see that light bulb go on with just one student, it makes a difference. I love it when they come and say that they were thinking about dropping out of school, but after thinking about the consequences, they decided to stay in.”

Reed said, “Part of the excitement of back-to-school time is the fun of the new backpack and supplies, and the thought that some parents can’t provide that just breaks my heart. Every child deserves that. Self-esteem goes a long way with little kids, and everything builds on that.”

She added, “Watching the kids’ faces is just so much fun. There were mommas sitting on the floor with their kids trying on their new shoes because they were just so excited to have them. It was so sweet to see.”

Kids' Fishing Day slated for August 15

Fishing helps kids discover nature. Helping children get hooked on the thrill of fishing will be the focus of Kids' Fishing Day on Aug. 15 at Roaring River State Park. This free event will be held 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC), Missouri Department of Natural Resources and a number of businesses and local organizations.

At Kids' Fishing Day, children age 15 and under will be able to pick up free trout tags at the hatchery office any time the day prior to the event (Aug. 14) or all day on the day of the event. A portion of the park's fishing area will be reserved for the event. Volunteers will be available to assist the young anglers. Children are encouraged to bring their own fishing equipment. Parents are welcome to assist kids, but only one pole may be used between helper and child. Adults are not allowed to fish by themselves. Free hotdogs, chips and soda will be available 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Outdoor education is also part of Kids' Fishing Day. Throughout the day, seminars will be held on fish cleaning, fish cooking, Dutch oven cooking, taxidermy, watersheds, knot tying, fly tying and fly casting, how to fish Roaring River, stream biology and other subjects. A tour of the MDC hatchery at the park will show how trout are raised. A program on Missouri snakes will be given using live specimens. If kids attend three classes, they will be entered into a drawing for prizes. The drawing will be held at 5 p.m. Children must be present to win. Classes are also open to the whole family, but only children may enter the drawings.

Volunteers are needed to help at Roaring River's Kids Fishing Day. Individuals wishing to volunteer do not need to be experienced anglers. If you would like to help out with Kids' Fishing Day or you want to get more information, call Roaring River Hatchery at 417-847-2430 or e-mail paul.spurgeon@mdc.mo.gov

Shell Knob Library patrons celebrate reading with pool time

Many participants from the Summer Reading Program at the Shell Knob Library celebrated the end of the event with a pool party at the Cassville Aquatic Center. The Library had their largest turn out of readers for the program to date this summer.

Funding writing workshop offered

Many organizations think of grants as a solution to all of their resource troubles. But the challenge is how to start, where to go, how to write it.

Mike McIntyre's POWER Proposal process will take the participant from the idea to the proposal, to the implementation and reporting. Participants will learn ways to insure that they say what they need to say.

McIntyre is an experienced development professional with many years proposal writing and program implementation. He has written, received and implemented several million dollars of funding to support a wide range of activities in more than a dozen countries and the US.

The workshop will be held on August 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Village Writing School at 177 Huntsville Road in Eureka Springs, Ark. Cost is $45. For more information and to register, visit www.VillageWritingSchool.com.

Participants should bring an idea for a proposal with them and they will be guided to map their proposal in the workshop.

Teach Them To Fly Right.

Kites are made for wide-open spaces—far away from electric lines. Kids need to understand the serious danger of coming into contact with power lines, and it's up to you to teach them.

Never allow kite-flying in any area where power lines are nearby. Help children understand safe play by showing them where it is and isn't OK to fly, and then watching to make sure they follow the rules.

Extension warns about herbicide drift    Impressive fruit growing in Barry County

New soybean varieties resistant to weedkillers 2,4-D and dicamba are expected to be available to Missouri producers next year, pending regulatory review.

The new varieties offer more options for soybean producers contending with the growing number of weeds resistant to glyphosate and other herbicides. But there's a downside.

Use of these herbicides likely will increase the risk of drift and tank contamination, says Mandy Bish, senior research specialist at the University of Missouri.

"Spray tank contamination, especially with dicamba, is going to be a huge concern," Bish says.

Farmers spraying dicamba or 2,4-D should thoroughly wash spray tanks before using them to treat fields with crops that aren't resistant to those herbicides.

When cleaning spray tanks, the third time is the charm, she told visitors at a recent MU Extension pest management field day at MU's Bradford Research Center in Columbia.

A research team including Bish and MU Extension weed scientist Kevin Bradley found that a triple rinse—water, then ammonia, then water again—minimizes the risk of injuring crops that aren't resistant to dicamba and 2,4-D, she said. Single- and double-rinse cleanings reduced yields.

Check operator manuals and the herbicide labels to learn how to properly rinse and clean sprayers after use, Bish says. Some machinery dealers suggest using commercial tank-cleaning products.

Pay special attention to boom lines in sag areas, she says. Work your way down the boom, checking for plugged nozzles. The last nozzle on the boom is where buildup is worst.

Flush screens carefully. Even small amounts of residue can contaminate lines.

In addition to tank contamination, another concern is the risk of herbicides drifting from their intended targets, Bish says.

The Environmental Protection Agency says up to 70 million pounds of pesticide are wasted to drift each year.

Both 2,4-D and dicamba can cause significant economic loss for ornamental or commercial crop growers. "Good neighbors follow good practices," Bish says.

She advises producers to check wind speed and direction before spraying. MU's weather stations report real-time wind speeds to help figure drift risk. Go to agebb.missouri.edu/weather/stations for weather data.

In general, drift risk lessens when herbicides are applied at wind speeds from 3 to 10 mph. But sometimes what appears to be a good day to spray, due to low wind, is possibly the worst, Bish says.

Temperature inversions, when air near the ground is cooler than the air above, can happen when winds are less than 2-3 mph.

Spray particles hang in the air instead of reaching plants. Dew can prevent spray from being absorbed. "Dicamba and 2,4-D are more volatile than many other herbicides and more prone to move off-target due to temperature inversions," Bish says.

Dew or frost, horizontal smoke patterns, ground fog in low-lying areas and clear skies in the evening indicate possible inversion.

Pesticide applicators and beekeepers can view www.driftwatch.org, an online registry of the locations of sensitive crops.

Using color-coded flags is another method to alert growers to the type of soybean being grown in a field. Each type of soybean is associated with a different color flag.

Be aware of nearby land when spraying, Bish says. Grapes for Missouri's $1.6 billion wine industry are especially susceptible to 2,4-D damage in mid-April when grapes break bud.

To learn more about the potential impact of the off-target movement of 2,4-D and dicamba herbicides, go to weeds.cscience.missouri.edu/extension/pdf/synthetic%20auxins2.pdf.

For more information about controlling drift, the MU Extension publication "Controlling Drift of Crop Protection Materials" (G1886) is available for download at extension.missouri.edu/p/G1886.

Even with the intense rain, that hasn't stopped gardens in Barry County from producing some impressive fruits and vegetables. Vergal Shaw, of Washburn, has a single vine with eight cantaloupes growing on it.

Haven of the Ozarks Pet of the Week

Meet Hope! She is happy, outgoing 1 1/2 year old female Lab mix. Hope just finished raising puppies (nine of them!) and is more than ready to find a home of her own. She is good with other dogs, loves kids, and is fine with cats. Hope is able to jump a chain link fence, so she needs supervised outside time, a tall fence, or a home with some property for exploring. Hope had to raise puppies when she really was only a big pup herself. Now it's time for her to be the center of attention for a change! Please call 417-835-3647 or visit us if you think Hope might be right for your family. She really is a sweetheart!

Crop season could be wettest on record for 121 years

At the end of July, Missouri fell a few raindrops shy of having the wettest May to July on record. Before the final tally of the average, the rain totaled 22.41 inches. The wet record was only 0.14 inch more at 22.55 in 1981.

Pat Guinan, University of Missouri Extension climatologist, says the rainfall total can change. "It could be the wettest on record, as current numbers are preliminary."

It takes a while to receive all rain reports from 200 official reporting stations across the state, said Guinan.

Monthly totals were 7.26 inches in May, 7.31 in June and 7.84 in July. The July rain ranks fourth-wettest going back 121 years.

"The wet year is an anomaly," Guinan says. "It's not just total rain, but the frequency." In three months, the Kansas City weather station reported 48 days with measurable rain. The normal, based on 30 years of records, is 32 days.

Wet weather hit agriculture hard. Crop farmers faced delayed and prevented plantings. Livestock farmers couldn't bale quality hay for winter feed.

"Haymaking was hit hard," says Craig Roberts, MU Extension forage specialist. "Those with management-intensive grazing did well if they matched livestock demand to forage growth. A downside was waterlogged soils."

Frequent cloudy skies affect growing-degree days that drive crop development. Plant photosynthesis depends on sunshine. Water-soaked soils slow root growth and cut usable nitrogen.

"Most unusual was widespread distribution of rain across the state," Guinan told farmers at the annual Crop Injury Clinic at MU Bradford Research Center, Columbia. "There was no drought anywhere."

At the crop clinic, Guinan said El Niño's influence is difficult to discern in Missouri, which is in a transition zone between the northern and southern United States.

Earlier, at the end of regular soybean planting, MU Extension soybean specialist Bill Wiebold said more than 1.3 million acres of the crop remained unplanted in Missouri. The state led the nation in unplanted crop.

On July 27 the Missouri Agricultural Statistics Service reported corn silking fell 28 points behind last year. Soybean blooming was 38 points below last year. The 2014 crop set yield records.

"Not just farming was affected by rain," Guinan said. "Persistent wet conditions create uncomfortable days. High temperatures with high humidity bring heat stress." Guinan noted there were high heat indexes in the summers of 2010 and 2011 as well.

County governments and road districts across the state suffered lost bridges and washed-out culverts. The wet season disrupted construction and transportation, Guinan added.

As state climatologist, Guinan has 24 online real-time Missouri weather stations. Search for "Missouri Mesonet" or go to <http://agebb.missouri.edu/weather/stations/>.
