There is a side of law enforcement that a lot of people don't often think about. There are times that officers have to remove children from their homes for a myriad of reasons. Regardless of how sensitive and caring officers are, it's a traumatic experience for the kids going through it.

A local quilting group teamed up with the Barry County Sheriff's Department to try to give children a bit of comfort during those times. The Ozark Country Quilt Guild recently donated 15 quilts its members made to be placed in Barry County Sheriff's Department cars for kids to take if they have to be placed into child protective services.

Vickie Clancy, president of the Ozark Country Quilt Guild, said the partnership came up through Barry County Sheriff's Gary Davis' Sunday school group. She said, "One of our members is in Sunday school with the sheriff and she asked if they had quilts in their cars for those kids."

At that time, the Sheriff's office did not carry quilts to wrap kids up with and send with them after.

Clancy continued, "So when we talked about it as a guild, we agreed to take it on as one of our donation projects."

The member who suggested it, Molly McKay, is the committee chair for continuing to keep quilts in the cars for Barry County kids. When one quilt is given to a child, the group will provide another to replace it in the future.

The Ozark Country Quilt Guild recently donated 15 quilts to the Barry County Sheriff's Department to put in patrol vehicles. The quilts will be given to children in need in the event they have to be removed from their homes.

Clancy said, "We told the Sheriff to keep in touch with her and if they've given one out, let us know and we'll replace it. It takes time to make them."

This is just one of many different groups the guild works with to give away donation quilts. Each year, they hand out between 50 and 55 quilts to groups throughout southwest Missouri and some in Arkansas. Members of the group

Proposed library tax levy increase postponed another year

Charlea Estes-Jones

After public backlash regarding seeking a property tax levy increase to support the Barry-Lawrence Regional Library, the decision was made to postpone the tax levy increase request until 2019. The library's board voted and unanimously decided to wait until August or November 2019 to ask the public for additional tax money to increase operating funds for the library system.

Much of the controversy surrounding the proposed tax levy increase request, which was slated to go on the August or November ballot of this year, was the board declining an anonymous donor's offer of $3 million for a new Monett Library branch if the board would move the library downtown. Multiple factors led the board to decline the offer, but the public comments led the board to reconsider some of the library's goals before requesting a tax levy increase.

The board first requested a property tax levy increase in April 2016. However, Barry and Lawrence County voters both voted in opposition of the increase with only 41 percent of voters in favor. If the proposed levy had passed, it would have generated an additional $600,000 to run the ten branches.

Prior to the board deciding to ask voters for the levy increase again, the forma-

Cassville woman arrested for burglarizing neighbor

Charlea Estes-Jones

A Cassville woman was jailed after allegedly stealing from her neighbor on July 18. Alixandrea Corie Eisenbraun, 26, of Cassville, is charged with burglary in the second degree and stealing $750 or more.

According to affidavits of probable cause, the Barry County Sheriff's Department responded to a call that a neighbor had burglarized the victim's home. According to the victim's statement, he had returned home to find that multiple items were missing from his home. When he spoke to Eisenbraun to ask if she had seen anyone at his apartment, she opened the door and he saw his possessions in her apartment.

The victim told officers before he could say anything, she said, "I thought you moved out" and slammed the door shut. At that point, the victim warned her he was calling the police and she opened the door and asked if they could work something out.

The victim's stolen items included a Samsung TV worth $100, a pair of jeans worth $39.95, a Superman shirt worth $7.95, a love seat and couch worth $600 and a black table worth $35.

Eisenbraun is still being held in the Barry County jail in lieu of a $15,000 cash, corp surety or 10 percent bond.

Two injured in Eagle Rock crash

Charlea Estes-Jones

Two were injured in a rear-ending crash southeast of Eagle Rock last week. According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol crash report, the crash was on Farm Road 2010 about one and a half miles southeast of Eagle Rock.

Jeremiah A. Kuriatnyk, 39, of Holiday Island, Ark., was driving a 2004 Honda Accord northbound on the farm road when a second vehicle, a 1999 Nissan Altima, driven by Morgan R. Fraine, 21, also of Holiday Island, struck him from the rear.

A passenger in Fraine's car, Angel Alvarado, 18, of Holiday Island, suffered moderate injuries as a result of the crash. He was transported to Washington Regional Medical Center in Fayetteville, Ark. Kuriatnyk suffered minor injuries and was going to seek his own treatment. Fraine had no reported injuries.

All parties were wearing seatbelts at the time of the crash.

The Altima was totalled and towed from the scene by Brice's Towing, of Cassville. The Accord was moderately damaged and driven from the scene.

span throughout Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma, according to Clancy.

She said, "Not every person participates in everything we do, but we do all try to make quilts for those in need."

One of the tenets of membership in the guild is to contribute to the donation drives. Other groups who benefit from the donations include a pregnancy care organization in Aurora and Grandma's House, a children's advocacy center for kids who have experienced trauma and abuse.

They also make a quilt every other year to donate to the Barry County Museum. The quilt is raffled off to raise money for the continuing operation of the museum.

tion of a campaign committee to help evaluate the public's pinion on the ballot initiative. Discussions turned heated following the board's decision to turn down of the anonymous donor's funds for a new branch.

The primary reasons the board gave for not accepting the donor's offer included issues with parking and the location of downtown buildings being in a flood zone and creating unmanageable increases to the library's insurance. The library also already owns property the new Monett branch could conceivably be built on.

The Barry-Lawrence Regional Library also has a policy to not accept donations with contingencies. Donations have to be given in good faith for the library to decide how they will be appropriated.

The board agreed to continue to listen to public opinion and input before requesting a property tax levy increase in 2019.

Charges filed after chase leads to $18K in damage to Barry County patrol vehicles

Charlea Estes-Jones

A Seligman man has been charged with four different criminal counts for a car chase that led to over $18,000 of damage to both Barry County Sheriff's Department and private property in April. Jason Ward Degroff, 37, of Seligman, is charged with felony resisting arrest by fleeing, causing substantial risk of serious injury or death to any person; felony property damage in the first degree; misdemeanor property damage in the second degree; and misdemeanor domestic assault in the fourth degree. Degroff could not be located at the time of the crime as he fled on foot, according to deputies.

According to affidavits of probable cause, Barry County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to a residence on Longview Lane in Seligman for an alleged physical altercation between Degroff and the victim on April 24. The victim suffered minor injuries and was in fear for her safety at the time of the crime.

When officers attempted to stop Degroff, he fled in a vehicle, refusing to stop. As officers pursued Degroff, over $10,000 worth of damage was done to one patrol vehicle and over $8,000 worth of damage was done to a second patrol vehicle. There was also a private fence damaged in the pursuit, netting approximately $189 of repairs.

Officers reported that Degroff fled on foot into woods following the chase and could not be found.

Degroff was arrested on July 26 and is currently being held in the Barry County Jail on a $15,000 cash-only bond.

“And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.” Joshua 24:15.

Joshua gives some important advice in the last part of the verse: “as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.” Joshua made a choice, a choice we all will make, a choice of loyalty. Whether we want to admit it or not, we all must make a spiritual choice in our lives. Jesus demands a decision: “He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathered not with me scattereth.” Luke 11:23. You cannot be neutral, to not decide for Jesus equals deciding against Jesus. How will you decide? Eternity rests upon your answer.

Beebe's Roaring River Waterslide celebrates 40 years as local attraction

Prix Gautney

Wilderness enthusiasts, tourists, and locals alike have enjoyed careening around the corners of Cassville's family-owned Beebe's Roaring River Waterslide every summer for 40 years.

Built in 1978 by Laverne and Shirley Blythe, the slide, which stands perched on the side of an Ozark hill, was originally called "Laverne and Shirley's Mountain." The waterslide changed hands over the years, and the current owners, Jerry and Rita Beebe, are the third couple to own the attraction, having purchased it 25 years ago.

The Beebes have two children, Travis Beebe and Skyler (Beebe) Bowman, and Skyler and her husband, Levi, help operate the waterslide on weekends. "It's very much a family business," said Bowman. "That's the beauty of it." There are five grandchildren who take advantage of sliding every chance they get, and the family hopes they will all join the family business as employees when they are teenagers.

The waterslide is constructed from concrete, and Jerry, aka "the man in the straw hat," sands it by hand and paints it a vibrant blue color every year as part of the necessary maintenance. Once the season is over, he pulls the plug and drains it for the winter.

Not only is Jerry the on-site maintenance man and co-owner, he is also the face everyone remembers. Though the Beebe family has friends who help run the on-site restaurant, Jerry in his signature straw hat tends to be the one person slide fans get to know most. "Rarely is anyone else in the slide booth handing out mats but Jerry," Bowman said.

Despite occasional area tornadoes and severe thunderstorms, the slide has been open every summer since the Beebes have owned it. The waterslide opens yearly from Memorial Day through Labor Day, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week, unless it rains. The attraction offers a small snack shack upstairs where patrons can purchase ice cream, shaved ice, hot dogs, nachos, chicken strips and more during their visit.

Roaring River State Park is just down the hill from the slide, and oftentimes campers, hikers, and fishermen join the tourists and locals for an exciting time at the waterslide. "We bought the slide when I was in fifth grade, and I loved sliding with all the tourists and showing them how to make good trains or how to go faster," said Bowman. "It's even more fun watching our kids do that."

Bowman and her brother have fond memories of the family business, sliding daily for five summers straight before they missed a single day. "We just didn't get tired of it. We wanted to slide so much that Dad said if we wanted to slide during open hours then we had to run up the hill each time...so we did."

Bowman credits her time in the family business with many of the skills she acquired at a young age. She learned to take orders and count back change, and she gained the ability to talk to new people and work with the public. Above all, Bowman learned responsibility and the importance of family.

To celebrate Beebe's Roaring River Waterslide's 40th anniversary, the family has ordered special t-shirts to sell throughout the summer. "We are continually grateful that everyone still shows up each summer," Bowman said. And with a growing family, they are looking forward to another 40 years of entertaining local residents and visitors to the community.

Berryville consignment shop offers a little bit of everything

Charlea Estes-Jones

Sometimes the idea for a business comes as simply as when you're looking for something that isn't there. For two sisters in Berryville, Ark., that's exactly how their business was born.

Sheila Whitley, co-owner of Bucks and Bows Clothing, said, "We went looking for a local consignment store and realized the one we had closed. So we decided we needed to open another."

The sisters set out to open a consignment store that would offer retail and gently-used clothing in infant through adult sizes as well as baby furniture, gifts and other baby items. Over time, their selection expanded with the addition of local vendors' products.

Whitley owns the store with her sister Leanna Clark. The new store has been open less than a year, but in that time, the sisters have found success in connecting with the community. They opened their doors in October 2017.

Clark said when Whiteley suggested opening the store, she was in favor. She said, "It was Sheila's idea, and I bought into it." Clark is also the one who operates Bucks and Bows carries both new and gently used clothing items for all ages.

One of the co-owners, Leanna Clark, runs the store.

back-to-school bargains, Bucks and Bows Clothing is a great place to look. There are good deals at this family-friendly shop that carries something for everyone who visits.

Bucks and Bows Clothing is located at 704 Trinnen Lane in Berryville, on the ball field road. They are open Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. They can be reached at (417) 699-8375. They can also be reached on Facebook.

As manager of the Cassville License Office, Danielle worked for me for 15 years. During that work period she proved to me that she is very capable of doing any task that she is faced with. Danielle was always willing to go way above the call of duty to make sure that customers were well taken care of. I have no doubt that Danielle will work for the best interest and concerns of Barry County citizens.

As the Barry County Collector for the past 15 years, I understand the importance of electing men and women of integrity, character, and conservative Christian beliefs to office. Danielle Still has proven to me with her past work ethic, her honesty and willingness to serve the people of Barry County to be more than qualified to serve as Barry County's Recorder of Deeds.

Shell Knob Eagles donate to Haven of the Ozarks

Shell Knob Eagles Aerie and Auxiliary presented Diane Butler, representing Haven Of The Ozarks, checks in the amount of $2,200 to help offset its recent unplanned expenses. The no-kill animal shelter’s well pump went out and their septic system needs to be replaced.

The expenses will be in the $7,000 range. Haven is staffed by primarily volunteers, and the expenses were crippling.

Volunteers take animals to Petsmart four to five times a month for possible adoption, as well as several other local locations.

The Haven continues to run at full capacity, with a wait list of animals when room opens at the shelter. Recent adoptions have averaged 50 to 60 animals per month thanks to all their hard work.

There is always a need for volunteers to help out at the shelter, as well as monetary, food and supply donations.

The Shell Knob Eagles made the donation hoping to inspire others to help, as well. If you are considering a new pet, please consider adopting from a shelter.

Contact Sherah Farris at (417) 835-3647 for a list of all items needed, as well as times to volunteer.

Children from families whose current income is at or below those shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Applications are available at the school office. To apply, fill out a Free and Reduced Price School Meals Family Application and return it to the school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. A complete application is required as a condition of eligibility. A complete application includes: (1) household income from all sources or Food Stamp/TANF case number, (2) names of all household members, and (3) the signature and last four digits of social security number or indication of no social security number of adult household member signing the application. School officials may verify current income at any time during the school year.

Foster children may be eligible regardless of the income of the household with whom they reside.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for these benefits.

Households will be notified of their children's eligibility status for free or reduced price meals. If any children were not listed on the eligibility notice for families receiving SNAP, TANF or FDPIR, the household should contact the school to have free meal benefits extended to those children.

If any child(ren) was not listed on the eligibility notice, the household should contact the LEA or school to have free meal benefits extended to that child(ren).

Under the provisions of the policy, the Cassville R-IV School District will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the determining official, they may wish to discuss the decision with the hearing official on an informal basis or he/she may make a request either orally or in writing to the Cassville R-IV School District. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the central office where any interested party may review it.

New online Master Gardener training begins in August

REGISTER NOW FOR AUG. 19 START

One of the many rewards of gardening is the satisfaction of sharing your plant knowledge with others, says David Trinklein, state horticulture specialist for University of Missouri Extension.

“The Master Gardener program was initiated to do just that,” he said. “Its motto, ‘helping others learn to grow,’ emphasizes service to others as the program’s main objective.”

In the past, those interested in becoming a Master Gardener had to attend classes for 14 weeks. But many people found it inconvenient to travel to a classroom on a particular day and time, Trinklein said.

“Today, thanks to the internet and a learning platform known as Canvas, classes are available online 24/7. Students work on class material at their own pace and time schedule,” he said.

Trinklein and MU

Extension regional horticulture specialist Sarah Denkler teach the 14 online sessions. “These classes represent a viable option for people who can’t take the weekly classes in person,” Trinklein said.

Classes are delivered as a series of scripted and narrated PowerPoint presentations. Topics include basic botany, soils and plant nutrition, vegetable gardening, fruit production, insects and diseases, landscaping and landscape plants, turf management, and pesticide safety.

Core training is the first step toward Master Gardener certification. Additionally, a minimum of 30 hours of volunteer service is required. Local Master Gardener chapters help online trainees find volunteer opportunities to meet the service requirements.

“There are Master Gardener programs in every state of the union and in most provinces of Canada,” Trinklein said.

Registration deadline for the fall session is Aug. 12. Online classes begin Aug. 19. The course also may be taken for personal enrichment only, with no volunteer requirement, for a higher fee.

For more information or to register, visit extension.missouri.edu/mg.

Help Finding My Father:

My father was in the Air Force and stationed in the Philippines (on Clark Air Force Base) in the mid to late 70's (I was born in 1978).

My mother died when I was very young and all I know of my father is that his name was "Randy West" (possibly "Randal") and he was from Missouri.

After some online searching, I was led to your area and believe he may have been born there or lived there for some time.

I am hoping one of your readers may know of him or his family and can assist me in my search.

Central Crossing Senior Center offering Flexibility and Balance program

Jeff Harp

Central Crossing Senior Center has been offering a program called “Flexibility and Balance” for going on two years now and the lives of the participants are being enhanced in many ways. The program was conceived by our former administrator Sara Patterson and volunteer Karin Stanley. Both recognized that area seniors could benefit from simple exercises and that, by doing so, they could retain or extend their independence. The program was enthusiastically received and continues to be well attended to this day. Sara has moved from the area, but Karin Stanley continues to hold the class Monday through Friday every week for about an hour commencing at 9:30 a.m.

The daily program begins with the participants sitting and stretching, followed by muscle strengthening exercises. Afterwards, those who feel confident in doing so will stand and continue the exercises while those who are less so may remain seated. Either way, there are plenty of benefits enjoyed by the participants. The exercise programs may be printed out and some have shared the program with their doctors who have commented that the program mirrors what they have prescribed for other patients.

Karin’s passion and commitment are evident during the class and even just discussing the program and it’s benefit to those who participate. That passion is contagious and spills over to those who are exercising and it is perhaps another reason the class is so well received and attended. Studies have shown that in addition to improving flexibility and strength, exercise helps to reduce anxiety and depression. So, if you like to laugh, meet fun people, socialize, and feel really good in the mornings, come join us. The class is free and open to all ages. It’s also habit-forming and you’ll be glad you came.

BWI sobriety checkpoint to be conducted at Table Rock Lake

Captain Juan Villanueva, commanding officer of Troop D, Springfield, announces that a BWI sobriety checkpoint will be conducted on Table Rock Lake sometime in August.

According to the most recent 2017 U.S. Coast Guard recreational boating crash statistics, alcohol use is the leading known contributing factor in fatal boating crashes.

Boaters who come across a checkpoint on the water may be stopped. Officers will keep the contact brief with the operator and perform a basic safety check of the boat’s equipment. If the officer suspects the operator to be under the influence of intoxicants and/or drugs, they will be asked to submit to a field sobriety test. All efforts will be made to keep the process as brief as possible. The Missouri State Highway Patrol appreciates the public’s cooperation.

“The Missouri State Highway Patrol remains committed to providing service and protection on both our roadways and waterways,” said Captain Villanueva. “To ensure the safety for all people on the water, boaters should designate a sober operator for their vessel anytime their plans include alcohol.”

Watercraft operators must consider the effect their actions have on others: Share the waterway and use common sense, good judgment, and courtesy to ensure the safety of all. Life jackets save lives. Wear it. Follow Troop D on Twitter for the most current news @MSHPTrooper[D].

CMU announces May 2018 graduates

Over 480 Central Methodist University students graduated in May. The following local students were among the graduates:

- Kelsey Wiseman, from Monett, who studied at CMU's main campus in Fayette and earned a Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training
- Michaela Mitchell, from Seligman, who studied at CMU's main campus in Fayette and earned a Bachelor of Science in Health Care Administration
- Leslie Brown, from Shell Knob, who studied online and earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing.

Since its founding in 1854, CMU has evolved into a university that confers master's, bachelor's and associate's degrees through programming on its main campus in Fayette and through extension sites and online.

Small grain crops seeded this fall replace dry pastures for cow herds

Seeding winter annual small grain offers fall grazing for beef cow herds short on grass and hay.

"Lots of calls are coming in," said Craig Roberts, University of Missouri Extension forage specialist. He offers encouraging words and cautions.

Interest grew as some local USDA Farm Service Agency offices offer added drought disaster assistance.

Drilling wheat, cereal rye or oats can provide forage. Seeded in the fall, the grain crops become annual grass pasture for fall and winter. They supply quick grazing when fall rains return. Wheat and rye also provide more forage early next spring.

Annual grasses give short-term gain but could start long-term pasture renovation.

Thickly seeded grain crops can kill weak existing forages. "If you have a good stand of fescue or alfalfa, don't drill grain seedings on that land. Annual grain crops should be seeded only on weak pastures," Roberts said. "There should be plenty of those this year."

Rob Kallenbach, MU forage specialist, cautioned that he has seeded winter grains into strong stands of fescue in his research. "All failed," he added. "Fescue sod makes strong competition."

Farmers should use caution seeding into an alfalfa field. "The cost of getting alfalfa seeded must be protected. Seed only into weak alfalfa stands that need renovation," Roberts said.

The weekly MU agronomy teleconference covered several forage options. Regional agronomists pose local problems for open discussion. Ideas are shared among regional and state specialists.

This week, specialists talked of small grain to use for forage. Cereal rye remains winter-hardy with quick regrowth next spring. The weaker oats give good fall growth but fade over winter. That leaves land open in spring for planting crops or seeding pastures.

This year needs extra attention to stockpiling fescue pastures for winter grazing, according to specialists.

"If there was ever a year to apply fall nitrogen, this is it," said John Lory, MU Extension soil specialist. "You'll get a big bang for your buck." High-price hay makes grazing forage a cost cutter.

Fall pasture care includes clipping stemmy fescue seed heads to encourage regrowth. In normal years this includes grazing down to 3 inches. However, in drought areas most grass leaves are already too short.

Winter pasture stockpile needs 40 to 50 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer per acre. This should go on by mid-August before fall rains. Most years those rains start Sept. 1.

A field staff member added that fall-applied nitrogen won't be wasted if rains don't come. Fertilizer will still be there for spring growth. Usually spring nitrogen isn't needed. If it doesn't rain, spring forage becomes worth even more.

"All plans for fall grass growth depend on return of rains," Roberts says. "Just assume rains will come. They usually do."

Farmers recall the drought of 2012. An extreme summer drought that year broke when big rains came the first week of September. Remnants of a Gulf Coast hurricane soaked much of the state. That rain restored grasses and made a soybean crop. Droughts do end.

Grazing wasn't the only topic this week. Specialists reported some farmers began baling cornstalks that did not make grain. Drought-stress forages should be tested for high nitrate content. Most county extension offices have refreshed quick-test kits for nitrates.

MU livestock and agronomy specialists can be reached through extension centers in every county.

Don't Lose Crop Profits To Soil Acidity

Low soil ph cuts your fertilizer efficiency by 50% or more. You may be spending $100 an acre for fertilizer and getting only $50 worth of results. ph correction with aglime should be done whenever soil conditions threaten crop production... year in and year out, in good times and bad. There is no input more important than aglime.

Two Cassville singers chosen for All State Show Choir

Locals encouraged to reevaluate tick bite prevention this summer

The choir totaled 72 students from all over Missouri which all auditioned by sending in a video of them singing and dancing. The boys spent four days at the Missouri Choral Directors Association conference in Jefferson City with this choir learning very intense choreography before finally performing for fiends and family.

As the summer season continues, it is important that tick bite prevention remains a part of your summer routine.

To date in 2018, the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS) has recorded 344 cases of spotted fever rickettsioses, including Rocky Mountain spotted fever, 208 cases of ehrlichiosis, 7 cases of Lyme disease, 11 cases of tularemia and 1 case of Heartland virus. There have been no recorded cases of acute Bourbon virus. Overall, 2018 tick-borne illness case counts are slightly behind 2017 reported cases.

“Missouri is a beautiful state, home to gorgeous parks, fantastic hiking trails, national forest lands, pretty lakes, and unfortunately ticks,” said Dr. Randall Williams, DHSS Director. “Symptoms of tick-borne diseases typically begin within two weeks of a bite by an infected tick and for most people include a sudden fever, body aches and headache. Symptoms are often flu-like. If you find an attached tick, remove it promptly. The longer it is attached, the greater the risk of infection.”

To remove ticks:

- Using tweezers, grasp tick near its mouth and as close to your skin as possible.
- Pull tick firmly, straight out, away from skin. Do not jerk or twist the tick.
- Do NOT use alcohol, matches, liquid soap or petroleum jelly to remove a tick.
- Wash your hands and the bite site with soap and water after the tick is removed. Apply an antiseptic to the bite site.

In 1804, Lewis and Clark even made note in their journals about Missouri’s ticks and mosquitos. Back then, they didn’t have the same awareness of the dangers of tick bites as we do today. Today, we know tick bites can transmit disease, which is why DHSS continues to collaborate with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) regarding ticks and the diseases they carry, including emerging diseases such as Heartland and Bourbon viruses. As was published this past Wednesday, July 25, in the New England Journal of Medicine (Tick-borne Diseases – Confronting a Growing Threat), “The burden of tickborne diseases seems likely to continue to grow substantially.”

Ticks may be small pests but their bite can have big consequences. DHSS was notified by the CDC that final results for a recent possible case of Bourbon virus were not indicative of acute Bourbon virus infection. Test results indicated that the individual most likely had ehrlichiosis. It is important to note that scientists and researchers are still learning how Bourbon virus affects the body and how the body responds to exposure. Due to test results, it is possible this individual had a prior infection due to Bourbon virus.

“As with any emerging illness, we still have a lot to learn about Bourbon virus,” said Williams. Missouri continues to monitor tick-borne diseases and request testing through the CDC for emerging diseases such as Heartland virus and Bourbon virus when indicated. Acute Bourbon virus illness has been detected in two Missourians. Since its discovery, Bourbon virus has also been detected in tick populations in Missouri. Ongoing statewide collaborations between DHSS and the CDC, including additional testing this summer, indicate that statewide, five others in Missouri may have been infected with Bourbon virus, but to our knowledge, the infection was not associated with a known illness. Like other tick-borne diseases, not everyone who is bitten by a tick gets infected or gets sick.

“We are able to provide this number at this time because additional testing for this emerging disease has now been conducted on individuals throughout the state, including this summer, providing us and our partners at the CDC confidence that both privacy requirements and public health objectives are met,” said Williams. “With such a new virus, we just don’t know how prevalent the disease is in Missouri or the United States. We do know that Bourbon virus and Heartland virus are present in Missouri ticks, which is why tick bite prevention is so important. We anticipate as the tick season continues, we will continue to test for Bourbon and Heartland viruses.”

In addition to collaborating on testing, DHSS is working with the CDC to better understand the burden of tick-borne illness in Missouri and the United States. DHSS and the CDC will be partnering to conduct enhanced surveillance for rickettsial disease (spotted fever group), to identify hot spots for ehrlichiosis, and to improve diagnostic testing.

DHSS and the CDC also plan to conduct additional surveillance of ticks in Missouri in the near future and will be releasing findings regarding the predicted prevalence of Heartland virus in Northwest Missouri and other vector-borne diseases in animals.

CoxHealth begins system-wide opioid education program

When used properly, opioid medications are an effective and appropriate way to manage pain. However, it's important that patients only use such prescriptions as directed, and fully understand the associated risks, when to stop, what to do with leftover medications when they're no longer needed, and alternative ways to reduce discomfort.

To increase awareness about these topics, CoxHealth recently launched a new education program that provides several different touchpoints to educate patients about opioids. This program currently involves surgical patients, and is utilized across CoxHealth.

“Opioid medications can be a very effective tool when used appropriately, but unfortunately there are situations when they aren't used as they should be,” says Tina Tarter-Hamlet, patient education coordinator at CoxHealth. “Education has always been part of CoxHealth's protocol, but we wanted to give even more information so patients are even more empowered.”

Under the new program, patients are educated several times through printed materials, verbal instruction and video. While encounters vary depending on whether a surgery is outpatient or inpatient, the educational points are generally done during a visit with the surgeon prior to surgery, on the day of surgery, while patients are in the hospital, on their last day in the hospital, and as they are discharged.

Additionally, its areas of focus include:

- How pain is measured
- Adverse effects of opioids
- Alternative methods to control pain, including over-the-counter options
- How to avoid misuse and abuse
- How to properly store and control opioids
- What to do in case of an overdose
- The proper disposal of opioids

“So far, patients have been very receptive to these efforts,” says Tarter-Hamlet. “Hopefully, the program will help raise the level of awareness about these medications, when to use them appropriately, and that they aren't usually the only option for pain relief.”

Barry County Route VV/Little Flat Creek bridge to close week of Aug. 6 for bridge replacement

Barry County Route VV at Little Flat Creek north of McDowell will CLOSE the week of August 6 to allow contractor crews to replace the aging bridge, the Missouri Department of Transportation said.

Route VV at Little Flat Creek could remain closed until mid-December 2018.

While crews are replacing the bridge, drivers must find an alternate route around the project. No formal signed detour is planned. Drivers will have access to driveways and other entrances on either side of the bridge, but will not be able to travel through the work zone.

The new bridge will be 24-feet wide. The existing bridge is 20-feet wide and was built in 1958.

The prime contractor for the project is Hartman and Company of Springfield.

The project completion date is December 15, 2018. The estimated total project cost is $836,000.

The tick-borne disease expertise of DHSS staff in Missouri make Missouri an ideal partner for collaborations with the CDC on these issues.

Missouri has also prepared and distributed health guidance for medical professionals regarding tick-borne illness in Missouri. The health guidance includes information regarding the number of tick-borne illnesses in Missouri, common symptoms to look for, and information regarding testing and diagnosis.

Preventing tick bites will reduce your risk of tick-borne infections such as Bourbon and Heartland viruses, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, ehrlichiosis, tularemia, and Lyme or other tick-borne diseases. Everyone can more safely enjoy the outdoors, whether at home or traveling, by using the following precautions to avoid tick bites.

- Take two-minutes to apply an insect repellent with a minimum of 20% DEET, picaridin, or IR3535 on exposed skin and clothing. Choose a product that lasts several hours whenever you spend time outdoors. DEET products should not be used on infants under two months of age.
- When possible, wear protective clothing (light colored, long sleeved shirts and pants) when outdoors to keep ticks off skin.

- Avoid tick infested areas including brushy areas, tall grasses, wood piles and leaf litter. When hiking, stay near the center of trails to avoid ticks.
- Reduce ticks around your home by keeping lawns mowed short, shrubs and trees trimmed, and remove leaf litter, wood piles, fallen branches, trash and debris from yards.
- People with pets should talk with their veterinarian about use of tick prevention treatments and should regularly check pets for ticks.
- Take two more minutes to check for ticks while outdoors and again after returning from the outdoors. If possible, change clothes and shower soon after spending time outdoors.
- Always check yourself, family, and friends for ticks after spending time outdoors.
- Remove ticks promptly.
