Local student's design selected for chili cook-off logo

Charlea Mills

After the Cassville Chamber of Commerce announced the superhero theme for this year's famous Chili Cook-Off, Chamber Director Mindi Artherton decided to reach out to the schools for a logo design for their promotional materials and event t-shirts. After Cassville High School students had time to complete their designs, the Chili Cook Off committee voted and selected the design created by senior Kelsey Roney.

Artherton originally approached the business teachers at Cassville High, Chelsea Powers and Shelley Henderson, to see if they had students who would be interested in doing the design. Henderson felt that their Advanced Computer Applications would be the best fit. Henderson stated, "We do this kind of thing anyway in this class, but we moved it up to fit with their schedule. The students had ten days to work to submit their final designs."

for the committee to vote on with two students submitting two designs. Of the 11 to choose from, the committee selected Roney's as the best fit for this year's cook-off. Roney said she drew her inspiration from comic books. She said, "Mindi Artherton sent over an idea of what she was looking for, so I took that and knew I wanted to use the Superman symbol, but didn't want it to be any specific superhero." Roney plans to attend College of the Ozarks after she graduates in May.

Purdy Council considers body cameras, sidewalks

Steve Chapman

The Purdy City Council had its regular monthly meeting on Monday, September 8. After a call to order and roll call of council members, the council quickly moved to approve the minutes of the August meeting and voted to pay the city's current bills.

The Council then heard the city's department reports. Ted McIntire gave the report for the Public Works Department. He told the council the city's water efficiency was at 76 percent for August and also spoke to the council regarding the fact that the sidewalks on the side of Highway C end before reaching the railroad crossing on either side. The council voted to extend the sidewalks to the railroad crossing.

The council also heard from Police Chief Jackie Hendrix, who discussed the possible mandate of Purdy Police to wear body cameras as a result of the events in Ferguson. He told the council he would look into securing grant money to cover the expense, and that the expense would need to be figured into the department's budget. Hendrix said he would hold off on purchasing the cameras until they were mandated.

In addition to the cameras, Hendrix discussed with council some altercations that had occurred in August, including an arrest for the theft of transmissions, an intoxicated driver who resisted arrest, and a juvenile who left school without permission and was taken back to school. He also discussed how juvenile cases were handled as opposed to cases involving adults.

The council discussed taking bids on painting the plane in the Purdy City Park, and voted to hold off on having it painted.

The council then went in to executive session to speak with Chris Erisman from Allgeier Martin and Associates regarding the city's sewer system. After executive session, the council adjourned.

Demolition Derby crashes into Cassville

Pictured above, driver Bobby Arms, of Oklahoma, makes a strong hit during the Cassville Rotary Club's annual Demolition Derby Saturday night. Rotary Club president Jon Horner stated, "We had a great turnout this year with over 1,700 people in attendance. It was a very successful event for us."

Cassville Council debates insurance issues

Charlea Mills

At Monday night's Cassville City Council meeting, health insurance premiums were a hot topic with the City's policy up for renewal. Other important topics included changes at the Cassville Municipal Airport and community concern over the city Police Department's sovereign citizen training.

Council members heard from Shawn Mayr, of Connell Insurance, regarding changes for the city's policies. Health insurance is expected to go up significantly because of changes to health insurance requirements. Mayr said that it is possible that this is the last year that the City will be able to stay with their current plan with Anthem Blue Cross because of changing requirements. Mayr stated, "This could be the last year to continue with Anthem, but we won't know until next year when the new regulations come out."

Alderman Terry Heinz was concerned about accepting the insurance quote because he didn't feel the City had gone out for bids properly. Heinz stated, "It's a violation of our policies. We are excluding any insurance agent in Cassville or anyone else from bidding."

Council member Ann Hennigan stated, "This resolution is not related to the insurance agent, it is just whether or not to accept Anthem." After an initial tied vote with Hennigan and Jan Anthony voting in favor of accepting the insurance bid and Heinz and Jerry Marple in opposition, Mayor Bill Shiveley broke the tie with a nay vote.

City Clerk Darelyn Cooper and Deputy City Clerk Jennifer Evans brought it to the council's attention that if they did not accept the bid for insurance, it would cause the employees' insurance to lapse and would require them to pay a double premium from their checks in November. At that point, Heinz made a motion to approve the resolution to accept the insurance bid with an amendment to seek a Request for Qualification from various insurance agencies in the future. The amendment passed with yea votes from Heinz and Marple and nays from Hennigan and Anthony with Shiveley breaking the tie. Finally, the council approved the health insurance resolution with Heinz's amendment.

Two other guests addressed the council members after being introduced by Steve Walkensky, Director of Public Works. Danny Hendricks and Doug Rands of Southwest Missouri Aviation, wanted to meet the council and discuss their plans at the City Airport.

The two men have a flight school as well as a the beginnings of a flight club. Hendricks stated, "A flight club is basically a partnership between 15 people who share two airplanes. They fly at cost and everyone shares in the expenses. It's so much more affordable than owning a plane." The men currently rent a hangar for maintenance at the airport with plans to expand in the future."

Rands stated, "We want to grow our business as the need is there." Hendricks added, "We like Cassville. That's why we're here. We want a slow, small growth. We're not here to change anything, just a slow, incremental growth for people who want to fly. We want to retire here."

The plans to bring the flight club will bring new interest to aviation in Cassville. In the last month, the fuel sales at the airport have nearly doubled, according to Walensky.

Hendricks concluded, "You're about to see a lot of interest come to the airport. We wanted you to know who we are before any rumors start about our plans here."

Finally, the council heard from Tracy Lannum, of Cassville, questioning the decision to host training by the Police Department on sovereign citizens. Lannum began by asking the council how much the city paid for the training. The training event was just over $600, according to Police Chief Dana Kammerlohr.

Lannum stated, "It's a political belief, just like Republicans, Democrats, Socialists... It isn't against the law to have a political belief. I'm a sovereign, are you going to arrest me?"

Lannum went on to comment about the nature of the trainer, former West Mem-

Letter to the Editor

On September 5, 2014, we celebrated "Grandparents Day" with one of our grandchildren at Southwest Elementary School. It was a chance to have "breakfast" with our grandchild, meet the faculty and staff, and tour the classroom.

The personnel at SW School were very friendly, and greeted the children by first name- a wonderful thing that says they are personally interested in their education and well being.

We were not expecting a full fledged breakfast, knowing it was more of a social event. The lunchroom staff were great and enjoyed their interaction with the children and grandparents. The breakfast was well served, a good choice of drinks- juices, milk of several varieties, and cleanliness of the lunchroom.

The teacher of our grandchild was courteous and friendly, showing a genuine interest in her students. The classroom was neat, well organized, and the children were extremely well behaved, also very courteous.

What really brought us to tears was what our grandchild said when we were being served the meal. As we all know, an eight-year old child will speak what they are thinking. As we entered the serving area our grandchild commented "WOW, they are serving the really good food this morning." If what we were served was the really good food I would not like to see the regular food.

The food was good, just not plentiful or filled with the energy foods a child needs. It met the guidelines of the requirements the school is forced to serve. There was a small slice of watermelon- sweet and tasty, a few pieces of cantaloupe - also good. There was also a fresh glazed, donut. The juices and milk selections were fresh and cold.

Give a child a low-energy meal of an insufficient quantity and you get a child that will go home and eat snacks, good and bad, to the extreme. Too full to want to play they will sit down in front of the TV or video game and get obese. A child well fed at mid-day may also eat a snack when the school day is over, but they will not "stuff" themselves into oblivion, and will feel like doing something active. Parents also need to do their part to insure the children are taken care of with proper nutrition - both at school and at home.

Our grandchild, an eight-year old that is slim and healthy, needs more energy than these foods provide. So she fixes her own lunch every morning, not a large meal but a healthy and fulfilling choice of food. It is very sad, although SW School is doing everything as dictated by the bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., that the children who are the future of our country, cannot get a good meal at school.

I can say with some certainty that the multi-millionaires that set the policies in place, that send their children to a private and federally guarded school at taxpayers expense, DO NOT have their children served food of this amount and of low energy producing foods. I also would hazard a guess that they themselves would not eat a meal with only the food value served in the schools, as their ONLY mid-day meal. Just because they are in a position of having to have some kind of a social agenda and dream up these types of regulations doesn't mean we should allow it. It seems that some of them enjoy their dominance of the populace, but taking it out on the children is just WRONG.

The school at SW has their hands tied - either serve what is dictated, YES- DICTATED, or loose the funding for the lunch program. America is too great to have everything dictated to them, yet it seems that this is what is slowly being done.

Just like boiling a live frog - boil it slowly and the frog never knows what has happened until it is too late.

Two Barry County families earn Century Farm Family awards

Charlea Mills

Two Barry County families earned the distinction of Century Farm Families this year in a ceremony by the Missouri Farm Bureau University of Missouri Extension Office and University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources. Two families, the Kaisers and the Washicks, were honored on Thursday night at the Memorial Park pavilion in Cassville.

Each family had 80 qualifying acres of the original land purchased by their family at least 100 years ago. For the Kaisers, of Purdy, their 80 acres were originally purchased by great-grandparents John D. and Aguste Bucholz, German immigrants, on June 3, 1914. Duane and his wife Colleen still run the farm today after hitting the 100 year qualifying mark.

The Washick family, of Pierce City, have 130 years of ownership of the same property. Mike and Jean still use the property for cattle and chicken houses. Mike's great grandfather, John Washick, purchased the land on December 6, 1884. Washick said, "We still have the original log cabin on the farm. I hope some day to give the land to my son John."

Tim Schnakenberg, Agronomy Specialist, Stone County and interim County Program Director for Barry County, said during the opening ceremony, "It's such an accomplishment to have farms with 100 plus years of ownership in the same family. We are honored to have them with us today." According to Schnakenberg, the Extension has kept records of Century Farm Families since 1976, and approximately 8,000 families have been awarded the title since then. This year, the Washicks and Kaisers are part of 232 families accepted by the program for 2014.

To qualify for the distinction, a single family must have owned a farm of at least 40 acres for 100 consecutive years and the land has to be part of the original acquisition and still make a financial contribution to the overall farm income. The line of ownership must come from an original settlers or buyer through children, grandchildren, siblings, and nieces or nephews, including through marriage or adoption.

Galey hopes to pay for college with music

Daniel Galey, a talented local musician, decided to use his natural talents to help pay for his college education by offering CDs for sale.

Steve Chapman

College students finance their educations in various ways. Some earn scholarships or take out student loans. Some work part-time or take on summer jobs to pay their tuition. Daniel Galey hopes to finance his through music.

Galey, 20, was born in Germany to missionary parents. When his family moved to Golden in 2002, Galey's parents homeschooled him. He also studied music during this time, learning to play the piano and the guitar.

When he was 16, Galey began playing with The Texans, a local Christian group, and continued with them for three years. During this time, they encouraged him to record the music he played during their performances. "They wanted me to record my own CD of songs I played including several religious and secular titles, including "Agnus Dei," "Turkish March," "Armed Forces Medley," "How Great is Our God," and "Christmas Medley."

After he completed his high school education, Galey took the ACT and scored high enough to win an academic scholarship. To supplement his scholarship, Galey decided to sell copies of his CD. Currently, he is a sophomore at Cedarville University in Ohio, where he is majoring in music. After he graduates, Galey would like to compose and perform his own music.

The CD is available for purchase in the business office of the First Baptist Church of Cassville. The CDs cost $10 per copy or $15 for two. Interested parties can also order the CD by contacting Daniel via e-mail at danielgaley94@gmail.com or calling (417) 271-3550.

in the show so it would be available for people who wanted them," Galey said.

The result was a self-titled CD with recordings of Galey performing an eclectic collection of songs on the piano,

Iceman fires up Cassville students at assembly

Steve Chapman

"I believe no one is born a winner or a loser. I believe everyone is born a chooser." J. D. Anderson, also known as "The Iceman" for his world record in breaking ice blocks, told the students from Cassville Middle and High Schools during an assembly on Friday.

A native of Noel, Anderson was a contestant on the show "America's Got Talent," where he reached the quarterfinals before being eliminated. He has since appeared on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," "Red or Black" and "The Daily Show with John Stewart." At the assembly, he spoke about the students' power to determine the course of their lives through the choices they make.

Anderson's presentation was a combination of feats of physical strength, humor and positive thinking. He began by calling down a student volunteer, who checked several of the items Anderson would either break or rip apart. Once the student had verified that none of the items were weakened or rigged in any way, Anderson went to work. He demonstrated his strength in several ways, including ripping a license plate in half with his teeth, bending a steel rod, rolling up a frying pan and breaking a Louisville slugger.

After completing the demonstrations, Anderson spoke to the students about making choices and the consequences they could have. He encouraged students to avoid drugs and alcohol, saying, "The coolest students aren't the ones who get drunk or high. The coolest students are the ones who don't drink or do drugs." He told them about a 14 year-old who died of alcohol poisoning after drinking a half-bottle of whiskey over a $5 bet, a young man who signed with the NBA, only to die immediately after snorting cocaine for the first time, and a boy who chose to drive home drunk while transporting two passengers, only to wind up in an accident which killed him and one of the passengers and broke the other passenger's back.

He also reminded the students that they always have value, no matter what they have done or been through in life. To illustrate this point, he borrowed a $20 bill from a student. He then stomped on it, crumpled it, wiped it under his armpit, and sat on it before returning it to the student.

Each time he abused the bill, he pointed out to the students it had lost none of its worth; it was still a $20 bill. After finishing the presentation, Anderson signed autographs for the students.

The Iceman crushes a can of soda, spraying some of the students in the audience at the assembly on Friday.

Students had high praise for Anderson's presentation. Jessica Haney, a junior, said, "I thought he was really cool and I liked what he had to say." Gabe Kirk, a senior, said "I liked the way he pumped up the crowd and got everyone involved. When he crumpled up the $20 bill and it still had the same value, it showed everyone else in the crowd no matter what people say to you or do to you, you're still the same."

For his part, Anderson said he enjoys speaking to students. "I just love motivating the kids," he said, "and I see the impact the message can have on the kids. I've gotten tons of letters from kids on Facebook and tons of handwritten letters and thousands of e-mails saying 'Hey, thanks for coming. You've inspired me to be better in life.' You can't ever put a price on that."

A+ Program funds expected to be cut

Since Cassville High School was certified by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education as an A+ School in April 1999, 472 students qualified for fully-funded tuition and general fees.

The Missouri Department of Higher Education has indicated that full tuition for A+ students during the 2014-2015 academic year will probably not be available due to an anticipated shortfall in state revenue. A reduction in tuition, not to exceed four credit hours during the Spring 2015 semester, has been proposed in order to meet the expenditure restriction for the A+ Program.

Although a positive change in the revenue picture and the actual amount expended for A+ during the 2014 summer and fall semesters may cause the expenditure restriction to be lifted, A+ students should be prepared to pay for four credit hours which would amount to approximately $508 at Crowder College, leaving the Department of Higher Education paying approximately $1,016. A+ students attending Ozark Technical College can expect to pay approximately $614 leaving the Department of Higher Education paying approximately $1,228.

Students have always and will continue to pay for materials and equipment used in specialized areas of study such as nursing, dental hygiene, drafting and design, etc. The Missouri Department of Higher Education assures A+ students that everything is being done to address this situation as equitably and with the least impact on students.

If you have questions, please contact the Missouri Department of Higher Education at (800) 473-6757, option 4, or info@dhe.mo.gov.

Wildcats blank Mustangs 35-0

Lee Stubblefield

The Cassville Wildcats scored on their first two possessions and went on to claim a 35-0 shutout victory over McDonald County on Friday night at Wildcat Stadium. Gabe Kirk, the double-threat quarterback, ran for 133 yards and two touchdowns, and threw for 128 more and a pair of scores as the Wildcats improved to 2-1 on the season.

The Mustangs failed to score against the Wildcat defense for the second time in three years. Friday's 35-0 score was preceded by routs of 45-0 and 45-7 in 2012 and 2013.

Lance Parnell's team controlled the line of scrimmage in the first half and played a "bend but don't break" style to protect the shutout in the second half. A running clock helped limit the Mustangs to just four snaps in the final quarter of play.

McDonald County went three and out on the game's opening possession, and then Chase Jackson punished the Mustangs with a 32-yard scoring dash on Cassville's first play. With Kendal Brannham gone due to a soccer conflict, River Phelps kicked the PAT to give the Wildcats a 7-0 lead with 10:26 on the first-quarter clock.

On the ensuing Mac County possession, a Jake Wood to Damien Monsalvo connection turned into a 36-yard gain to the Cassville 39-yard line. But the Mustangs fumbled the ball on the very next play, and Dylan Klewer returned the gift to the McDonald County 31-yard line.

Five plays later, Kirk burst off right tackle to score from 14 yards out on a fourth-and-6 play. Phelps was wide right with the PAT attempt, but Cassville held a 13-0 lead with 7:01 still remaining in the first quarter.

That score remained until midway through the second quarter. Phelps fair caught a Monsalvo punt at his own 28-yard line, and the Cassville offense went back to work. Five plays later, Kirk underthrew Cade Pendergraft on a fly route, but the senior wideout won a jump ball with the Mustang corner, and then broke away to complete a 56-yard scoring play. Phelps nailed the PAT and the Cassville lead grew to 20-0 with 6:08 left before halftime.

The teams traded possessions, and then the Mustangs pinned inside their own 20-yard line, frantically tried to run out the clock before halftime. But Lance Parnell had guarded his timeouts like a dragon hoards gold, and his careful clock management allowed the Wildcats to take possession just short of midfield with 48 seconds left in the half.

TD catch set up a successful 2-point conversion, and the Wildcats adjourned at half-time with a 28-0 lead.

The Mustangs came to life in the third quarter. The McDonald County defense stiffened and denied a long Cassville possession, recovering a fumble in the shadow of the goal posts. Wood then led the visitors on a long drive from his own 4-yard line inside the Cassville red zone. But the Mustangs came up empty on fourth-and-4 at the 13-yard line, as the Wildcat defense protected the shutout.

Kirk then marched the Cassville offense 87 yards in 15 plays, covering the final two yards with a helicopter spin for the touchdown that pushed the score within a point of the running clock. Phelps split the uprights again to reach the 35-point level with 6:56 to play.

"We talked about being physical, about playing with an attitude," Parnell told his circle of players after the contest. "This is the reward for all the hard work you put in."

The renewed emphasis on physicality showed in the game stats. Cassville running backs combined for 221 yards on 44 carries, and Kirk added 128 yards passing with his 6-of-9, no interceptions, throwing performance.

Chase Jackson ran for 69 yards on 11 carries and a score, and Cade Pendergraft hauled in the two long TD passes to lead the Cassville receiving corps.

McDonald County gained 159 yards on 40 carries, and Wood was limited to 3-for-9 passing for 58 yards.

But even before leaving the field, every Wildcat had the next game squarely in focus. On Friday, September 12, the Lamar Tigers - 3-0 and a 24-6 winner over Monett on Saturday - come to Cassville.

"I like challenges and we've got a big one coming up," said Parnell, referencing the Lamar game.

Kickoff is at 7:00 p.m. on Friday at Wildcat Stadium.

Torjans baseball benefits from fall program

Lee Stubblefield

Fall baseball is back at Southwest. For the third time in school history, the school district has added fall baseball to provide student athletes the opportunity to hone their skills during the off season.

Fall baseball first appeared on the Southwest campus back in 2001, when then-coach Jason Cole pushed to get it added to help revitalize a lagging baseball program. But Cole moved on to Exeter and interest waned.

"My first year here was 2003-04 and we did not have fall baseball," said Southwest Athletic Director and baseball coach Kenny Ferguson. "It was added back for two years in '08-'09 and '09-'10. In those two years we won our first conference title and played in two district championships, winning one which was also our first ever district title in baseball. It was then cut due to budget issues."

But Ferguson and a persistent parent base soldiered on, and eventually the district gained some traction financially and saw fit to reinstitute the fall program.

Ferguson is very pleased with the turn of events.

"The reasons it was added back are really two fold; the budget is in a lot better shape and it evens out our competitive balance a little bit. Most all of our conference and district opponents have fall ball and that really puts us behind competitively. Playing fifteen or so fall games doesn't seem like much but when you add it up over an athlete's four year career, if someone is playing sixty or so more games than you, they have an advantage. I didn't ask for a raise in my stipend or anything if they would just add fall ball back."

Of the other schools in the Ozark 7 Conference, Exeter, Wheaton, and Purdy all play fall baseball. Verona just added baseball and may play next fall, and McAuley plays football.

While not a requirement, Ferguson expects his players to take advantage of the fall opportunity.

"I expect them to play both," said Ferguson. "We use the fall to try things like who can play where, who can pitch, etc. to prepare for our conference and district races in the spring."

While the games don't count toward a team's record in the spring, the coaches from the participating schools still place emphasis on winning those games.

"The games do not count in the conference race and, technically, they aren't supposed to count in district seeding, but they always get brought up when a better team get knocked off in the fall. It's hard to ignore a win," Ferguson pointed out.

The Southwest players have seized the opportunity.

"They are excited, we have wanted this for some time now. The boys really

Barry County Horticulture Fair a success despite weather

Charlea Mills

In the true hard-working spirit of the farmer, a little dreary rain didn't stop the Barry County Horticulture Fair held on Saturday morning at the county courthouse. The fair brought 29 exhibitors with 153 entries for a very successful competition.

This year's fair had entries in all 15 classes ranging from fresh produce and herbs to canned goods and floral arrangements. With hot coffee on, exhibitors stayed warm while two judges from different extension offices judged each of the items, awarding three ribbons in each category as well as Best in Show and Reserve Best in Show.

This year's judges were Nashon Bishop of the Lincoln University Extension and Kelly McGowan of the University of Missouri Extension. The Fair itself was sponsored by the Garden Sass Farmers' Market Association and the Main Street Association. All produce and goods entered had to be grown, gathered or produced in Barry County.

Garden Sass president Steven Burcham stated, "The turnout more than exceeded our expectations. We had more exhibitors and entries than we ever anticipated." Garden Sass plans to have the fair as an annual event.

"The field day is designed to show producers how they can make a little extra money on small acreages on the farm that might not otherwise be used."

For more information, contact Dr. Pennington (penningtonj@lincolnu.edu) or Verna Simkins (simkinsv@missouri.edu) at the Newton County Extension Center, (417) 455-9500. There is no charge for the field day. Advanced registration is requested so speakers know how many handouts to have but registration is not required to attend.

To find the farm from Stella, go one mile north on Hwy O and then right (east) on Redbud Road for one mile.

Exeter principal takes pies in the face for reading

Steve Chapman

During their Character Kids Assembly, a monthly event in which students learn about an important aspect of character, Exeter Elementary students were treated to a special surprise as a reward for their meeting their reading goal over the summer. Tim Jordan, the school principal, came on stage dressed in an Exeter cheerleader's uniform and allowed students to throw pies in his face.

The reading goal was proposed by Sarah Buntin, who was the Title I reading instructor last year and elementary counselor this year. "The goal was 800," Buntin said. "They actually passed that goal and read 962 books."

The students were told that Jordan would do something special during the first Character Kids Assembly if they met their reading goal over the summer, though they were not told at the time what that would be. "Several of the kids came up to me and said, 'You're gonna have to do something, because I read 200 books myself,'" Jordan said.

According to Buntin, the inspiration for motivating the kids to read over the summer came from the Book It! program. "The Book It! program put out ideas for summer reading to encourage kids to read. So I gave the principal a list of choices, and these were some of the ones he was willing to do."

Because the students had met their reading goal, they got to vote on what stunt Jordan would endure during the assembly, but were not told what that would actually be until he came out on stage. Even Jordan himself was in the dark until the last minute. Before the assembly, he said, "I'm not exactly certain what I'm going to do today. I just know that I agreed that, if our students read over 800 books during the summer, I would do something at the first Character Kid assembly."

After Jordan came on stage, he sat in a chair and each of the top three readers of the summer, Jasmine Hall, Emma Sorensen and Josue Alcaraz, got to throw a whipped cream pie in his face.

Josue, a third grader, read 120 books over the summer. Emma, a fourth grader, read 150 books. The top reader was Jasmine, a fourth grader, who read over 200 books. All agreed that throwing pies in Jordan's face was their favorite part of the assembly.

Hospice to host special dementia meeting

Mary Sharp is an internationally respected consultant to caregivers of people who have dementia. Her presentations have been standing-room-only in places like New York City, Dallas, Seattle, and no, southern Missouri. She has inspired caregivers across the US and Canada as well as in Scotland, Ireland and Fiji. She is coming because her good friend and fellow advocate for excellence in elder care, Janet Gard, has arranged (through her company, Hospice Compassus) to sponsor and host this very special meeting. The title of the program is "Making Beautiful Moments."

The two met almost ten years ago when Janet attended a conference where Mary Sharp was the featured speaker. There was an immediate connection, and they have worked together in and around southern Missouri many times.

The presentation is targeted to members of families (and friends) who have a loved one with a form of dementia. Currently, one-third of Americans die of dementia (particularly Alzheimer's disease). That number will increase dramatically in the next 20 years.

Approximately 75 percent of people with dementia are cared for at home. In addition to the emotional pain and physical fatigue of 24/7 care, Sharp says the most debilitating aspect is the frustration of not being able to communicate in usual ways. She explains the importance of what she calls an "AS IS" attitude, not correcting matters of low importance and simple changes in communication that make for visits that are enjoyable.

There are many excellent presentations and reading materials about dementia, especially Alzheimer's disease, on subjects like the biology of the brain (what's happening) and findings from research.

Mary's presentations focus solely on aspects of communication and making life less stressful. Hers is a "been there, done that" reflection of what she learned during the 15 years she cared for her mother and the following 10 years in which she has worked with family and professional caregivers around the world.

Those who have attended similar meetings most often have two comments, "I'm so glad to find a person who really understands," and "I wish others in my family had been here."

This presentation is described as more a discussion of audience concerns than a lecture. It will be live and not a video broadcast. The efforts of many are coming together to make the meeting possible.

The generous sponsorship of Hospice Compassus, means there is no charge to attend. The meeting is scheduled for Friday, September 19, 9:00 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Monett Park South on Hwy 37-60.

It is requested that you call (417) 235-9097 for Monett program if you plan to attend. A handout will be provided and the meeting planners would like to know how many to print.

Tractor Supply to host Pet Appreciation Day

Tractor Supply Co. in Cassville is partnering with Petfinder.com to host pet adoptions on Saturday, September 20 as part of Pet Appreciation Week.

Held September 17 to 21, Pet Appreciation Week or P.A.W. is Tractor Supply's annual event to celebrate pets and introduce families to the joy of owning animals. All Pet Appreciation Week events are open to the public -- and pets -- and will take place at Tractor Supply at 1011 Old Exeter Road. On Saturday, attendees will receive a free Tractor Supply pet food scoop while supplies last and can enter a drawing to win a $200 gift card, a $100 rebate on pet services or a "Doggie Bag" prize pack valued at $35.

"Tractor Supply knows how to be a great partner in raising and caring for pets because our team members are pet owners," said Robin Hensley, manager of the Cassville Tractor Supply store. "From connecting adoptable animals with new owners to helping those families choose between the right food, bedding and kennel, Tractor Supply is a complete one-stop experience that covers all pet needs."

In addition to finding good homes for dogs and cats, Saturday's adoption events will also raise awareness of the importance of spaying and neutering pets and provide information on proper pet care and nutrition.
