Seligman to spend $77K on street repairs

Charlea Mills

The Seligman City Council approved $77,800 in street repairs that will be completed in the spring at their November council meeting. The two roads that will receive much-needed attention are Blockage Village South and Ross Road.

Both streets will be repaired by Hutchens Construction, who won the bid on each of the jobs. The Ross Road bid was $23,000, and Hutchens won the contract out of three bidders. Blockade Village South will be $54,800, and Hutchens won out of five bidders. Both projects will be completed in the spring when the weather warms up.

Ross Road is the least complicated of the projects, a 900 foot section of the road will receive an asphalt overlay. Brian Nichols, City Clerk for Seligman, said that they will also reblade the ditch.

Village Blockade South will be a much bigger endeavor due to how the road was initially constructed. Village Blockade South and north are two manufactured parks. During the early 2000's, the developer turned the blockades over to the city. Nichols said that the roads were not built properly in the first place, and now they have been washed out and need serious repairs.

The Hutchens' bid will mean the roads will be rebuilt and double chipped and sealed. Nichols said that eventually, Village Blockade North will receive the same treatment. However, the council opted to start with Blockade South since almost all of the lots are sold. Blockade South has 17 occupants, while Blockade North only has one.

Nichols said that the repairs had to happen. He said, "We've gone through a lot of cold mix and trying to maintain that road was impossible. They just cut a lot of corners when they built it."

The funding for the road repairs will come out of the City's street account. Currently, Nichols said that the account has $168,000. They budget for around $75,000 coming in each year. The street money comes from 1/2 cent sales tax in the city, around 37 percent of the real estate tax received, and motor fuel tax. In 2013, $36,000 came from the 1/2 cent sales tax, $30,872 came from motor fuel sales, and around $6,600 came from the real estate.

Nichols said that the last major road repair that the City completed was in 2011 when paving work was done on East Roller Ridge.

Festival of Trees slated for Dec. 6, trees on display

Charlea Mills

Members of the community were busy last week getting preparing for the Cassville Main Street Association's Festival of Trees, a fundraiser geared at improving the downtown Cassville area.

The silent auction for decorated trees will take place on December 6, the day of the Cassville Christmas parade, but the trees are displayed at the Towneley building at 805 Main Street until then. The day of the auction, decorated trees will be displayed from noon until 6 p.m. with the auction closing at 5 p.m.

Also, on the day of the auction, the CMSA will have white boards on display showing planned projects for the downtown area as provided by the DREAM Initiative, a group made up of the Missouri Development Finance Board, the Missouri Department of Economic Development, and the Missouri Housing Development Commission. All funds raised will go to fund those upcoming projects. Members of the CMSA board will also be available to answer questions.

In addition to the three trees being sold by silent auction, there are also a variety of miniature trees that have been decorated for OACAC families. The public will be able to vote for their favorite miniature tree with pennies. This event is a preview of a larger Festival of Trees in the works for 2015.

According to Carolyn Bishop, of the CMSA, the project will be much bigger and include events like a story time with Mrs. Claus, car-

Zengotita celebrates 10 years with Mercy

Steve Chapman

Dr. Jaime Zengotita, Mercy Hospital's Chief of Staff, was honored in a ceremony on Thursday, November 20, for 10 years of service with the hospital. Almost 50 of Zengotita's colleagues, patients and friends attended.

Known affectionately at Mercy as "Dr. J. Z.," Zengotita was born in Ponce, Puerto Rico. The son of an accountant and a nurse, he grew up knowing he wanted to be a doctor, a choice he has never second-guessed. "I don't ever see myself doing anything different," he said.

Zengotita did his undergraduate work at the University of Puerto Rico, where he graduated with honors, and then went to medical school at the Ponce School of Medicine, graduating in 1997. He made the decision to go into family medicine while on rotations in medical school because he felt it was where he could help his patients the most.

"It was the first line of contact with patients," Zengotita said. "They treated the whole family: the kids, the parents, the grandparents, etc. And I thought to myself, 'That's what I want to do.'"

After finishing medical school, Zengotita went to Akron, Ohio, to begin a residency in family medicine which he completed in 2000. He remained in Akron for another four years where he worked at a feder-

At the ceremony, Stroemel spoke of meeting Zengotita for the first time. He said he was very impressed with Zengotita and was very pleased when he came to work at Mercy.

In 2004, a friend of Zengotita who worked at Mercy Hospital, Dr. Humberto Hernandez, invited him to come to Cassville to see about a position with the hospital. After visiting, Zengotita and his wife of 20 years, Itza, decided he would accept the job.

Zengotita said their decision was made due to the calling of a higher power. "We prayed about it," he said, "and felt this was where we were being called to come, and we came."

As Mercy's Chief of Staff, Zengotita has many responsibilities, including overseeing the hospital's medical staff and dealing with peer review cases. However, he feels his most important responsibility is quality assurance. His goal is to make sure that Mercy is always providing the highest possible level of care to patients.

Not only does Zengotita serve as chief of staff at Mercy, he is also section chair Mercy's West Region clinics. As such, he oversees the clinics in Cassville, Aurora, Monett, Mt. Vernon, Lockwood and El Dorado Springs. He is also the chair of the medical staff council for Mercy's regional hospitals in Aurora, Cassville, Mountain View, Lebanon and Berryville, Ark.

Community honors teen in tragic wreck

Morgan

Charlea Mills

A tragic accident early Sunday morning brought the end to a beautiful life, but her memory lives on with her family and friends.

Jessica R. Morgan, 17, of Seligman, daughter of Jerry

Morgan and Barbara Morgan, was travelling south two miles north of Washburn when her car ran off the roadway and struck a culvert around 1:35 a.m. early Sunday morning. The teen, although wearing a seatbelt, was seriously injured and had to be life flighted to Mercy Hospital in Springfield. When her family learned of the devastating news that Jessica would not recover, they made the order to do what they knew she would have wanted, donate her organs to save others.

The gravity of the accident hit the Southwest School community hard on Monday morning when classes resumed, and the day was spent remembering Jessica through stories, an assembly and, later, a candlelight vigil in the parkolers, photo ops and crafts in 2015. Bishop said, “We hope to make it a two day event, or possibly even longer for next year. It’ll give other organizations the opportunity to get involved.”

This year, board members and Silver Leaf Benefit Club were the ones who decorated the trees and prepared for the event. The auction trees include a five-foot tree decorated by Silver Leaf, a traditional seven-foot tree done by Allison Angel, and a chartreuse tree designed by Jay Reed and Steven Burcham. All of the miniature trees were decorated by board members and employees from Dan Angel’s CPA office.

MO 112 wreck injures three

A two vehicle collision on Saturday around noon sent three to the hospital with minor to moderate injuries. Photo contributed by Liam Mills.

Three were sent to the hospital on Saturday afternoon after a two vehicle wreck on MO 112 near Roaring River State Park around 12:10 p.m.

The accident occurred when a 1997 Ford Econoline van driven by Carl L. Handshy, 87, of Columbus, Kan., failed to negotiate a curve as he was driving south and slid across the center line. The van then struck a 2004 Dodge 2500 pickup driven by Logan K. Tyler, 25, of Ouray, Col., in the side, knocking both vehicles and a trailer off of the road.

Ouray received moderate injuries and was taken to Cox South Hospital in Springfield. He was not wearing a seatbelt at the time of the crash.

Carl Handshy and his wife, Wilma, 87, Columbus, Kan., were transported to Freeman Hospital in Joplin. Both were wearing their seatbelts. Carl received moderate injuries and Wilma’s injuries were minor.

TEN YEARS from FRONT

Despite having so much responsibility, Zengotita said he loves his job because he gets to work with his patients from the time they are diagnosed until the time they are cured. "It's very fulfilling," he said. Mercy president Doug Stroemel, who gave the opening remarks at Zengotita's ceremony, said such hard work and dedication has earned Zengotita not only the respect and admiration of the hospital staff, but the outlying community as well.

Work leaves Zengotita with little spare time, but when he's home, he likes to spend time with his family. He and Itza have three daughters, Monica, 18, Melanie, 17, and Gabriella, 12. Monica is currently in a pre-med program at Missouri State University in Springfield, while Melanie is also strongly considering going into medicine after she graduates from high school this year. Gabriella, on the other hand, wants to be a veterinarian.

Zengotita is also very active in his church, Seventh Day Adventist in Monett. As first elder, he often delivers sermons to the congregation. Additionally, Zengotita also teaches a class for the church youth.

Future plans for Zengotita include serving at least another 20 years at Mercy in Cassville, after which he said he and his wife would like to travel and see the rest of the United States, maybe other countries as well. For now, though, he is content to remain at Mercy Hospital, where he enjoys working with the patients and staff. "It's a great community, and the people I work with are great people," he said.

From the Editor...

In the year and few months that I've been with the Advertiser, this week is the first time where I've felt truly compelled to write an editorial. I wish the circumstances were better, but I want to share with you, the Barry County citizens, what I experienced this week and over my year here at the paper.

Over the past year, I've formed many friendships with people across the county. I've gotten to know many of the professionals, parents, students and teachers that make Barry County the great place that it is. As part of my job, I've gotten to meet extraordinary people, and many of those have been the students, teachers and faculty at Southwest Schools. To learn of the loss of Jessica Morgan, a senior, from a car crash was one of the hardest things I've had to cover since I've been here, and I'd be lying if I said I'd been able to do with my composure kept.

Like Southwest, my school was very small. I, too, knew most of my graduating class the whole 13 years from kindergarten until graduation. Of the 24 students in my graduating class, 16 were "lifers" as I called them, or kids who I'd been with since that first day of elementary. Thinking back, I remember how, if tragedy struck one of us, it hit us all. It was like an earthquake, and it didn't matter if you knew the person who had lost a parent or a friend, you felt it. You hugged them. You cried. You shared that burden.

So this week, as the school allowed me to go and speak to Jessica's friends and hear their stories, and her family shared with me, one thing stood out to me above everything else: community. The support that the community has for Jessica's family and friends is the beauty in the tragedy. The community, not only in the Southwest School District, but the entire surrounding area, feels that shock.

I've seen people buy someone else's groceries when they've been a bit short at the store. I've seen doors held open at every single shop. I've watched teenagers go out of their way to walk a stranger in need of a steady arm across the street. And now, I've watched the community rally together, light candles, pray and sing to remember the life of a girl taken too soon. These aren't isolated incidents, they are the makings of a community that cares, a community that shares the burden.

Four arrested for drugs, child abuse

On Monday, November 24, Deputy Bill Watkins with the Barry County Sheriff's Office was asked to respond with a Division of Family Services Caseworker to 22157 Kestrel Ct., in Golden for alleged child abuse.

Upon arrival, Deputy Watkins entered the home and met with 35 year old Tara Jo Beck. Also in the home was 41 year old Jerry Beck, 43 year old Benjamin Widhalm and 62 year old Linda Dissette. Deputy Watkins received written consent to search the home by the owner. Deputy Cole arrived to assist Deputy Watkins, and a search of the home revealed a large quantity of alleged methamphetamine with an estimated field weight of more than 50 grams.

Syringes and other forms of drug paraphernalia were also located in the home. Deputy Watkins and Deputy Cole placed all four occupants of the home under arrest. At this time, Tara Jo Beck, Benjamin Widhalm, Jerry Beck and Linda Dis-sette have charges pending for child abuse, endangering the welfare of a child, distribution, delivery, manufacture, produce or possession with intent to distribute, deliver, manufacture or produce a controlled substance. They are in the Barry County Jail on a 24 hour hold awaiting formal charges.

Lorene was born on High Street in Aurora, February 3, 1915, the daughter of James Alexander and Agnes (Ward) Miller. Lorene was one of fewer than ten people still living whose father fought in the Civil War, and the last one in Missouri. She is featured in Volume 11 of the Barry County Museum's Lifetimes of Memories series.

Lorene graduated high school in Aurora in the class of 1932. On December 15, 1932, she married Lester Meadows. He predeceased her on March 7, 1990. Lorene always lived in the Aurora area and was baptized in Honey Creek. She was a member of Elm Branch Christian Church at Aurora.

Lester and Lorene Meadows were longtime residents of Barry County, living on a farm south of Aurora near

Obituaries

IDA "RUTH" HIGGS

Ida "Ruth" (Granger) Higgs, 102, of Cassville passed away Tuesday, November 25, 2014. Ruth was born February 20, 1912, on a farm near Simco, Missouri, to Josie (Gailey) Granger and John Sanford Granger. Most of Ruth's schooling was in Rocky Comfort, but the family moved to Joplin during her senior year, and she graduated from Joplin High School. She attended Northeastern State Teacher's College in Tahlequah, Okla., and taught school in Rocky Comfort. She also worked at Christmans' (Macy's) Department Store in Joplin for 34 years.

On July 1, 1946, she married Larry "Red" Miller, and they resided in Monett. They enjoyed fishing and watching all sports together, local and national, especially football. She was active in Monett's civic affairs, assisted in taking the 1950 census, was a clerk in all the elections, and was treasurer of Larry's Railroad Engineer's Union. Upon Larry's death, she returned to Business College in Joplin, and then she met another red head, Chester "Buck" Higgs. They were married June 2, 1962, and together they ran a cattle farm near Wheaton. Ruth enjoyed being around people and, because of that, she accepted a job at Fanning's Department Store in Cassville and stayed on when it became Smith's Department Store. Her sense of humor and friendliness made her dear to not only the owners and staff but to each customer she assisted. Ruth and Buck were active members of the new Hope Baptist Church near Wheaton, and, because of her love of music, she was the church pianist for decades. She served as election clerk for many elections, was a member of the Wheaton Senior Citizens and assisted in the 1970 census in that area. Ruth often traveled with family and was privileged to experience Colorado and Disney Land, as well as explore Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

She was preceded in death by her father; mother; two brothers, Hubert and Virgil; her husband, Buck, as well as her stepson, Joe Higgs, who she loved like her own son. She is survived by a sister, Ruby Mills, and her husband, Con; a step daughter-in-law, Jackie Higgs; a step daughter, Betty Lamberson; five grandchildren; nine great grandchildren; as well as five nephews and nieces, that Ruth loved as if they were her own children.

Visitation is at 10:00 a.m. Friday, November 28, 2014, in Fohn Funeral Home, Cassville, followed by services at 11:00 a.m. Pastors Charles Stults and Virgil Beck will conduct the services. Burial will be in Maplewood Cemetery, Exeter.

Cassville License office up for bid

The Missouri Office of Administration is now accepting management contract bids for the Cassville License Office. Interested individuals and groups must submit their bids to operate the Cassville License Office by Dec. 19.

A copy of the Request for Proposal (RFP) bidders are required to use to develop their bids can be viewed on the Missouri Office of Administration's website at <http://oa.mo.gov/> starting Nov. 24. Prospective bidders may also tour the Cassville office from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., Dec. 3 to gain perspective on how a license office is operated.

In fiscal year 2014, more than 42,800 transactions were conducted at the Cassville office generating $141,514 in agent processing fees.

The Missouri Department of Revenue oversees 178 license offices which are each operated by independent agents. All of the license offices were put out for bid under the competitive procurement process in 2009. Contracts were awarded for one year with three one year renewal options. The move toward a competitive procurement process of the license offices overhauled the way local motor vehicle and driver license offices are awarded and was one of the first actions of Gov. Jay Nixon's administration.

Bids will be evaluated on areas such as expertise of the personnel proposed, methods proposed for performing the services and whether the individual or entity is a not-for-profit, political subdivision, a Missouri Certified Minority Business Enterprise(MBE), a Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) or a Missouri Service-Disabled Veteran Enterprise.

Cantwell wins Principal award

Ms. Sandra Cantwell, Assistant Principal at Joplin High School, has been selected as the MASSP Assistant Principal of the Year as part of the NASSP Assistant Principal of the Year Program. She was selected based upon the impact she makes in providing collaborative leadership; her involvement in curriculum, instruction and assessment; and in personalizing education for students at Joplin High School.

Ms. Cantwell will be honored by the Missouri Association of Secondary School Principals (MASSP) at their Spring Conference on March 30, 2015, at the Lodge of the Four Seasons in Lake Ozark. Phil Lewis, MASSP Executive Director, said, "The position of assistant principal is a vital member of the school's administrative team who is expected to be everything to everybody. The assistant principal is involved with evaluating teachers as well as working with data to improve curriculum and instruction. Many individuals serve in the role of assistant principal as a career and are dedicated to the students and communities they serve."

Principal Kerry Sachetta praised Ms. Cantwell's focus on encouraging and supporting struggling students emphasizing "... course completion, improved attendance, and reduced behavior issues of the freshmen class has been at the forefront of her daily routine." Dr. Sachetta went on to say, "In the last three years our graduation rate has improved drastically and our improvements can be traced back to Sandra's work with our teachers and students during their freshman year."

Tobin Schultz, a teacher at Joplin High School wrote, "Mrs. Cantwell's ability to partner with administrators, counselors, students, parents, teachers, and staff is exceptional." Mr. Schultz continued, "Her consistent encouragement, support, and praise leads to a high level of trust, enabling her constructive criticism to have a greater impact."

Sandra has worked with the Joplin Area Chamber of Commerce and in particular with Cary Beasley the Workforce Development Manager. The Chamber of Commerce partnered with Joplin High School to develop a freshman orientation event. "Under her (Sandra's) guidance the event has grown into a mentoring/leadership program (Fusion) involving students from freshmen through seniors with activities throughout the school year." Cary also sang her praises about the influence the program has had on students, "The impact on the students and their behaviors and performance in school has been remarkable. The Chamber has been extremely proud to sponsor the Fusion freshmen orientation day over the past three years."

Ms. Cantwell completed her Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education at Ozark Bible Institute and College in 1988, her certification through Missouri State in 1993, obtained her Master's Degree from William Woods University in 2005 and an Educational Specialist from Southwest Baptist University in 2013. Previous experience included serving as a teacher in the Neosho School District from 1992 through 2010 and as an assistant principal at Joplin High School since 2010.

Couponing class helps shoppers save big

Steve Chapman

If spending 30 minutes to an hour planning out your shopping trip would allow you to buy $100 worth of groceries for $40, would you do it? For most people, it would seem like a no-brainer to say yes, but according to coupon enthusiast Lori Thomas, many people don't realize how much money they can save with a little planning before they go to the grocery store.

Thomas held a presentation about couponing on Friday, November 21, at the Purdy branch of the Barry-Lawrence Regional Library. An audience of seven people attended. During the hour-long presentation, Thomas explained to her audience how they could use coupons to save big while shopping.

One tip Thomas gave her audience was to keep a lookout for sales. "The first thing I think about when I hear of a sale is 'I'm going to find a coupon to go with it,'" she said. "If a store is having a great sale and you have a good coupon to go along with that sale, then the amount of money you can save is much larger than using a coupon alone. Finding the great sale is the missing link to fantastic savings."

Thomas also spoke to the audience about her newsletter, Lori's List, and how it could help them find the best deals when they go shopping. Lori's List is a compilation of sales and specials found in stores between Springfield and Joplin that Thomas puts together. Each week, Thomas does research on what stores are offering, and then e-mails a list of the specials to her subscribers.

Armed with this information and their coupons, the subscribers can then go hunting for the best deals. As many stores will match lower prices offered by competitors, the subscribers can use the lists to save money without having to go to multiple locations. Thomas told the audience subscriptions to Lori's List are available for $3 a week or $10 per month ($12.50 for months with five weeks).

In addition to combining coupons with sales, Thomas also spoke about stacking coupons. Stacking coupons, she explained, is using a coupon created by the grocery store in combination with a manufacturer's coupon to get a better discount. Combine that with an offer like buy two, get one free, and there is no telling how much you can save. "With planning, you can buy $100 worth of groceries for $40," Thomas said.

Thomas also told her audience how to locate coupons. One suggestion she made was to hunt the Sunday editions of daily papers and numerous websites, including coupons.com, smartsource.com, lozo.com and wal-mart.com/coupons.

In addition to coupon websites, Thomas said that coupons can also be found at manufacturer's websites, like pillsbury.com, hiland.com and bettycrocker.com. She suggested sending manufacturers e-mails stating that they liked the manufacturers' products and asking for coupons. "They want you to spend your money on their product, so they'll send the coupons to you," she said.

Another tip Thomas suggested was making life easy for the cashier when checking out. She told the audience they should organize their purchases so that the items purchased with coupons or being price matched are separate from those being bought at regular price. Smiling and being nice to the cashier was also recommended.

After the presentation, Thomas answered questions from the audience. One woman asked how many of each coupon she could print from a merchant's website. Thomas told her that she could print two copies of each coupon for every IP address she was using. For example, two from a laptop computer and two from an iPhone.

Before wrapping up her presentation, Thomas stressed the savings to be gained by investing a little bit of time in planning out a shopping trip. "If you don't have to pay full price for groceries, why would you?" she said.

Cassville FBLA hosts Leadership Workshop

The 9th and 10th grade leadership workshop was held on October 17 at the Crowder Community Building. A total of 190 9th and 10th graders attended, along with 23 table leaders, 16 advisers, and two guest speakers. Chris Fenske, from Crowder College, and Lynn Coffey, from Kickapoo High School, led the activities and taught the 9th and 10th graders how to strengthen their leadership skills in all aspects of life.

The day's activities included team building activities such as the human knot, building a pyramid with marshmallows and spaghetti, and a mine field. Each table was led by upperclassmen from various schools that attended the workshop. The day's activities were designed to improve the students communication and leadership skills for the underclassmen so that they can make the most of their high school years.

Cassville Senior Center seeks meals on wheels drivers

The Cassville Senior center is currently seeking volunteer drivers to deliver hot meals to their home bound seniors.

The meals are delivered Monday through Friday and the routes usually take an hour to an hour and a half to complete. All routes can be done with one driver or a driver and a helper. They will reimburse volunteers for their delivery miles.

Currently, there are routes available for delivery on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays with the meals to be picked up between 10:15 and 10:30 a.m.

Senior Center director Adena Cox-Holloway said,

"If you are able to make time for our seniors, you will be rewarded every day in every way by the gratitude and new found friendship of our country's greatest generation."

If you are able to help with delivery or want more information, the senior center is located at 1111 Fair Street in Cassville or call (417) 847-4510.

Letter to the Editor

If our area cemeteries' occupants could talk would they be honored with all the rules a board of people left behind have set forth for relatives and friends to actually uphold? These rules are not the Ten Commandments. What happened to honor and reverence? The remaining relatives and friends deal with the stages of grief (the healing process) in many ways. Some go to the loved one's grave and leave memorials in honor of the deceased, some pray, meditate, cry, laugh, show anger, simply take in the view, etc., and when they come back to the grave, memorials of lights, markers, flowers, etc. have been stolen.

The upkeep of a cemetery is grueling, maybe someone who is paying their debt to society might mow and clean area cemeteries to help off set cemeteries maintenance monies, if money is the issue.

Each person will be held accountable for their actions taken on this earth.

Gravely disappointed,
Judy Davis, Purdy

Locally Arvest provides 3,670 meals in 1 Million Meals campaign

Two months ago, Arvest Bank launched its annual 1 Million Meals initiative to fight hunger in the four-state region the bank serves. The bank announced today that, with the help of customers and communities, it has exceeded the campaign goal by raising a total of 1,806,844 meals in the fight against hunger.

The campaign total of 1,806,844 meals was made possible through donations from the bank, Arvest associates, customers and community members through fundraisers, events and non-perishable food drives in all Arvest branches throughout September and October. With Thanksgiving right around the corner, the success of the campaign comes just in time to help local food partners meet their increased need during the holiday season.

"We are happy that, through the efforts of our associates, customers and members of our community, Arvest Bank was able to provide so many meals to our neighbors in need. We are hopeful that the 1 Million Meals campaign increased hunger awareness in Shell Knob," said Mark Davis, Arvest Community Bank president in Shell Knob. "We will continue to fight hunger long after this year's 1 Million Meals has ended by bringing people together to support those in need in our community. I am proud of our success and look forward to continuing to give back to our community."

In Shell Knob, Arvest partnered with The Alliance of Churches Food Pantry for the campaign. The organization received all local donations and, this year, 3,670 total meals were provided in Shell Knob. All money and food items raised through this campaign directly benefited 59 different organizations feeding local communities in four states: Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The bank's decision to provide one million meals was based on the fact that hunger is an issue in every community it serves. In 2012, one in six American households reported food hardship, or not having adequate funds to provide enough food for their family.

Seligman Shop with a Cop still accepting children

Charlea Mills

The Seligman Shop With a Cop program, slated to take place on Sunday, December 14, is still accepting referrals for children.

Those selected will be taken Christmas shopping with Seligman Police officers to buy gifts at the Cassville Walmart. According to Seligman Police Chief Terry Burgess, they met their fundraising goal, with over $3,000 donated by area businesses, including a $1,000 donation from the new Seligman Walmart Neighborhood Market. Cassville's Walmart has also

Burgess said, "Now we just need to get more kids signed up so that we can help as many as possible this year."

A child can be nominated for the program as long as they live in the city limits of Seligman. So far, around 20 children have applied for the program. Last year, around 15 children were selected for Shop with a Cop. According to Burgess, they will go through the applications and pick the children to go shopping around December 8. Their families will be notified shortly after to have a time scheduled. Burgess said, "I want to get as many applications as we can because if we get more money, we can take more kids."

Programs like Shop with a Cop are conscious efforts to build rapport between law enforcement and the community. Burgess stated, "It builds a bond and a trust between the citizens and the police department. It's important that kids know that we are on their side."

Anyone interested in signing their children up for Shop with a Cop or donating, stop by City Hall, 29144 Main Street, Seligman, or call (417) 662-3600.

Purdy students attend YEP conference

Students from Purdy High School attended the annual Ozarks Youth Empowerment Project (YEP) Conference, held at Drury University in Springfield. More than 150 students from about 20 schools across the region, including the Purdy chapter, which is run through the district's Spanish Club, attended the mid-October conference, which featured a keynote address from Bryan Simpson, owner of Springfield-based 5 Pound Apparel.

Purdy Spanish Club members presented one of the sessions, outlining the organization's community-building efforts. The students also took part in sessions where they learned from one another about fundraising projects, youth-oriented philanthropic efforts, applying for grants and other ways to lead and make an impact in their communities.

The Youth Empowerment Project of the Ozarks is a youth-oriented program of the Community Foundation of the Ozarks and the Rural Schools Partnership. The mission of the Youth Empowerment Project is to empower youth to positively impact their community. This is accomplished through education, service, fundraising, and grantmaking. The Community Foundation of the Ozarks assists a network of 36 Youth Empowerment Project chapters throughout the Missouri Ozarks.

Seligman Police hires third police officer

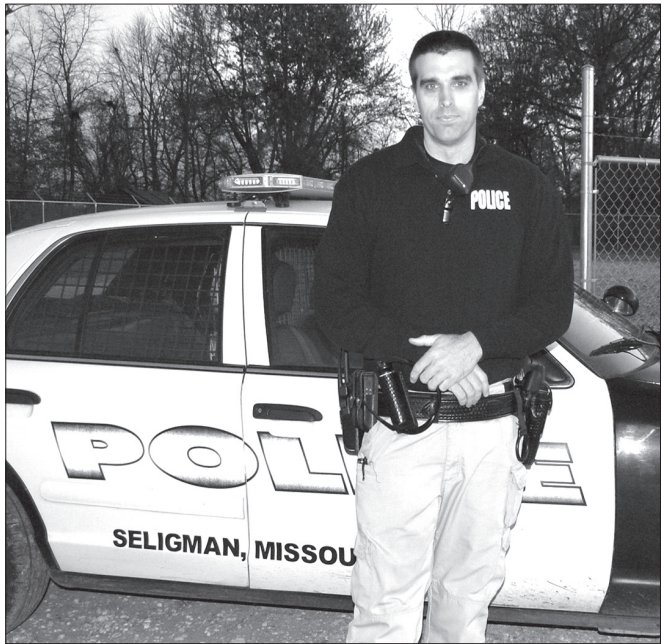

Charlea Mills

A third officer has joined the Seligman Police Department, getting the city closer to Police Chief Terry Burgess' goal of 24-hour coverage. Officer Michael Smith is a rehire with the department, having been an officer there two years ago before he moved.

Burgess said, "Mike's worked down here before, and recently moved back to the area. He worked well for us before, and we're glad to have him back."

Smith attended college in his home state of Wisconsin where he got his undergraduate degree. Then he attended Missouri Southern State University in Joplin for law enforcement. Aside from working for Seligman, he has also worked for the Crane Police Department and as a reserve for the Barry County Sheriff's Department.

Smith said that he is glad to be returning to Seligman. "I really liked working for Seligman before," Smith said. He joins the department's other two part-time officers Joseph Arnold and Morgan Struble, and reserve officer Fernando Seligman Officer Michael Smith rejoined the police department after moving back to the area.

Ortega.

Getting the department to 24-hour coverage has been the goal of Police Chief Terry Burgess since he took the position earlier this year. Burgess said, "Mike is filling our weekend shift."

The transition spearheaded by Burgess to move the department from one full-time officer and a full time police chief to part-time officers and a part-time chief has allowed the city to have more hours covered during the week.

Electric cooperatives employ lineworkers who spend their days and nights working to ensure your power is there when you need it. They climb electric poles or go up in buckets to repair or replace vital equipment at the top of poles. Lineworkers also spend "air time" setting poles and hoisting up power lines and transformers as they build the overhead electric system.

Electric cooperative lineworkers are dedicated to providing members with the most reliable and affordable electricity possible.

Purdy MFA holds annual meeting Nov. 12

Approximately 75 persons attended the 2014 annual meeting of the Purdy MFA Oil Company bulk plant, held November 12 at the Purdy Community Building in Purdy. Bob Barton, MFA Oil Company district sales manager, presented a brief report on the company's 2014 business, stating that MFA Oil has completed its 85th year in business, with total sales of $1.4 billion. MFA Oil plans to retire member equities and pay in cash a percentage of 2014 member earnings, an amount totaling $19.2 million. During 85 years, in business, MFA Oil has returned over $163 million in cash to its member owners.

Other activities during the meeting included a drawing for prizes and lunch. Ten area residents were elected to serve as delegates and alternates for the coming year at Purdy bulk plant. They are: Crutis Schallert, Phil Schad, Francis Washick, Bart Renkoski, Ralph Schallert, Pete Renkoski, David Baker, Ronnie Miller, Richard Mitchell and Allen Carr.

Rural residents urged to understand water quality

What a person does in and around their home can affect water quality below the soil surface and in nearby water sources according to Bob Schultheis, natural resource engineering specialist with University of Missouri Extension.

“Drawing a simple aerial view map of your home will help identify important characteristics, such as soil type, geology, depth to groundwater, and nearness to surface water. The completed map will show the locations of important features and identify activities in and around your home that may pose risks to your health and the environment,” said Schultheis.

Impact of Soil Types

How does soil type affect groundwater? Groundwater is the water below the surface of the earth that, from the water table down, saturates the spaces between soil particles, sand and gravel layers, or fills cracks in underlying bedrock. According to Schultheis, soil particle size influences which pollutants can reach groundwater.

“Clay soils made of small particles, slow the downward movement of water and sometimes impede water movement completely. Sandy soils made of large particles, allow rapid water movement, and silty soils occupy the middle range,” said Schultheis.

Soils made of large particles pose the greatest risk because water seeps downward through them readily without filtering out or decomposing pollutants. The ideal soil is a mix of midsize particles to allow infiltration and tiny particles, like clay or organic matter, to slow water movement and filter pollutants.

“Soils that are less than three feet deep present the highest risks for groundwater contamination,” said Schultheis.

The depth of water tables fluctuate throughout the year but are usually highest in the wet months of spring and late fall. Usually, the water table that is less than 10 feet from the surface presents a higher risk for groundwater contamination.

Water Tests

Tests of water supplies look for an indicator of human or animal waste - coliform bacteria. Coliform bacteria also could come from natural sources such as soil or decaying vegetation. Some coliform bacteria are only present in fecal material; these are called fecal coliforms.

Always collect water samples for bacteria tests in a sterile container. Take a sample from an inside faucet with the aerator removed. Sterilize by flaming the end of the tap with a disposable butane lighter. Run the water for two minutes to clear the water lines. Do not touch or contaminate the inside of the bottle or cap. Carefully open the sample container and hold the outside of the cap. Fill the container to the line to allow mixing and replace the top. Refrigerate the sample and transport it to the testing laboratory within 36 hours (preferably in an ice chest).

“Bacterial contamination is common. More than 40 percent of private water supplies have coliform bacteria contaminated based on recent studies. Spring water supplies are the most frequently contaminated, with more than 70 percent containing coliform bacteria,” said Schultheis.

If the water is contaminated, boil the water; it is extremely effective as a disinfectant. Vigorous boiling for three minutes kills bacteria, including disease-causing organisms and giardia cysts.

SSS Student Spotlight: Heather Carroll

Carroll

Heather Carroll, first started attending classes at Crowder College in Cassville in August 2010, and then joined Student Support Services (SSS) the following semester in the spring of 2011. When asked why she chose Crowder, she said it was an easy choice to make because of how welcome the ladies in the front office made her feel.

Being a student who is very conscientious of her grades, Carroll's biggest challenge through college has been realizing that getting a B is actually okay. She said, "I do not have to be completely perfect to excel at what I want in life."

Jerri Hudson, her advisor in SSS, said, "I love it when Heather comes into my office. She always makes me laugh. She really is a perfectionist about her grades, but I think she is finally realizing she does not have to be perfect to achieve excellence."

Having a near perfect GPA, some wouldn't realize how much outside work Carroll has been busy doing. She has done volunteer work at an elementary school, she plays a huge role in running the office at her husband's construction business, helps take care of an elderly woman, and, last but not least, is the mother of four children.

Carroll is graduating in December 2014 with an Associate of Arts Degree in General Studies and plans to continue to be very involved in the home-based business.

"Being a student at Crowder was the most enjoyable and exciting adventure I have taken in my life," stated Carroll.
