Eagle Rock brothers charged in kidnapping and burglary

Michael Miller

Mathew Miller

Charlea Mills

The two brothers sought for the kidnapping and robbery of a Washburn woman are both in custody facing charges.

Mathew Jeffrey Miller, of Eagle Rock, was taken into custody around 11 a.m. on Wednesday, January 8, for the crime that left a Washburn woman injured and burglarized. Mathew's brother Michael Jeffrey Miller was taken into custody by the Allegheny County Sheriff's Office, outside of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. According to Sheriff Mick Epperly, Mathew was the passenger in the car while Michael was the driver during the kidnapping and robbery of the 47-year-old woman.

Michael and Mathew Miller lived in the Eagle Rock area and advertised as supposed handymen under the business name The Brothers' Handyman Service. Their business cards and ads claimed that they specialized in roofing but also did general labor and house cleaning, among other services.

When Sheriff Epperly was asked if their handyman service was related to the abduction, he replied, "That's a big part of it."

The brothers have been charged with a class C felony felonious restraint, class C felony of tampering of a motor vehicle in the first degree, misdemeanor assault in the third degree, and fraudulent use of a credit device in Barry County. McDonald County has also charged them with class C felony kidnapping, class B felony burglary, and class A felony tampering with a motor vehicle.

The Miller brothers allegedly arrived at the victim's house on foot on Friday, January 3, around noon. The two men demanded her money, medications and car, eventually throwing her into the trunk of her 2011 Chevrolet Malibu and driving off.

The men attempted to make a withdrawal from her Arvest account in Cassville unsuccessfully before making a successful transaction at First State Bank.

The brothers then allegedly took the woman out of the trunk, struck her in the face and head, and threw her down a hill on Farm Road 1180 in Eagle Rock.

The victim had to walk about a mile barefoot to find help and contact authorities.

The victim's car was found partially submerged in the Roaring River arm of Table Rock Lake. Sheriff Epperly believes that the men were picked up there by Michael's girlfriend, a woman from Pennsylvania, in a white panel van with Pennsylvania plates.

The three then withdrew more money from ATMs in Berryville, Arkansas, taking a total of $1,125.00 from the victim.

The Sheriff's Department originally thought that the FBI would need to be involved because she was taken over the state line into Ar-

Chamber banquet brings laughter, honors members

Jarrett Dougherty, as his alter ego Pastor Brother Cecil Watkins, provided plenty of comedic relief during the banquet.

Charlea Mills

The Cassville Area Chamber's annual banquet brought a healthy dose of laughter to over 160 people in attendance this year. The banquet was held on Saturday, January 11, and featured headlining comedian Jarrett Dougherty from the Pierce Arrow Theatre in Branson.

Each year, the banquet honors those who have stepped up in the Cassville community to make the city a better place, including beautification awards and volunteer of the year recognition.

Outgoing Chamber president Dusty Reid presented community awards to Valerie and Keith Speer for the renovation and opening of their new shop location for Forever Yours Embroidery, located on Main Street downtown. The other beautification went to Cassville R-IV School District for their completion of the FEMA shelter and event center.

Reid presented the award to Superintendent Richard Asbill, noting to the crowd that the overall project cost $2.5 million, with $1.5 million of that from a FEMA grant. The district pitched in extra funds to make the building multipurpose, and it has already been used for community events like the annual Show, public hearings and school programs.

This year, a special thank you was given to Bob and Carolyn Bishop for their tireless efforts within the community. Bob retired at the end of 2013, having served the Cassville community as a State Farm agent for 37 years. Bob and Carolyn have also supported community events, the Chamber, the Booster Club and their church. Bob served as Chamber president at one time, and Carolyn is currently head of the Downtown Main

Tensions run high at wastewater hearing

Charlea Mills

A public hearing turned heated as the Barry County Health Department (BCHD) fielded questions and comments regarding a proposed change to the wastewater ordinance on Thursday, January 9.

The meeting began at 7 p.m. at the FEMA shelter and event center at Cassville Schools with around 75 people in attendance to hear the Health Department's reasoning behind a change planned for 2014 regarding septic systems in the county. If the ordinance changes, property would need to have a third-party inspection of their septic system when they sell their house.

Kimberly Scritchfield, with the BCHD's environmental services, presented a slideshow to explain the importance of functional, non-leaking septic systems. She explained that Barry County is primarily karst topography, meaning the limestone results in numerous caves and sinkholes. That is an important factor when dealing with wastewater.

Scritchfield stated, "Because of all of the holes and tunnels, water recharges much faster in karst topography." In simple terms, a leaking septic system could feed directly into groundwater or the lake, leading to an increase in illness and disease if not caught.

Scritchfield went on, "If a septic system is installed near a sinkhole or cave, that water receives practically no treatment and all of the pathogens are dispersed in the lakes, springs or wells." The treatment she referred to is the way soil can help filter out pathogens as the water trickles back down into the groundwater during the water cycle. Barry County has 169 caves and 89 reported with many more unreported.

Scritchfield gave examples that ranged over the last 40 years regarding groundwater contamination by septic systems leading to serious illness and disease, including a case from Barry County in 2012 when a little girl became ill with E.coli from a failing septic system at the home.

A large crowd turned out to ask questions and make comments about the proposed change to the wastewater ordinance on books in Barry County.

Jan Cox, also with environmental services, addressed the proposed ordinance itself and how it could improve the health and safety of residents within the county. Cox stated, "The goal is to clean up some of the failing septic systems in the county and promote public health."

Cox went on to discuss the specifics of the proposed addition to the Wastewater Ordinance regarding on-site wastewater treatment systems. The new ordinance would require that properties have their septic systems inspected by a third party prior to the sale to another party. If a system was installed in the last ten years and had a permit, they would be exempt from the ordinance along with a few other situations, such as a transfer on death or inheritance of a property.

The ordinance change would only affect the sale of property and would stay on file for four years after its issuance.

Community members mostly showed up to voice their concerns about the proposed reform. Sharon Ott-Deal, realtor from Shell Knob, raised her concerns over the property transfer in the case of inheritance or from one family member to another as opposed to sale.

Roger Brock, BCHD administrator, assured that those types of transfers would be exempt from the inspection. Ott-Deal also asked about the turnaround of the permit paperwork, concerned that it could affect or delay home sales. Cox assured that the turnaround would be no more than five days as long as all of the paperwork was filled out correctly.

kansas but discovered that they released the victim prior to going to Berryville. Epperly stated, "They are lucky that they didn't cross over that line because that would have been one more charge on the list."

Michael Miller is being held pending extradition back to Barry County in the Allegheny, PA County Jail. It was originally thought that there were pending felony assault charges in Allegheny County, but authorities with the department stated that he is only being held for his warrants in Barry and McDonald Counties. It is possible that charges will be filed against him at a later date.

Sheriff Epperly confirmed that they have identified Michael's girlfriend, but there is not currently a warrant out for her arrest for her connection with the case.

Curtis Marbut, Barry County's Most Famous Son

The lifelong correspondence between Louise and her father gives an insight into his life not possible through his published works alone. The family moved to Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1893 so that Marbut could enroll as a graduate student in geology at Harvard University. Although his major professor and adviser was the eminent pioneer geographer and geomorphologist William Morris Davis, Marbut revealed in his correspondence to Louise that Nathaniel Southgate Shaler, a pioneer geographer and agricultural geologist, was his academic and professional inspiration to study soils.

Just prior to and during Marbut's tenure at Harvard, Shaler had become highly regarded for his publications on soils and natural resources conservation. Shaler was a compelling lecturer who promoted the education of the whole student: mentally, physically, and spiritually.

You have become an adult who we like as well as love, whose advice we value, whose company we relish, who makes us laugh more deeply than anyone we know.

And that has been the purpose all along, no! Not just the first 18 years but everything that comes after. Not only the hands-on part, but the letting go. When we look at you we will always see the past, present and future. The baby that you were, yes. But also the wonder that you now are, and the extraordinary man you will continue to become.

Marbut received an MA in 1894 under Davis. In 1895, he completed the residence requirements for the PhD and returned with his family to the UMC with a faculty appointment. Although he finished and published his PhD dissertation in 1896 with Davis' approval, he never returned to Harvard for his oral defense exam and the PhD was never awarded. Marbut served the UMC Geology Department as instructor (1895-1897), assistant professor (1897-1900), and professor (1900-1910), and was simultaneously appointed assistant geologist in the Missouri Geological Survey until 1904. His PhD dissertation Physical Features of Missouri, published in 1896 by the Missouri Geological Survey, was a pioneering study in physiography and surface hydrology. While at the UMC, Marbut published numerous studies, including: erosional remnants Crowley's Ridge, Cote Sans Dessein, and Grand Tower (1898); coal stratigraphy of areas of northern Missouri (1898); the lowlands of Southeastern Missouri (1902); the geology of Morgan County, Missouri (1908); and the soils of the Ozark region (1910).

In 1904, Marbut and Agriculture College Dean Henry J. Waters collaborated on a large-scale plaster physiographic map of Missouri that won a gold medal at the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St Louis. In addition, Marbut and Waters coauthored the first attempt at a general soil map of Missouri that, together with two geological maps and a chapter on geology and physiography by Marbut, were published in the Exposition's volume, The State of Missouri. The following year, due to the influence of Waters and Cyril G. Hopkins of the University of Illinois, the University of Missouri Board of Curators organized the Missouri state soil survey and named Marbut as director. For the next five years, Marbut oversaw and contributed to the preparation and publication of individual county soil surveys. Thus began a lifelong interdisciplinary collaboration between Marbut and UMC faculty members Merritt Finley (known as M.F.) Miller of the Agronomy Department and Homer L. Schantz of the Botany Department.

Charlea Mills

One man is in custody facing an assault charge after a stabbing at 335 W. Pine Street in Monett.

The victim, Craig Knight, age 43, claims that a man he did not know knocked on his front door. When Knight answered, the man, later identified as Hank Winsea, age 45, of Purdy, stabbed him in the stomach and then ran away.

Knight had to be transported via helicopter to a Springfield hospital to be treated for non-life-threatening injuries, according to the Monett Police Department.

Police identified Winsea after witnesses described a man wearing a tan coat running away from the home where the stabbing occurred. When police questioned Winsea, he was wearing a sheath-style knife on his hip, according to the affidavit of probable cause. Winsea was arrested at 207 Fairway in Monett. Witnesses told police that he lives in that home as well as in Purdy.

Winsea is being held in the Barry County Jail in lieu of a $75,000 bond. He has been charged with class B felony assault in the first degree.

Street Initiative working to promote and beautify downtown Cassville.

Outgoing Chamber president Dusty Reid was also presented a plaque for his service to the Chamber in the last year. As Reid turned the reins over to 2014's Chamber President Kelly Mills, of Freedom Bank, the crowd was introduced to the keynote speaker, a change in theme from previous years.

Mills commented that while other years' speakers brought more serious messages to the banquet, he wanted to start the 2014 year in a more lighthearted manner with keynote speaker comedian Jarrett Dougherty.

Dougherty, using his alter ego Brother Cecil Watkins, delivered laughter to the point of tears for many in attendance with material ranging from mother-in-law and wife to the more abundant religion-centered theme. The vivacious faux-pastor made the crowd roar at the family-friendly comedy. Dougherty is an Ava native comedian who headlines at the Pierce Arrow Theatre in Branson. Dougherty did end the night with a somewhat serious note, telling the audience the importance of laughter to everyone.

Following the event, Mills stated, "Overall, I am very pleased with how the banquet went. Accents and Tents transformed the commons area into a very nice banquet room, John and Janet Sullivan did an excellent job with the food, and Jarrett Dougherty was hilarious. As the president elect, I am looking forward to working with the area business owners, community members and board members on the Cassville Chamber."

At the end of the evening, Reid presented the volunteer of the year award to Annette Henderson, noting that she is always volunteering or helping with any events in the community from the Chili Cook-Off to the Hillbilly Golf Tournament. Henderson also serves on the Industrial Development Committee board and has served on the Cassville School Board. Reid commented, "Annette is always ready and willing to lend a helping hand with community-minded endeavors. She always goes above and beyond."

The Cassville Chamber said its goodbyes to board members Landon Fletcher, Caleb Buntin and Justin Gates, as well as president Dusty Reid. Mindi Artherton, Chamber director, stated, "Dusty was a fantastic Chamber president. We could not have asked for a better leader in 2013. His enthusiasm for our area is contagious, and he was excited to try new things that would benefit our membership. We are very lucky to have Dusty's leadership skills in our chamber and at Roaring River State Park."

When giving his goodbyes, Reid stated, "It has been a pleasure to serve as the president of the Cassville Area Chamber of Commerce during 2013. Meeting new people and helping with all the special events has really been a rewarding experience and something I would encourage more people to volunteer for. I personally feel the Chamber provides a great service for our community and the local businesses. The community is blessed to have such a hard working board of directors and to have Mindi Artherton as the Director."

Going into 2014, the Chamber Officers will be Kelly Mills, president; Michelle Bredeson, vice president; Melanie Stringer, treasurer; and Mindi Artherton, director.

WASTEWATER from 3A.

Many were concerned with the cost of the inspection, but also the cost of replacing a failing system if it were not to pass. Daniel Schaefer, an inspector from Shell Knob, stated that his inspection runs from $175-250, not out of line with other inspection costs during the sale of a property.

David Casaletto, the president of Ozarks Water Watch, offered some relief regarding replacing septic systems in the area. Casaletto stated that 2/3 of Barry County is located in the upper White River Basin, an area that allows for grants to replace septic tanks. His nonprofit organization can provide a grant for 49 percent of the replacement of a system, plus an additional 49 percent of the loan at zero interest if one meets income guidelines.

Even armed with information about grants, it still did not put the group as a whole at ease. Many were concerned with the government overstepping their boundaries by regulating or requiring inspections. A few voiced opinions that inspections should remain voluntary.

A primary concern over the voluntary system currently in place is that people can purchase a home without realizing that the septic system is failing. Brock stated, "Septic systems don't last forever. Period."

Brock emphasized how important community feedback is to the process of the Health Board making a decision in this matter. He stated, "If you have positive comments on how to improve this, or how to make this policy better, we would love to hear that."

Some from the crowd wanted to call for a ballot measure for a public vote. However, Brock stated, "It is not something we have to have a vote on, it is an addition to the ordinance already on file. It's not beyond our scope because we already regulate waste water treatment systems, but this is not decided. We want to hear the public's opinion before we make a decision."

If the wastewater ordinance change goes through, the county hopes to have it in place by January 1, 2015, at the latest. The whole ordinance will be available to view on the Barry County Health Department's website at barrycountyhealth.org in coming weeks.

Wheaton murder case in high court

Charlea Mills

Christopher Collings, the man convicted of the 2007 rape and murder of nine-year-old Rowan Ford at Wheaton is appealing his death penalty sentence on claims that his statements made in a video tape confession were not voluntary.

The Missouri Supreme Court heard arguments on Wednesday, January 8, for the appeal of his death penalty sentence and an assessment of life without parole instead.

Ford was abducted from her home near Stella late at night in November 2007. Her body was found a week later in the bottom of a cave in McDonald County. There was evidence that she had been raped and strangled.

David Spears, 31, the girl's stepfather, was also charged in the murder. After Collings was convicted, Barry County Prosecuting Attorney Johnnie Cox allowed Spears to plea guilty to a lesser charge of child endangerment in which he was sentenced to 11 years in prison. The two men had conflicting confessions, and Collings always insisted that Spears was not involved in the crime.

Collings admitted to officers that he took the girl from her home to his mobile home, raped her and then strangled her with a piece of cord from his truck when she recognized him after the sexual assault. Collings stated that he had attempted to commit the rape in the dark and without her knowing his identity.

An attorney with the Office of the State Public Defender stated that Collings did not understand his Miranda Rights. The attorney also argued that the trial court should have admitted a video-tape of Collings and Wheaton Chief of Police Clint Clark which showed that he was pressured to give up his constitutional rights and continue to talk to investigators.

Appeal paperwork also argues that the prosecution did not prove that he had coolly reflected before killing her, a necessary aspect of a first-degree conviction. Other accusations include the collection of evidence from his property that was admitted into court in a speculative, misleading and prejudicial manner, like a piece of cord that was unrelated to the murder.

Attorney General Chris Koster and assistant Richard Starnes submitted paperwork to the high courts stating that Collings was aware of his actions prior to the rape and murder, even taking a different road to beat Spears home after they had been out drinking so that he could have time to take the girl before Spears arrived.

The medical examiner who testified in the trial stated that Collings would have had to strangle Ford for two to three minutes to kill her, the state argued that allowed plenty of time for Collings to reflect on his actions. The state also argued that Collings was read his Miranda Rights before every conversation with Chief Clark.

Also in the paperwork filed by the state is argument that the disposal of evidence by dumping the girls' body in a remote location as well as burning his mattress and her clothes "supports a reasonable inference of deliberation."

Cr-ose's new location a welcome change

Samantha Barberio

Cr-ose Cafe has made a large impact on Cassville with its recent move from Washburn. The restaurant has been serving people in Barry County since its opening day seven and a half years ago. It is owned by Laveta and Stu Crow, who came up with the name by combining their last names together. Laveta's last name, which was previously Rose, and Stu's name, Crow, in order to get Cr-ose Cafe.

"I do anything to help Laveta out with the restaurant. I work cattle for my job but I've done everything to help out around here except cook," stated Stu.

Many people know Cr-ose for its exceptional and heartly meals, such as cinnamon rolls, the chicken fried chicken dinner and burgers. "This is the kind of food we grew up with, just home cooking," stated Laveta. "Everything is hand breaded and made. Steaks are cut fresh, we tenderize it ourself. It takes awhile to home cook the food, there's no pre-made items."

In fact, the recipes for Cr-ose Cafe all originated from family cooking, "All we did is take the recipes from small portions into much larger ones," stated Laveta.

Cr-ose Cafe made the big move from Washburn to Cassville after more than seven years. "It was a tough decision. Washburn was always really good to us," stated

Laveta. However, she also explained about the move, "We were asked several times to move, and eventually the opportunity to rent this building came up."

The new building is 5,000 square feet, around four times bigger than the previous location. The Washburn site could seat 48, while the Cassville site seats 78 with a banquet room seating 45.

Cr-ose Cafe isn't just about the business for the Crows, "Seeing the people enjoy the food is my favorite part of owning the restaurant, and receiving compliments on it," stated Laveta. "We've been consistently busy, the outcome of people supporting us is just great. Several people from Washburn have been visiting, and the people come from all directions."

"It's been a learning process for all of us. The employees we have are really good and important to us. We've been learning to work together. With the size change of the restaurant, we couldn't do it without them," stated Laveta and Stu. With the popularity of the restaurant and the seating increase, it's become a challenge to cook everything in a timely manner. "We are so appreciative of everyone who has come out and supported us. We are sorry for the wait, but we hope the food is worth it," stated Laveta regarding the longer than normal order time.

Cr-ose Cafe is open from Monday thorough Saturday from 6:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m., and Sunday from 7:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. Take out orders are also offered. It is located at 1013 Main Street, next to JumpStop. For more information, call (417) 847-1010.

Drive Sober results

The Cassville Police Department's participation in the nation's annual "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" drunk driving crackdown was a major success for the officers. The Cassville Police Department reported two drunk driving arrests and three citations were issued during the enforcement period, which ran from December 13, 2013, through January 2, 2014.

"I am proud of our officers for their hard work and dedication to making our region's roadways safer," said Chief of Police Dana Kammerlohr.

"Drunk driving is more than a reckless choice by a few individuals," Chief Kammerlohr said. "Each year, drunk driving costs the lives of thousands on America's highways. In 2012, 230 people died in Missouri crashes involving impaired drivers. That worked out to be about approximately one impaired driving fatality every one and a half days."

During the 2012 Christmas holiday in Missouri, 12 people were killed in motor vehicle traffic crashes involving impaired drivers or motorcycle riders.

The Cassville Police Department joined forces with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and nearly 10,000 law enforcement agencies across the country in this year's "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign.

Lady Cats defeat Hollister

Rachael Freeman

The Cassville Lady Cats traveled to Hollister Tuesday and brought home their second win of the season.

Cassville's offense came together for four quarters and were able to push through for a sound 43-27 victory over the Lady Tigers.

"I thought the girls did a good job of extending the lead even though our point guard, Raeghan Blisard was out in foul trouble," said head coach Chris Shore.

"Our post player, Britani Long, had a good night offensively, scoring 15 of her 19 points in the first half.

"Raeghan ended with 14 only playing a little over half of the game," said Coach Shore.

"Hollister made a run at us in the third quarter but the team handled it well and responded by a solid run in the first part of the fourth quarter."

Also scoring for the Lady Cats: Brooke Fields 4, Katelyn Pitts 3 and Devyn Callahan 3.

The Lady Cats will travel to Mt. Vernon for a Big 8 Conference match-up on Thursday.

Purdy gets win over Diamond, falls to Seneca

Rachael Freeman

Last week, the Purdy Eagles traveled to Diamond to take on the Wildcats. As the first quarter ended with both teams tied at 10 points, the Eagles had an offensive surge in the second quarter putting up 20 points to Diamond's 10.

After the half, the Wildcats stepped up their intensity and were able to bring the game within four as they entered the last eight minutes of the game.

The Eagles quickly diffused Diamond's third quarter spark allowing Purdy to hold on for the 69-59 victory over the Wildcats.

Purdy's Brent Cornman lead all scores with 30 points in the match-up. Alex Mareth was also in double figures with 14 points.

Other scores for the Eagles were: Andrew McCormick 9, Kelton Mattingly 8, Robby Moody 5, Jonatan Salazar 2 and Raul Garcia 1.

The Eagles were unable to carry over the momentum to Tuesday night's game against Seneca as they fell to the Indians 62-51.

Mareth lead offensively for the Eagles scoring 25 points in the loss.

Other scores for the Eagles were: Mattingly 7, McCormick 5, Salazar 4, Cornman 4, Garcia 4 and Moody 2.

The Eagles will travel to Pierce City on Friday. Game time is set for 5:30 p.m.

Heart of America Dairy Expo Jan. 23-25

The program for the Heart of America Dairy Expo, presented by Hiland Dairy Foods, is now set for January 23 through 25, 2014, at the Ramada Oasis Hotel and Convention Center in Springfield. The Expo is a regional dairy meeting open to all dairy farmers and allied industry.

"We have an outstanding line up of nationally known speakers on dairy coming to our second annual Heart of America Dairy Expo.

Kicking off our program on Thursday evening, January 23, at our Early Bird Seminar is National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) CEO Jim Mulhern," says Expo Chairman and dairy farmer Larry Purdom of Purdy. "Jim will address current Farm Bill discussions on dairy policy and the ongoing 12-nation Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) trade agreement.

"Friday's program starts at 9:30 a.m. with "Trouble shooting Mycotoxin and Production Problems at the Farm Level" with Randy Asher of Animal Science Consulting sponsored by Alltech. Following him will be Dr. Dan Tracy, DVM MS, Technical Services Veterinarian, Multimin USA, on "Trace Mineral's Role in Successful Dairy Production".

"Friday's Pork Chop Luncheon, sponsored by Hiland Dairy Foods, Missouri Agribusiness Association, Missouri Pork Association and the Missouri Soybean Merchandising Council, will feature guest speaker Dr. Adam Lock of Michigan State University with his presentation on "Milk and Dairy Products in a Healthy Diet: Myth and Reality" sponsored by Central Life Sciences," says Purdom.

"After lunch, Dr. Jim Quigley, Technical and Research Manager, Calf & Heifer, Provimi North America, will cover "Formulating Diets for a Moving Target-The Developing Rumen", sponsored by Cargill Animal Nutrition and Vigortone.

"The Expo program also includes the annual meetings of the Missouri Dairy Association, Missouri Dairy Growth Council, Missouri Holstein Association, Missouri Brown Swiss Association, Missouri Guernsey Breeders Association, Missouri Jersey Cattle Club, Midwest Milking Shorthorn and the Missouri Ayrshire Association," says Purdom.

"Last year, we drew 400 attendees from 10 states. We have the largest dairy trade show south of Madison and Sioux Falls," says Dave Drennan, Expo Sales Manager

"Registration is free for dairy farmers and their families with a nominal registration fee for allied industry representatives. All dairy farmers and allied industry, regardless of state, are invited to attend.

"The Ramada Oasis Hotel and Convention Center offers a convention hall which will house over 50 dairy exhibits and equipment inside. The Ramada is conveniently located on the north side of Springfield at Glenstone and Interstate 44," says Drennan.

"We also don't want travelers to forget that Branson is only 45 miles away from Springfield so we hope they plan a trip and enjoy all Missouri has to offer," concludes Drennan.

Meal reservations are requested and may be made by viewing www.heartofamericadairy.org for more details and the complete Expo schedule.

Sleeping room reservations may be made by calling the Ramada Oasis Hotel and Convention Center directly at 417/866-5253 or 888/532-4338 and ask for the Heart of America Dairy Expo room block.

Captain Gracy distinguished for Air Force performance

Capt. Jeremy S. Gracy

Captain Jeremy S. Gracy distinguished himself in the performance of outstanding service to the United States as Air Mobility Operations Flight Commander, 36th Mobility Response Squadron, 36th Contingency Response Group, 36th Wing, Andersen Air Force Base, Guam. During this period, Captain Gracy's exceptional leadership of 50 Airmen across 24 Air Force Specialty Codes was crucial during two multinational exercises, three theater-wide engagements and 15 mobility support operations.

As a deployed operations officer, his in-depth knowledge of airfield operations proved pivotal during two COPE NORTH Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief exercises, resulting in the first-ever integration of United States, Korea, Japan, and Royal Australian Air Forces during the execution of 7 airlift missions from an austere landing zone, supporting the movement of 112 personnel and 275,300 pounds of cargo.

Furthermore, Captain Gracy was selected by the 422nd Joint Tactics Squadron to author the Air Force Contingency Response Tactics, Techniques and Procedures manual for Airfield Assessments. In support of Presidential talks, he flawlessly led the Bali airlift support team, servicing 14 aircraft and the movement of 699,000 pounds of cargo and 333 passengers.

Finally, as the squadron's acting Director of Operations, Captain Gracy proved invaluable as the 36th Contingency Response Group's liaison to Task Force Talon, ensuring seamless site coordination during the first operational deployment of the Army's Terminal High Altitude Area Defense surface to air missile system in response to heightened tensions with North Korea. The singularly distinctive accomplishments of Captain Gracy reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

Barry County Health Department Food Service Report

The Barry County Health Department divides food service code violations into two categories: critical and non-critical violations.

Critical violations are more likely than other violations to contribute to food contamination, or illness and/or injury.

Non-critical violations, although important to the overall hygiene of the establishment, do not necessarily present an immediate threat to food contamination or illness and/or injury.

A report for each establishment that is inspected shows the number of critical violations, along with a short statement as to the nature of the violations. The report also shows the number of non-critical violations but doesn't list the nature of those violations.

Keep safety on standby.

A standby emergency generator is convenient during a power outage, but only if it's installed and used safely. Never connect a generator directly to household wiring without the help of a licensed electrician. Voltage feedback from improper installation could electrocute co-op members or line crews.

Keep generators outdoors and install a carbon monoxide detector in nearby inclosed spaces. And always keep children away from generators. Ask your co-op for more advice on operating your generator safely.
