MDC allows permit images through mobile devices

The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) announces that Missouri hunters, anglers, and trappers may use electronic images of permits on mobile devices as legal, valid permits beginning July 30. Prior to this, hunters, anglers, and trappers had to have paper copies of permits on them when pursuing these activities.

For fishing permits and most hunting permits, an electronic image of the permit -- such as a PDF (Portable Document Format) -- on a mobile device will be sufficient. The exceptions are for deer and turkey permits.

Use free MO Hunting mobile app for deer and turkey permits

Deer and turkey hunters must void their permits after harvesting related game animals and report their harvests using the Telecheck harvest reporting system. A simple electronic image of those permits is not sufficient to complete this process. MDC's free MO Hunting mobile app takes care of these requirements.

MO Hunting enables Missouri hunters, anglers, and trappers to purchase, view, show, and store current hunting, fishing, and trapping permits and associated details. It also shows permits purchased during the previous year. MO Hunting also lets deer and turkey hunters electronically void their permits and Telecheck their harvests directly from the app. MO Hunting even uploads Telecheck confirmation numbers back to the mobile device and enables hunters to view details on all deer and turkey they have previously checked.

MO Hunting is available in the Google Play and iTunes stores. Get MO Hunting and learn more about the app at mdc.mo.gov/mobile/mobile-apps.

Deer and turkey tagging still required if hunters leave game

August a prime time to plant veggies in SWMO

The first two weeks of August are appropriate times to plant some garden vegetables in southern Missouri according to Robert Balek, horticulture specialist with University of Missouri Extension.

"Specific varieties can be planted by seed, or by setting out starts," said Balek.

Garden soil should be prepared for planting. In established gardens, some additional fertilizer may be needed, especially if crops or excessive weeds have been removed from the site previously this season.

Balek recommends choosing your fall garden selections wisely.

"Some vegetables are best planted in spring and early summer and require the longer season, or warmer temperatures to provide a good yield. However, there are certain varieties that can provide a rewarding yield when planted in late summer," said Balek.

Individuals can jumpstart their fall garden by setting out plants like broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, and Brussel sprouts.

"In southern Missouri, these are best set out in early to mid-August after some summer heat has passed, and the cooler weather will soon be upon them," said Balek. "August plantings of these varieties are typically higher quality than spring plantings due to cool fall weather."

Other vegetable crops can be directly seeded into the soil.

Snap bush bean varieties recommended for fall planting include Contender, Provider, Derby, Strike, Tema, Tendercrop, Top Crop, and Purple Queen. Half-runner types include Mountaineer, State, and Striped. Wax bush bean varieties include Cherokee Wax, Gold Crop, Slender Wax, Gold mine, Gold Rush, and Eureka. Other bean types or varieties may not produce in a fall garden.

Beets and carrots can be started from seed for a fall garden, with success. Sweet corn can yield if planted before Aug. 15.

Salad greens for fall planting include Loose-Leaf Lettuce, Butterhead Lettuce, mustard, and spinach.

For more information, visit www.extension.missouri.edu and type "vegetable planting calendar" in the search box, or locate publication G6201.
