Get to Know Your Presiding Commissioner Candidates; Election Aug. 2

Steve Blankenship

Drew Henbest

Chad Johnson

Ezra DeVore

Put broadly, the presiding commissioner is the pocket-book of a county.

The individual elected to this position has complete authority in authorizing expenditures of their county. Therefore, the presiding commissioner's signature on a document is, in essence, the signature of the county.

With the previous Presiding Commissioner for Barry County, Gary Youngblood, not seeking re-election, three candidates are now campaigning for the position: Steve Blankenship, Drew Henbest, and Chad Johnson.

The role of presiding commissioner is very important, as they are tasked with representing the interests of the entire county, maintaining an open ear to the concerns of the public, and ensuring that they are heard and addressed. The presiding commissioner works alongside the other two district commissioners, with equal voting power.

However, there are two primary functions that differentiate this role from the two district commissioners. The first is that the presiding commissioner will be in charge of leading commission meetings. This responsibility is far more strenuous than possibly assumed, as it requires unparalleled awareness of crucial county-wide infrastructure issues and other county matters.

Secondly, the elected candidate is the architect of a county's expenditures. The presiding commissioner occupies the role of official chief executive officer of the county, regarding the signing of payments and contracts.

Local elections rarely draw similar attention as national elections, though local elections offer citizens a way to directly affect your county and your town.

Steve Blankenship
Age: 57

City of Residence: Jenkins

1. What do you feel Barry County’s largest concern is? How would you face it?

The largest concern I can see right now is the economy as a whole. $5.00 gas & diesel plus rising inflation could possibly slow tourism, which could result in lower sales tax revenue, which in turn hurts the county budget.

I believe the best way to face it is consulting with each of the elected officials and evaluating everything in our budget together as we go.

2. How will you promote positive relationships with all other county offices and officials?

The first thing to promote is positive relationship with the other county officers and officials to keep good open communication and stay up with what they need to do their jobs and work with each of them.

Correction:

In the June 15, 2022, issue of the Barry County Advertiser, it was incorrectly stated that the donors for the Southwest Class Reunion of 1972 were listed in that edition of the Advertiser. In fact, the donors were listed in the June 9, 2022 issue.

3. What is your opinion of the present budget, and what changes, if any, would you make if elected?

I feel the present budget is pretty solid, we have a little surplus and since the law enforcement tax passed I believe the county is in pretty good shape.

I stated in my concerns we will have to keep a close eye on our revenue since all the county budget is based on sales tax and that could be drastically reduced if the people don't have money to make purchases, and low tourism could affect the revenue coming in.

4. If elected, how would you maintain awareness of concerns facing all demographics of the county?

If I am elected I want to be open and available to the people of this county and listen to each one's concerns. I will do my best to get to know the people and do my best to help, although I realize I won't be able to please or make everyone happy.

5. What changes, if any, would you make to the office of Presiding Commissioner?

To start off, I would not be making any changes until

I learn the job to figure out what changes, if any, need to be made.

Chad Johnson
Age: 35

City of Residence: Eagle Rock

1. What do you feel Barry County’s largest concern is? How would you face it?

There's not one thing that I would consider the largest concern in the county but a few things that are no secret to citizens. The substance abuse in the county is very disheartening. We need to do what we can to combat substance abuse and protect our citizens. We live in a great area, but we aren't immune from bad things happening.

2. How will you promote positive relationships with all other county offices and officials?

I enjoy serving my community, and if elected, my goal is to visit every county employee, and tour every county facility. I will hit the ground running, be available and have an open-door policy. I want to listen to the other officials, not just talk.

3. What is your opinion of the present budget, and what changes, if any, would you make if elected?

I would preserve our fiscally responsible County Budget. My responsibility would be overseeing administration of the day-to-day office, represent County interests at state and federal levels, manage budget and finances.

4. If elected, how would you maintain awareness of concerns facing all demographics of the county?

Answered with question 2.

5. What changes, if any, would you make to the office of Presiding Commissioner?

The county needs certain improvements. I believe there is a lot of grant money available for this. Having someone in the office with knowledge of grant writing, and the skills it takes would be very beneficial in acquiring funds for the county. Number one goal would be improving our infrastructure while keeping taxes in check.

Drew Henbest
Age: 27

City of Residence: Cassville

1. What do you feel Barry County’s largest concern is? How would you face it?

I think the largest concern at this time would be the jail project. My focus would be to make sure it comes in on time and on budget, and then address any needs that arise because of it.

The county desperately needs is road district reform. We've got 26 independent road districts in the county, we are a very large county, but we don't need 26. I'd like to get that into a 8 - 10 range. We've got a lot of small districts with a lot of money, and a lot of large districts without any money, and that's something I'd like to try to get on the ballot, so we can help more people with the roads.

2. How will you promote positive relationships with all other county offices and officials?

I would just keep an open dialogue with everyone. One thing that I would like to do would be to post in the paper, and online, a quarterly report, with reasoning. That way, there's more engagement with the community itself. There are a lot of people who don't know why the commission is doing things the way they are. Then the same with those above me, at the state and federal level, just making sure I'm informed with what's going on on the state level, and what our needs are down here.

3. What is your opinion of the present budget, and what changes, if any, would you make if elected?

There are no large holes in the budget that I've seen. One thing that I am interested in seeing is, recreational marijuana is on the ballot for this November, and if that passes, the county can levy up to a 3% sales tax. That would be a big boom to the county's finances. Something I'd like that money to go to is more mental health initiatives.

4. If elected, how would you maintain awareness of concerns facing all demographics of the county?

I did notice that this county lacks any kind of website with information. That's something that I think on a government level, that's something we should invest in, so people know what's going on in the county.

5. What changes, if any, would you make to the office of Presiding Commissioner?

More transparency would really be the bottom line. Letting people know what's going on and why, your reasoning behind making that decision.

Letter to the Editor

How long are we as citizens Cassville going to have to live with weeds growing all around the square, around the old Westco building, the curbs on Main street, and on nearly every corner of town? One of our senior citizens was walking the town pulling weeds and picking up trash. Thank you so very much, but this should be the city maintenance job. If it's not in their job description, it should be. How long are we going to see the ditches on 11th street overgrown, full of rocks, and unable to see to turn a corner. I can name all these places, but we have a city manager, and workers that should be driving around noticing all this and fixing it.

How long are people allowed to live with all their belongings on the outside of their house? Renters or homeowners, this is surely against our ordinances, if not, write an ordinance. It makes the property value of those around decrease in value. Refrigerators left outside can be a death trap for any child who gets inside and can't get out. Townsend street looks terrible in certain areas.

How long is our square going to look like Ukraine?

How many months or years will it take to remove the old theater? At least clean up the debris around the building, and fix the tacky orange mesh around. How long is the hole the city made at Lake Road Drive and Maple Ridge Drive going to be gravel, and not completely fixed?

How long are homes that are vacant able to go without the yard being mowed? How long are homes that are vacant, or half burned down, going to continue to stand? At one meeting council said they were going to start tearing down old buildings. Some of these buildings are the home on Mountain Street that is nearly burned down, and the old bar known as "Memories/Possum House" off main street, that has been closed for years. How long are we going to be told the streets are going to be repaired and are not?

14th Street is a terrible street in need of repair with many others. It seems Old Exeter Road is constantly being resurfaced, and I realize it is heavily traveled, but it's not the only road in town that needs attention.

How long are we going to be told the old clay pipes are being replaced, but areas are collapsing in town because this hasn't been done? How long has the building at 815 Main Street needed upkeep and painting? If you don't have ordinances for this, write them. This is your job. Determine what color owners can paint the buildings, and they will have to abide by that ordinance. Clean up the property, or tear it down. How long has Presley and 14th street been so overgrown that you can't see at the stop sign? How long can vacant lots that are for sale go unmowed? The list can go on and on.

We need a City Manager and City Council who are for us, the people of Cassville! Take charge, write ordinances, or enforce the ones we have, to show us you are taking care of business. Repair and mow areas as mentioned above, fix the streets like you said you would be doing.

We are the entrance to Roaring River where many tourists come, and surely wonder why Cassville looks like it does. It should be a charming place with people wanting to return and tell others about Cassville, Missouri. Our town was once a beautiful, quaint place that people loved and took care of their property.

We were proud to call

Cassville home! Are you now? Drive around and check it out. See what I am talking about. It can be so much better.

From the Roots Up

Greetings friends!

As I drive around town I see gardens thriving. If yours is not in its not too late. There are still plenty of tomato and pepper plants in the garden sections of Walmart, Lowes and Home Dept. I saw watermelon, squash, eggplant, and plenty of herbs. Plants are pricey though. Best way is to just buy seed and grow your own. Its too late to plant tomato and pepper seeds but you still got time to plant squash seeds, bean seeds, corn seeds, carrots and beet seeds, pumpkin and melon seeds. These will be ready to harvest in the fall. I plant beans every 2 weeks all summer long. Some of my best green beans have been planted in August. After the first of July it will be too late to plant melons, pumpkins and winter squash. They take 90 to 105 days to mature and we wont have that many days before our first frost. There is a reason why the old timers ate so many green beans. They are easy to grow, easy to can and have a short growth time. I have a friend who told me once if his mom did not can 200 jars of green beans each summer she was concerned how she would feed her family. His job was to cut the firewood and feed the open fire that she canned over. Just think of that! I tell you our ancestors were tough people. Today we have pressure canners that we just fill and turn a dial on the stove to preserve those beans while sitting in an air conditioned house watching the pressure gauge. 25 minutes and the beans are done. Easy work compared to our ancestors.

So if your garden is planted you will need to water it to keep it alive. Try to water as early in the morning as possible. Try to water deep and slow so the roots will grow down to find moisture. Strong, deep roots make better plants. Try to water at ground level. Getting the leaves of the plants wet can cause all kinds of plant diseases which can either kill your plant or greatly reduce the harvest. Do not spray from overhead with sprinklers or a nozzle. I really like soaker hoses. They are inexpensive and last several years if taken in after gardening season is over. By using a faucet splitter and hooking up 2 to 4 hoses from the same faucet you can water with multiple hoses. I use a regular hose to get to the garden then attach the regular hose to the soaker hose which I leave laying on the ground under the leaves all summer. Another option is to use plastic milk jugs or juice bottles with holes in the bottom, fill and let them soak down slowly. I pull the mulch back just a little bit and set the container right on the soil. Raised beds and container gardens need to be watered daily whereas in ground gardens needs a deep soaking once or twice a week. Enjoy gardening this week!

Farm management news and notes from MU Extension

Farm work in Missouri has hit its stride. The following news and notes from University of Missouri Extension can help you keep yourself, your farm and your family and business relationships healthy during this demanding time of year.

Gauge a fair rate to pay for custom farm services

Knowing whether to own farm equipment or hire a custom operator to apply pesticides or other inputs often comes down to cost.

If you hire a custom operator — maybe a neighbor or custom applicator — you can use MU Extension’s publication on survey-based custom rates for farm services to gauge an appropriate rate to pay.

The most recent survey found that chemical application costs in Missouri ranged from $5 to $8 per acre and averaged $7 per acre, says Ray Massey, MU Extension agricultural economist.

Missouri will conduct another custom rates survey this year. To download the current “Custom Rates for Farm Services in Missouri” publication and stay informed about this year’s custom rate survey, go to mizzou.us/CustomRates20.

Monitor mental health as farm responsibilities ramp up

When raising crops and livestock, farmers can experience many stressors that are largely beyond their control. As you manage heavy farm workloads, check in with yourself and your loved ones about the importance of personal health and well-being, says Joni Harper, MU Extension county engagement specialist.

To help manage stress, you can enroll in the Skills for Psychological Recovery for Farm Stress program from the University of Missouri’s Psychological Services Clinic.

The program helps farmers, ranchers and their immediate families cope with anxiety and stress related to farming and ranching. Participants can receive as many as five free teletherapy sessions that focus stress-reduction skills. To request telehealth services, go to muext.us.

us/RuralTelehealth.

Access more mental health resources at muext.us/ShowMeStrongFamilies.

Four steps when communicating with farm landowners

Communication can make or break a relationship between a farm tenant and farm landowner. MU Extension agricultural business specialist Karisha Devlin suggests that farm tenants take four steps to communicate well with landowners.

1. Assess how often landowners would like to receive updates. Maybe it’s monthly or seasonally.
2. Select a communication channel that you and the landowner feel comfortable using. You might consider an e-newsletter or social media posts.
3. Share about topics that interest the landowner. Examples include crop progress summaries, management practice changes and weather updates.
4. Keep the presentation simple. Use easy-to-read words and fonts, and create a design that doesn’t detract from your message.

Get more ideas for farm tenant-landowner communication at muext.us/CommunicateWithLandowners.

Plan for marketing your hay crop

For the most part, producers who sell hay must create their own markets rather than rely on elevators or other agribusinesses to buy their crop. If you’re raising hay as a crop to sell this year, make a marketing plan now, says MU Extension county engagement specialist Jason Morris.

Your marketing plan should identify the buyers you want to reach, such as cattle producers, horse owners, hay brokers or industrial users. Certain buyers may look for a certain type of hay, such as fescue, clover or alfalfa.

When pricing hay, consider the volume and nutritional value of the bales you sell. Test hay samples for quality and use that information in your marketing messages. Find more information about hay marketing at muext.us/MarketingHay.

Make time for three types of farm meetings

As you plan the second half of 2022, MU Extension agricultural business specialist Wesley Tucker recommends scheduling three types of farm meetings. Blocking time on your calendar for these meetings can improve your farm’s communication and increase its productivity.

Operating meetings. Schedule operating meetings every week or every day to create agendas and set goals for each farm employee.

Family business meetings. At regularly scheduled family business meetings, include everyone involved in day-to-day farm operations. Meet at an off-site venue, and use the time to clarify responsibilities and roles within the business, create a culture of group decision-making and plan for the future.

Family council meetings. Host an annual family council meeting to allow all family members — even those who work and live off the farm — to learn about the family business and issues that affect the family.

Watch Tucker explain more about these types of meetings and other family business communication best practices in a video at muext.us/FamilyMeetings.

DON'T GO RETRO.

An old-school fusebox might still function adequately, but it lacks the safety features that are built into modern circuit breakers. If your home or other building still has one of these antique devices, it's time for an update.

Consult a qualified electrician for a complete review of your electrical wires and fixtures, and replace any outdated equipment that no longer meets safety specifications. Your electric cooperative can also provide guidance and assistance.

Haven of the Ozarks: Pet of the Week

Meet Wanda, the Haven of the Ozarks Pet of the Week! Wanda came to the Haven with her siblings and mom when she was only a few days old. She likes to spend most of her time hanging out on a cat tree or windowsill in the sun. When she's not doing that, she's running around jumping and playing with her littermates. Wanda uses a litterbox, likes people of all ages, and is at a great stage to adapt well to nearly any home. Come meet her soon because even a nice shelter is no place for babies to grow up! The Haven is open 9-4 each day, and each adoption allows us to save another life. DOB: 03/13/2022

Couple Celebrate 50 Years of Marriage and Service

Ivy Flippo

On June 27, 1972 Rickie Allen Carter and Connie Sue (Gregurek) Carter were wed in Port Lavaca, Tex. They spent their first few years of marriage in Texas, but by 1976, decided they wanted to move to the Ozarks region of Missouri, and fulfill their dream of becoming hillbillies.

Upon their move to Washburn, they found and bought their land from Stanley and Ida Mae Garbinsky. On this land was a hollow named Fate Hollow, after Fate Mahurin. The lake was not yet there (that will come later in our story), just the springs flowing into a simple swimming hole nestled in the woods.

They arrived in April and set up camp, literally.

They proceeded to camp for eight months on a flat area just above a waterfall. Now, moving from south Texas to Missouri and camping for eight months, you know they endured some shocking temperatures and weather, but they were dedicated to the dream and persevered.

Over time they built their dirt floor home just up the hill and carried buckets of water from the spring to have water in the home. There they had three children: in 1979 Christopher, in 1982 Ivy, and in 1983 Erin.

On February 29, 1984, a fire took the home, which by this time had a floor and 2 additions, but their family was spared when Christopher, their eldest son, woke up. The hair on the back of Rickie's head was singeing as he got his family out to safety. With snow on the ground, no shoes on their feet, only the clothes on their backs, and their babies in their arms, they were grateful to be alive.

As time passes, a new home is built. Along with Rickie's dream to become a hillbilly, he also had a dream to turn the swimming hole into a lake. In 1986, work on the lake began. Rickie bought a bulldozer and began pushing dirt to form the dam, creating a crater for the springs to fill. It became their oasis in the Ozarks. The family gathered and played here for many years. In the early years, they referred to it as Fate Hollow Lake.

If you are familiar with Faith Hollow Lake, you know it's much more than a simple swimming hole. So, how did it get to where it is today? The cabin, tabernacle, playground? We need to go back and explain a little further.

After the fire, Connie knew God had spared her family from the fire. Having grown up Catholic, Connie knew about God. At work one day, an 18 year old young man, Gerald, began witnessing to her, he asked her if she was saved and when she responded with, "Yes, I'm saved, I know who Jesus is," his response shocked her, he said, "Even Satan knows who Jesus is - but do you know Jesus as your personal savior?" Along with some further witnessing and explaining to her about salvation, Connie wanted to learn more about Jesus. She found Mountain Bible Church and started attending. Connie accepted Christ as her savior, and she and the children attended church for years while Rickie stayed home, worrying, fretting and dreaming.

Finally, one day, Rickie said he would go to church with the family, "Just one time," but when he arrived at the church, he felt loved, not judged. Was hugged, not pushed away. He felt the spirit and felt like that was where he belonged.

Over time, Rickie, as well as their children, accepted Christ as their savior. The church attended summer church camp in Cass, Ark., which Connie was excited to be a part of. Rickie on the other hand, was volunteered he would be helping out. Once Rickie arrived at church camp and began seeing these children filled with joy and hearing the message of Jesus, God turned Rickie's dream into a vision: to turn the lake into a church camp!

Rickie was in his 40s before he heard about Jesus and accepted him as his Savior. He wanted to make sure to tell as many kids as he could about Jesus while they were young so they could have the hope and peace Jesus brings throughout their childhood and into their adult lives.

In 2002, the cabin was complete enough to hold the first day camp. No doors, windows or insulation but there were 30 campers that came each day to hear about Jesus and have fun while doing it! Over the years, the cabin was completed, the kitchen was added, and the tabernacle was built. They have had day camp for over 20 years now, reaching yearly totals of up to 100 campers each year. They have been able to plant the seed of salvation in over 1,000 children's lives. God sure has brought them a long way!

In the early years, the property was referred to as Fate Hollow. After coming to know Jesus and the instilling of the vision for the camp, it was renamed to Faith Hollow Lake. Although they knew it was Mr. Fate the hollow was named after, they wanted to make sure others knew, it was their Faith in God that brought them here, and not simply fate.

Their faith in God has not only grown their ministry but held their family together and poured buckets of blessings over Rickie and Connie for now 50 years. God brought them together before they even knew him because He had this incredible plan for their lives. As you

Keeping the family in the farm and the farm in the family

Successfully transitioning a family farming business to the next generation doesn't happen overnight.

University of Missouri Extension agricultural business specialist Wesley Tucker says it takes planning and "communication, communication, communication."

To help families start the succession planning process and initiate communication, Tucker and an MU Extension team will lead two-hour workshops across the state in July and August. Six of the workshops will be in-person events at various locations, and one will be held online via Zoom.

The Missouri Department of Agriculture and FCS Financial provided funding for the workshops.

Tucker says fear of conflict stops many families from pursuing succession plans, but sitting down together and communicating what everyone wants takes a lot of the angst out of the process.

"You will make some mistakes," he says. "There is no perfect plan to transition a family farm business to its heirs when you want the farm business to continue running, which is the goal of succession."

No one enjoys conflict, so we often avoid difficult conversations, Tucker says. But it's important to engage in "intentional communication" in the form of regular family business meetings.

"While it might sound foreign, the more we can separate ourselves from the family roles and treat it like a business, the greater our chances of actually making this work," he says.

The U.S. Small Business Administration found that businesses are more at risk of failure when transitioning to family members instead of people outside the family.

"Keeping the family in the farm and the farm in the family is the goal of nearly every Missouri producer," says Chris Chinn, director of the Missouri Department of Agriculture. "In order to do that, producers must be intentional and focused to prepare a succession plan that takes all parties and priorities into consideration. Navigating this process can be very daunting. This workshop will help answer questions while providing a road map for preparing a plan that works for your operation."

Unlike estate plans that start into motion after an event — typically, a funeral — succession plans should not depend on an event, says Tucker.

"If they do, then successors who have been involved in their family businesses risk that they won't be adequately compensated for their efforts if anything happens to go wrong before that event," he says.

Succession planning's focus on handing off business operations also makes it different from estate planning, which involves giving your land and equipment to your kids.

"That's easy," Tucker says. "But if the goal is to keep the farm business together, then you also need a succession plan."

Tucker says the MU Extension "Preparing for Farm Succession Planning" workshop will show farmers the path from where their businesses are today to where they want their businesses to be when they're gone. At each step in the process, the successor gains experience in management and has greater responsibility to make decisions, he says.

During this process, the role of parent transitions from chief decision-maker to chief mentor and supporter.

"Whatever you do, don't leave it for your kids to work out after you are gone," Tucker says.

Helping Hands Community Food Pantry in Eagle Rock has received a capacity building grant from Ozarks Food Harvest Grant. This grant will allow Helping Hands Community Food Pantry to expand our hunger-relief efforts for families in Barry County, serving those in need in Eagle Rock, Golden, and Mano.

The grant funding will purchase a new 3 door commercial freezer unit, a new commercial refrigeration unit, steel shelving, and computers, which will help increase our food capacity for both frozen and fresh food items and feed families in Barry County living in Eagle Rock, Golden and Mano.

Helping Hands Community Food Pantry was one of more than 70 organizations chosen by Ozarks Food Harvest to receive an agency capacity grant to assist with hunger-relief efforts.

"This grant is received at an opportune time, as we've seen a steady increase in the number of families requesting assistance to deal with economic uncertainty in the price of food, gasoline, and housing," said Tim Lower, Board President of Helping Hands Community Food Pantry.

How to Choose a Medicare Supplemental (Medigap) Policy

Dear Savvy Senior,
I'm planning to enroll in original Medicare in a few months and have been told I probably need to get a Medicare supplemental policy too.

Here's My CARD

WE PRINT ALL KINDS OF PROFESSIONAL BUSINESS CARDS AND JOB FORMS

FRIENDLY, FAST, AND AFFORDABLE!

Litho Printers
Cassville • 847-3155

Can you offer any tips on selecting one?

Almost 65
Dear Almost,
If you're enrolling in original Medicare, getting a supplemental policy (also known as Medigap insurance) too is a smart idea because it will help pay for things that aren't covered by Medicare like copayments, coinsurance and the Part A deductible.

Here are some tips to help you choose an appropriate plan.

Medigap Plans
In all but three states (Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Wisconsin), Medigap plans, which are sold by private health insurers, are available to new enrollees in eight different standardized plans. These plans are labeled with the letters A, B, D, G, K, L, M and N, with two more, C and F, that are only available to those eligible for Medicare before 2020.

Plan G is the most popular policy among new enrollees because it covers the most comprehensive range of benefits. Monthly premiums for Plan G typically range between $100 and $300, depending on your age and the state you reside in. If that's more than you're willing to pay, there are also high-deductible plans that have lower premiums but impose higher out-of-pocket costs.

For more information on the different types of plans and coverage details, including Medigap options in Massachusetts, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, go to Medicare.gov/publications and type in "choosing a medigap policy" in the Keyword box, and download their 2022 guide. Or call 1-800-MEDICARE and ask them to mail you a copy.

How to Choose
To pick a Medigap policy that works best for you, consider your health, family medical history and your budget. The differences among plans can be small and rather confusing.

To help you choose, visit Medicare.gov/medigap-supplemental-insurance-plans and type in your ZIP code. This will give you a list of the plans available in your area, their price ranges and the names, and contact information of companies that sell them.

But to get specific pricing information, you'll need to contact the carriers directly or call your State Health Insurance Assistance Program. See ShipHelp.org or call 877-839-2675 for contact information.

Since all Medigap policies with the same letter must cover the exact same benefits (it's required by law), you should shop for the cheapest policy.

You'll get the best price if you sign up within six months after enrolling in Medicare Part B. During this open-enrollment period, an insurer cannot refuse to sell you a policy or charge you more because of your health.

You also need to be aware of the pricing methods, which will affect your costs. Medigap policies are usually sold as either: "community-rated" where everyone in an area is charged the same premium regardless of age; "issue-age-rated" that is based on your age when you buy the policy, but will only increase due to inflation, not age; and "attained-age-rated," that starts premiums low but increases as you age.

Community-rate and issue-age-rated policies are the best options because they will save you money in the long run.

You can buy the plan directly from an insurance company, or you can work with a reputable insurance broker.

Drug Coverage
You also need to know that Medigap policies do not cover prescription drugs, so if you don't have drug coverage, you'll need to buy a separate Medicare Part D drug plan too.

See Medicare.gov/plan-compare to compare plans. Also note that Medigap plans do not cover vision, dental care, hearing aids or long-term care.

Instead of getting original Medicare, plus a Medigap policy and a separate Part D drug plan, you could sign up for a Medicare Advantage plan (see medicare.gov/plan-compare) that provides all-in-one coverage.

These plans, which are sold by insurance companies, are generally available through HMOs and PPOs that require you to get your care within a network of doctors.
